In-Season Interview Guidelines

Georgia Tech's players and coaches are available to the media, subject to the following guidelines:

All interview requests with players must be made through the sports information office at 404-894-5445, contacting Mike Stamus or Allison George. Please allow at least 24 hours prior notice for interviews, and we ask that media not attempt to contact players in their residences. Players are off-limits on game days until after the game.

Interviews with players will be scheduled at the sports information office, generally around lunch time, subject to the players' availability and class schedule, or after practice at the Coliseum.

Freshmen players are not available for interviews until after Tech's first regular-season game.

Calling Coach Hewitt

Media wishing to speak with Coach Hewitt are asked to set up an appointment in advance through the Sports Information Office. He also is available each Tuesday on the ACC Teleconference beginning in January.

Covering Practice

Georgia Tech's practices are closed with the exception of the final 30 minutes. Photography and videotaping are permitted during this time, subject to the discretion of the coaching staff and the sports information staff. Interviews with players and Coach Hewitt may be conducted after practice only.

Media wishing to cover practice are asked to contact a member of the sports information staff before attending, as practice starting times and lengths vary.

Georgia Tech Hotline

Georgia Tech provides an actuality service with comments from head coach Paul Hewitt, which are generally posted a day in advance of each game, and following each game. The phone number is (404) 894-5507.

Georgia Tech Satellite Feed

Beginning the last week of November and continuing through the basketball season, the sports information office will uplink a weekly satellite feed, including interviews with Coach Hewitt and Tech players, plus highlights and practice footage, oriented to the week's upcoming games.

The exact schedule of dates and times for these feeds will be announced during November. Call the sports information office for more information.

Ramblinwreck.com

Georgia Tech's official website, Ramblinwreck.com, is continuously updated with all of Tech's releases, statistics, game notes and other information. Bios and photos of players and coaches are also available. Game notes are generally posted at least 48 hours prior to the next game, while updated statistics are posted following each game.

Media Team Link

Media Team Link is a website on which you can view Georgia Tech game notes, statistics and other information in a digital format. Documents are in PDF form, which you can view online or print in high quality. Game notes are posted at least 48 hours in advance of each game, while updated statistics are posted following each game.

Log on to the Media Team Link website, www.mediateamlink.com, click the "Sign Up Here" button and complete the form. It is also necessary to download the free Adobe Acrobat software to view the documents. Documents requested by e-mail are free of charge to accredited media members. Documents can also be sent to your fax machine for a fee of 15 cents per page.

Media Credentials

Press credentials are issued to accredited members of the working media only. Working space is limited, and Children and other non-workers are not allowed.

Requests for credentials should be made in writing, via mail or fax, and on letterhead stationery at least 24 hours in advance of each game to Mike Stamus, associate director of communications. These requests are accepted from sports editors and sports directors only.

Credentials will only be mailed if time permits. Those not mailed will be left at the Gate 1 Will Call window (10th Street side of the arena).

Media Seating

Media seating is located in the lower half of section 2, which is accessible from the main concourse through aisle B, and from the media work room through suite 12, on the extreme left end of the suite area as you exit from the work room. Radio broadcast positions are at either end of the scorer's table adjacent to the team benches, and the TV broadcast position is at the courtside table opposite the team benches. Tech's primary beat writers also have seats at the TV table.

Seating in the media area is limited, particularly for conference games, and credentials will be issued based on space availability in line with Georgia Tech's credential policies.

Photo Credentials

Only still photographers and videographers on assignment are given photo passes. Admission to courtside is by photo pass only.

Still photographers may work the half baseline nearest the visiting team bench (opposite end from the tunnel) or the half baseline farthest from the Tech bench (tunnel end).

Photographers may also work opposite the team benches provided they are seated behind the gold border that surrounds the court.

At all times, photographer positions are at the complete discretion of the basketball game officials and the sports information staff. Failure to comply with their directions may result in expulsion from the arena.

