Half of Eligible Students Respond To Elect Shields, Holt, Dunlap As Next Year's Class Presidents

Rising AE School Seniors Cast Total of Two Ballots

Buddy Shields, a student in the School of Architecture, was elected Tuesday to be the president of the senior class during the coming school year. Elected to next year's junior class presidency was Roland Holt, and the rising sophomores chose Pete Dunlap to serve as president of their class beginning next fall. Results of the elections for class officers and Student Council representatives revealed that voting was light for the school as a whole and for the majority of the separate schools.

Ed Gothard, chairman of the Student Council Elections Committee, revealed Wednesday afternoon that in most of the contests less than half of the students eligible to vote took the time to choose the men who will represent them as class officers and representatives to Student Council. The worst showing was made in the election of the Student Council representative for the Aeronautical Engineering seniors: only two votes were cast, 5.4% of the eligible voters. By way of contrast, the rising seniors in the School of Ceramic Engineering registered a turn-out of eighty-seven percent on election day, with thirteen out of fifteen voting.

Jim Shiver, who received the next-largest number of votes in the senior class officers election, will serve as vice-president during the coming year, and John Hammond will serve as the secretary-treasurer. The new junior class vice-president is D. A. McGregor, and the secretary-treasurer is Ken Farmer. For the sophomore class, the incoming vice-president is Ben Bishop, and Richard Clement is the new secretary-treasurer.

Prize Winners

The briefcase donated by the College Inn was won by Clyde M. Kennedy, a civil engineering student. Edwin Griffith, a chemical engineering student, won the Phillip Morris Treasure Chest. The drawing was done by Pat Murphey.

Between the primary elections and the finals, a letter was sent to various fraternity groups urging the election of a chosen slate. In the following break-down of election totals, an asterisk beside a candidate's name indicates that he was listed in the letter as one of those in the favored group.

Tau Beta Pi Society Holds Mass Initiation For Sixty-Three Men

Tau Beta Pi initiated sixty-three men into its ranks at a recent meeting, and at the same time, elected officers to serve for the coming school year.

The newly elected officers of the organization are John Cain, president; George Schnabel, vice president; Bill Jett, recording secretary; Bill Turner, corresponding secretary; and Zelvin Levine, cataloguer. Cain is a junior in the School of Chemical Engineering, and is a married veteran. Schnabel is a junior in the School of Civil Engineering and is the editor-elect of the Engineer. Jett is a junior in Civil Engineering, Turner, a junior in Textile Engineering, and Levine, a junior in Chemical Engineering.

The outgoing officers, who were elected at the end of the fall quarter, are Witt Langstaff, president; Gene Franklin, vice president; Charlie Ray, recording secretary; Bill Erb, corresponding secretary; and Jim Hays, cataloguer.

William McCullough Receives Top Honor From Pi Tau Sigma

On Thursday evening, May 18, the Georgia Tech chapter of Pi Tau Sigma, scholastic mechanical engineering society, awarded Mr. William Thomas McCullough an honorary membership. Mr. McCullough is a native of Atlanta and is now vice president of the Babcock and Wilcox, Incorporated, of New York City.

Graduated Tech in 1915

After completing his high school education at Boys' High School, Mr. McCullough entered Georgia Tech from which he graduated in 1915 with a degree of bachelor of science in mechanical engineering.

Mr. McCullough began with Babcock and Wilcox in their main plant in Barberton, Ohio. After several years of engineering work, he was promoted to the position of manager of the office in Cincinnati. From Cincinnati, Mr. McCullough advanced to the head of the Pittsburgh office, then to the managership of the Chicago office. On January 1, 1948, he went to New York as vice president in charge of sales.

His initiation, along with 21 students, took place Thursday evening in the School of Mechanical Engineering. A banquet, following the initiation, was held at the Harris Dining Room, 23 Broad Street, N.W. Monty W. Korb, president of the Tech chapter of Pi Tau Sigma presided at the initiation and banquet. Mr. McCullough was the principal speaker.