Parking

Media parking is extremely limited at Alexander Memorial Coliseum. Requests should be made well in advance to Mike Stamus. Media parking is located in the O'Keefe Lot, accessible from 6th Street, one block south of Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

Media Work Room

The media work room at Alexander Memorial Coliseum at McDonald's Center is located on the second floor of the coliseum annex on the South side of the arena. Media should enter the Coliseum at the players' entrance to the Luck Building and turn left to reach the media room.

Telephones

A limited number of long distance phones are available in the media work room on a first-come, first-serve basis and require a credit card for billing.

To order your own telephone line, please call BellSouth (404-780-2800 or 800-356-3093), using Mike Stamus as the local contact for phone placement (Trey Feazell, 404-878-3005, is the contact at Philips Arena). Please specify if you wish the phone line to be on press row or in the media work room. If you wish BellSouth to provide an actual telephone, you must contact a separate office at 800-235-5273.

Press Area Services

Programs, statistics, starting lineups and game notes will be available prior to the start of each game. Complete box scores and play-by-play will be distributed to the media at halftime and at the end of the game. Coaches' quotes will be available shortly after the end of the post-game press conferences.

If you need final box scores faxed to your news organization, please submit your request to a member of the SID staff before the game.

A pre-game buffet is available for the media, beginning 90 minutes before tipoff.

Post-Game Interviews

Georgia Tech head coach Paul Hewitt and the visiting team's head coach will hold post-game press conferences in the Whack Hyder Room, located adjacent to the media work room.

Tech players will be available once Coach Hewitt has left for his post-game press conference. Tech players requested by the media will be brought to the basketball weight room, adjacent to the Tech locker room, for their interviews. The immediate area around the players' lockers and showers will be off-limits to everyone but players and coaches.

Non-conference visitor locker rooms are subject to each visiting school's policy.

Media Guide Credits

Fans may obtain copies of the 2002-03 Georgia Tech Basketball Media Guide for $20 through the Sports Information Office, 150 Bobby Dodd Way, Atlanta, GA, 30332.

Editor: Mike Stamus, Associate Director of Communications

Design: Covers inside and out were designed by Max Pigford of EBSCO Media in Birmingham, Ala.

Contributors: Allison George, Chris Capo, John Martin, Jeremy Noel, Cheryl Watts, Melissa Durley, Caroline Clayton, Wes Durham, Peter Zaharis

Cover photography: The group shot of the Yellow Jackets with Mark Price and John Salley, and the background photo of the interior of Alexander Memorial Coliseum on the front cover, were taken by Pete Casabonne, as was the official team photo on the inside back cover. The action images were taken by Pete Casabonne and Scott Cunningham.

Interior photography: Head shots throughout the book were taken by Pete Casabonne. Most of the action and candid photos are the work of Casabonne, Scott Cunningham, Stanley Leary and Jack Reimer. Other photos were taken by John Gilman, Van Martin, Gary Meek, NBA Photos and Rob Skinner.

Special thanks to Troy Peace and Peter Zaharis for helping to organize the photos of Tech players with their professors, instructors and advisors, which appear on the player bio pages, and to Pete Casabonne and Rob Skinner for being available to photograph them. Thanks also to John Salley for flying cross country to participate in the shooting of the cover photograph, to Joe Amati at NBA Photos for providing action images of Tech alumni, and to Melissa Durley for pulling a couple of all-nighters on the opponents' section.

Printing: EBSCO Media of Birmingham, Ala.

Directions To Alexander Memorial Coliseum

Going South on I-75/85: Take the 10th/14th Streets/Techwood exit (all the same). You will be exiting on Techwood Drive. Stay on Techwood until it intersects with 10th Street, and the Coliseum will be in front of you. Turn right on 10th Street off Techwood. Then turn left at Fowler Street (first traffic light).
If your press parking is in the 8th Street Lot, take the first left onto 8th Street just after the Coliseum and park in the first lot on the left. If your press parking is in the O'Keefe Parking Lot, continue one more block on Fowler and turn left onto 6th Street. The entrance to the O'Keefe Lot is on the left.