Kosome Applications

Applications for Kosome, junior honorary society, will be due at noon Saturday, May 27. The applications may be obtained at the Information Desk in the Administration building and should be turned in there.

Tau Eps Win Blood Cup As All Members Donate

By Ben Martin

The members of Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity led the way in the recent Red Cross Blood Drive with one hundred percent participation and spurred the student body of Georgia Tech to more than double the record of any previous blood drive held on the campus.

In a letter to Dean George Griffin, Mildred Hegenberger, Director of the Red Cross Blood Recruitment Center, expressed the appreciation of her organization for the splendid cooperation of the students and faculty of Georgia Tech, who were responsible for the outstanding success of the Mobile Unit visit to Tech on Friday, May 12.

106 Pints Collected

This campaign was the most successful one ever held on the Tech campus. In the past thirty to fifty pints of blood were collected during a drive. Last week 120 donors presented themselves with 106 pints collected.

The blood drives, which are held on the campus twice a year, are for the procurement of blood to be sent to hospitals where patients may obtain it free of charge when their doctor requests it. The collecting, processing, and delivery of the blood is made without charge. The only expense to the patient is a small fee, for cross-matching and administering the blood, made by the hospital.

A permanent contest between fraternities on the campus has been organized whereby the organization contributing the most to each blood drive will be presented the Van Leer Public Service Award.

Trophy Donated

This award is a huge trophy donated by Mr. Frank Gordy, the owner of the Varsity and a former Tech student, himself. It will be a "floating" trophy with the winner of each contest keeping it until the winner of the following contest takes possession of it.

In addition a permanent award presented by the IFC will be made at the conclusion of each contest.

Awards Presentation

The first presentation of these awards will be made Saturday night at the IFC dance, when Tau Epsilon Phi will receive them. The fraternities closest to Tau Epsilon Phi in participation were Sigma Nu with sixty percent and Beta Theta Pi with fifty percent.

If one fraternity wins the floating trophy three times, that group will take permanent possession of the Van Leer trophy.

Co-op Voting Planned For May 30, June 2

Ed Gothard, chairman of the Student Council Elections Committee, has announced the co-op election dates. These elections are for section two of the co-op students.

Primary voting is scheduled for Tuesday, May 30, with the final polling on Friday, June 2.

All candidates are reminded that their petitions, completely signed, must be turned in to the Student Council committee by Friday, May 26.

Blue Print Schedule

The 1950 Blue Print will be distributed from the West Stands from twelve until five p. m. on the following days:

Seniors—Monday, May 22,
Juniors—Tuesday, May 23,
Sophomores—Wednesday, May 24,
Freshmen—Thursday, May 25,
All—Friday, May 26.

INTO THE HISTORY BOOKS

Election results indicate student participation is still quite low.

The election for class officers and Student Council members for the 1950-51 school year is now history. We trust that the men who have been elected will serve as commendably as the ones who have served this year.

A look at the figures reveals that 45.6 per cent of the students voted in this election. There were 1272 votes cast out of a possible 2788. The highest percentage occurred in the junior class elections where fifty-two per cent of the eligible voters cast their ballots. The senior class officer elections showed the lowest percentage with only thirty-nine per cent voting. While the percentage is lower than is desirable, still it is higher than the freshman elections this fall.

Estes Mann, president of Student Council, and Ed Gothard, chairman of the Elections Committee, planned a real campaign to pull out the votes this time. The idea was good, but it just simply did not work out. The Technique did cooperate in preparing an election extra. Great plans were laid for a two hour session of stump speeches Monday with one of the gubernatorial candidates as master of ceremonies. Then it was decided that it would be unwise to invite any such candidate on campus.

Last Friday at ten in the morning, notices were put in the post office boxes of all class officer candidates and of all junior and sophomore Student Council candidates, inviting them to participate in the stump speeches. They were told to contact Ed Gothard at Vernon 8696 in order to arrange the time of the speech. Of the forty-two candidates, only four were interested enough to do so. There is real interest for you. Tuesday there was quite a bit of action to enliven the election. Initiates of Kappa Kappa Psi, band honorary, provided music to liven up the day. Gothard, from the office of the director of public relations, used the public address system to urge all to vote.

There were, as usual, a number of infractions of regulations. Fifteen such infractions were noted the night before elections. One man was haled before Dean George C. Griffin for having his posters in improper places. The attempted bloc movement kept things lively. In general, one might say that it was an ignominious failure. Of the eighteen men pushed by the bloc, only two were elected.

Elections always constitute a tremendous job—a great responsibility. The chairman spends many hours of hard work and frequently gets little more than criticism. In our opinion Gothard has turned in a fine job this year. There were a few shortcomings in the election procedure, but in general we think that the committee is due a lot of praise.

Where the Blame Lies

A reader offers advice to students, faculty and administration.

May 10, 1950

Editor,
The Technique

Dear Sir:

It is probably rather soon for me to take my typewriter in hand and write you again so soon, but another issue has been burning holes in me recently and I am obligated to air my opinion.

For a number of weeks, we the Technique's readers have been besieged by letters from first a member of the faculty and then from a student. It is high time this "passing the buck" were halted and each side take the blame jointly. I refer to who is responsible in campus affairs.

Frankly I am burned up at the lack of understanding and reasoning on the part of the attacking students and the guilt-complex defense thrown up by the defending faculty. "Who's to blame?" A hypothetical situation is "which came first, the chicken or the egg?"

The student is seriously to blame in protecting the cheater and glorifying their own or others' ability to "get away with something". Moreover, he quite often shows (or rather reflects!) a spirit of unconcern in "extra-curricular scholastic or business activities."

The faculty member is often treasonously guilty of the lack of concern for Tech, their subject, and above all, the students' progress through college.

My advice is as follows:

TO THE STUDENT: For the privilege of sitting under the masters in education of the day, we are all obligated and equally responsible for the improving of our field of science and the betterment of this institution in any way possible. It must become a precedent at Tech to be honest above all else. Or how shall our high standing in the field survive?

TO THE FACULTY: You are the servant of every citizen of the state that operates this school and every student whose tuition pays your salary. Without them, you can not exist here! As every student is obligated to follow your instruction as did the students under Socrates, your attitude and preparation of material must necessarily command the same respect as did his. When ever a person is aware that he is being plotted against, how ever unintentional, he will put up a defense mechanism which will make that person impossible to deal with. Your classroom psychology is the foundation of the future of Georgia Tech.

TO ADMINISTRATION: Your job is the most difficult of all. Through you alone can the efforts of the others be realized. You must build up such a pioneering spirit for the improvement of Georgia Tech that petty arguments among its constituents will be lost in the motion of a great campaign. After all, "a house divided against itself, can not stand!"

Respectfully yours,
William C. MacPherson.

Eating With Flies

... is not relished by Loss.

Editor, The Technique:

I have just finished one of the typical meals served by our beloved Brittain Dining Hall. However, this meal had an added touch that I have noticed there lately; namely, flies.

I realize that it is proper to use but one hand while eating; however, I still object to being forced to use the other hand to brush away flies from my raw apple pie. I admire the iron stomachs of the little monsters, but I paid for the stuff and I resent their competition.

The T-room may be well screened; I don't know. But how about doing something for us peasants who eat downstairs? The front doors are wide open—no screens. In addition, the door on the south end is usually open, with no sign of a screen door. This door happens to open on the garbage rack, with its often uncovered garbage cans. Even Army mess halls have screen doors.

I recently made application for a room in the dorms for the fall quarter, but I indicated that I would not eat in the dining hall on a quarterly basis. What do the people around here expect us to do, with the greasy food, dirty plates, and flies in the dining hall?

There was a rather well-publicized suggestion some time ago to the effect that those of us who object could eat at the Biltmore. If I could afford it, I would.