Going North on I-75/85: Take the 10th Street exit. Turn left on 10th Street and after you cross the bridge, the Coliseum will be on your left. Just past the Coliseum, turn left at Fowler Street (first traffic light). If your press parking is in the 8th Street Lot, take the first left onto 8th Street just after the Coliseum and park in the first lot on the left. If your press parking is in the O'Keefe Parking Lot, continue one more block on Fowler and turn left onto 6th Street. The entrance to the O'Keefe Lot is on the left.

Directions To the Edge Center

Going North on I-75/85: Take the Spring Street exit. Cross Spring Street and turn left on West Peachtree Street. Turn left on North Avenue (two blocks) and follow North Avenue over the interstate. Turn right on Techwood Drive at Bobby Dodd Stadium. The Edge Center is on the left at the next intersection, which is Bobby Dodd Way.

The Georgia Tech–ISP Sports Network

ON THE AIR

Play-by-play voice Wes Durham (center) and color analyst Randy Waters (right) call the action for every game with the help of producer Miller Pope (left).

Multimedia rights for the Georgia Tech Athletic Association are handled by International Sports Properties of Winston-Salem, N.C. International Sports Properties (ISP) agreed to a multi-year package to coordinate the radio broadcasts of football and basketball as well as the coaches television shows. This agreement also includes the marketing of Georgia Tech athletics through corporate sponsorship, Internet and other avenues.

Ben Sutton is the president of ISP Sports, while Jeff Salisbury is the general manager of the property in Atlanta.

Each Georgia Tech game will be heard live in the Atlanta area on Sportstalk 790 The Zone, WQXI-AM (790). In 2001, ISP and WQXI signed a new flagship agreement for Georgia Tech football and basketball in Atlanta. Atlantas sports leader, the station has been managed by Big League Broadcasting since 1997.

ISP Sports broadcast division has contracted other metro Atlanta stations who will join the network for evening broadcasts this season.

Play-by-play announcer Wes Durham and analyst Randy Waters handle the action and excitement of Yellow Jacket basketball.

Durham is now in his eighth season as the Voice of the Yellow Jackets. Named by the National Sportscasters and Sportswriters Association as the 1999 Georgia Sportscaster of the Year, Durham also handles the weekly call-in and television shows of head coach Paul Hewitt. The North Carolina native came to Atlanta after three seasons at Vanderbilt. He also has worked at Marshall and Radford in his career. A 1988 graduate of Elon, Durham is the son of North Carolina announcer Woody Durham, who is in his 32nd season with the Tar Heels.

WXIA-TV (NBC, Channel 11) sports personality Randy Waters returns for his ninth year on the network. Waters is the morning sports anchor for 11 Alive News Today. A native of Coshocton, Ohio, Waters has received numerous Emmy awards since coming to this market in 1984. The graduate of Ashland College has also worked in Pittsburgh, Louisville and Lexington, Ky.

Game engineer and producer Miller Pope returns for his seventh season. Pope is a veteran of the Tech broadcasts, having engineered games in the 1980s with announcers Al Ciraldo and Brad Nessler.

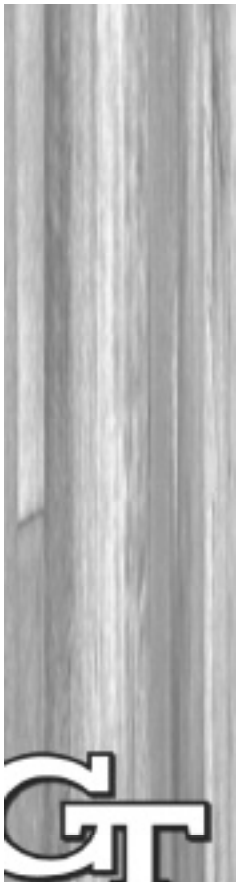
NEED TO LEAD

Perhaps Tech's steadiest player the past two seasons, Marvin Lewis (left) has made more than 38 percent of his three-point shots and 87 percent of his free throws. Robert Brooks provided a lift for the Jackets last season as a starter while Luke Schenscher was injured. Both are expected to be Tech's leaders this season.

On the Fast Track

JACKETS HOPE STRONG FINISH LAST YEAR, DEEP ROSTER WILL SERVE AS SPRINGBOARD FOR COMING SEASON



There are plenty of reasons to be excited about