Sincerely,
Jim Loss

Tech Thinclads to Defend SEC Track and Field Title

Crimson Tide of Alabama Favored To Dethrone White and Gold Saturday

By Bob Kimzey

Georgia Tech's track team, now in Birmingham, will participate in the annual Southeastern Conference track and field championship meet tomorrow in defense of their title. But the Techsters have little hope of bringing back to the Flats the team trophy again this year.

Minus the services of Buddy Fowlkes, who scored fourteen points in last year's conference meet, and Red Smith, distance man who broke his foot at the first of the season, the Jackets have fared less than well this season.

Were Swamped

They have won over Florida by a one point margin and over Georgia, while being upset by Tulane, Tennessee and Auburn in the SEC. North Carolina swamped the Jackets by a 81 1/6-49 5/6 score.

Last year on the Legion Field over in Birmingham, Fowlkes, the "one man team," captured the low hurdles and broad jump crowns and placed third in the two-twenty and fifth in the hundred yard dash. Smith took fourth in the mile run and placed third in the two mile event.

Bob Renshaw, Jacket middle distance man who won the half-mile run in 1948 and placed a close second to Auburn's Dickie Flournoy last year, has not been up to his usual form this season. A week after the SEC meet last May, Renshaw came back to beat Flournoy in the inter-conference meet, but he finished behind both Flournoy and Mitchell in last week's meet with the Plainsmen.

Stowers Third

If Renshaw can hit his stride this week end, he is almost sure to place, however. Tech's main hope in gaining an individual title this week rests with Johnny Stowers. Stowers placed third in the 440 yard dash last year and this season has covered the quarter consistently in less time than the winning 48.1 seconds.

Another member of the squad capable of picking up points is Jim Shiver. Jim has somewhat replaced Fowlkes in the point getting department this season, picking up twelve and sixteen points in the hurdles and dashes. Shiver took fifth place in the high hurdles in last year's conference meet.

Is Favored

The Jackets' real threat will come in the mile relay. At the first of the season Tech's baton handlers brought home the trophies for both the mile and the two mile relays from the Florida relays. The relay team has not been active in the dual meets but with such speedsters as Renshaw, Jack Patterson, Joe Ward and Stowers as anchor man, it will be favored in the mile event.

Figured to finish on top in tomorrow's meet are the Crimson Tiders of Alabama. Bama has a well rounded squad plus a sensational sprinter and hurdler in Marv Chichowski. Chichowski may well repeat Fowlkes' performance in those events.

Tide Hopes

Carl Shield, Tide weight man, has heaved the shot 51 feet three inches this year, second only to Tennessee's Meserall. Harmon Beauchamp, javelin star, and Dick Hanson, who tied for third in the high jump last year, are other Tide hopefuls.

Auburn will count on Whitey Overton to repeat his performance of a

Nine Finishes With Twin Bill Here Saturday

By Paul Berg

The Georgia Tech Yellow Jacket baseball squad goes into the last week of the 1950 season this week when it meets its ace rivals, the University of Georgia, in a three game series.

The first game will see the Jackets traveling to Athens to battle the Bulldogs on home ground Friday afternoon. The following day the Techmen entertain the 'Dogs as they play a doubleheader here at Rose Bowl field. The doubleheader is due to a postponed game between the two teams which was scheduled last Friday.

The Techsters edged the Bulldogs in their encounter last Saturday by the score of 5-4. Southpaw Buddy Thompson turned in a stellar performance allowing only seven hits. The stocky twirler gave up all the Bulldogs' hits during the first five innings, pitching hitless ball during the last four frames.

The stars for the Jackets were Red Ghildress, Bob McCoy, and Bob Bos-

Softball Play Extended As Finals Are Delayed

Intramural softball play stretches on and on as teams fail to coordinate their schedules to the best advantage. Make-up games are still being scheduled for the remainder of this week and the early part of next week. It has been announced by the Bulldog Club, however, that all games must be made up and reported by next Wednesday noon or the games would be thrown out, and the teams disqualified for championship playoffs. The schedule for the championship playoffs will be made known at a later date. It is planned for the fraternity leagues to engage in a round robin contest, so that each league champion will play three games. The two independent champions will play three games to determine the independent champion for the year.

In the ISO league, it appears that the race is now a much closer one than was indicated last week. The Glenn dormitory team has since turned in the scores for a number of their games and their record now stands at eleven won and two lost. As a result, Glenn is pushing the league leaders hard for the finish. The Rebels have two more games left to play, and can conceivably lose their lead to the Glenn team. The Rebels have a record of ten won and one lost at this writing.

Tau Ep Sweeps Three

Tau Epsilon Phi took to the field Monday and Tuesday to clear up their scheduled games and made a clean sweep of all three games. Kappa Sigma fell before the onslaught Monday afternoon to the tune of 13-4. The TEP batters got on to Ben Cunningham's pitching for the Kappa Sigs early in the game and picked up an early lead. Marty Richman pitched an easy game for Tau Ep, saving himself for the following day's double header with Delta Tau Delta.

Jack Vanderbleek was forced to give up the game to Tau Ep on Tuesday. The TEPs fielded a really hot sons, each getting two safeties. McCoy and Red Schoening were the power hitters, McCoy lashing out a towering triple and Schoening bouncing one off the scoreboard in right field for a double.

The defeat virtually knocked the hard fighting Bulldogs out of the running for the Southeastern crown. Georgia must win all its remaining games while the league-leading Kentucky Wildcats drop all theirs to gain a tie for the championship.

The Wildcats close out their season against Tennessee in a four game series. Should the Wildcats outlast the Georgians, they would meet Alabama, who appears to have the Eastern crown sewed up, to determine the SEC crown.

Pittard Undecided

Coach Joe Pittard is undecided about the hurlers for the games and is relying heavily on the booming bats of Schoening, North, Bossons, and McCoy to defeat the Bulldogs in the remaining games of the series.

The lineup will consist of Schoening at first, Pete Leonard at second, North at shortstop, and Buster Humphries at third base to complete the infield. Roaming the gardens will be George Maloof in left field, Bob McCoy in centerfield, and either Hank Childress or Gene Sedberry in right field. Bob Bossons will be behind the plate.

The doubleheader will begin promptly at 2:00 at Rose Bowl field Saturday afternoon.

team for the game, playing a very close infield game. Stan Marx clouted a home run for Tau Epsilon Phi in the fourth inning of play to give the TEPs a slight one run lead over the Delts. Vanderbleek was forced to defend his rather precarious position on the mound by demonstrating his prowess at the plate. This he did by slamming a hard-hit ball over the left-filder's head and made it count for a four-bagger. TEP won by a score of 8-6.

In the second game of the day against the Delts, Marty Richman pitched a two-hitter to win 2-0. Richman held the Delts hitless until their final time at bat, when the Delts landed two men on first. Richman's infield tightened up then, and put Delta Tau Delta out in short order, leaving both runners on base. Tau Ep garnered their two runs in the first inning by getting two runners on base and scoring them from a long double hit by Leon Sirkin.

Netmen Meet Vols, 'Cats on Road Trip

The Georgia Tech tennis team journeyed to Knoxville, Tennessee where they are engaging the powerful Tennessee Vols in a match today.

Tech has met Tennessee in a previous encounter and was subdued by the Vols. The Jackets are hoping to get an even split in the series by winning the match today.

Tennessee put on quite an exhibition in the SEC tournament. The Vols played their matches with a great deal of grit and determination but were finally edged by the University of Florida for the team championship by the score of 25 to 23. The Vols did tie with Tulane for second place and possess one of the strongest teams in the conference.

Tech's hopes in the number one match will rest on Louis King who has proven himself to be a top flight player this year. All of the Jackets making the trip will journey to Lexington where they will engage the Wildcats of Kentucky on Saturday. This contest will close the season for the Jackets.
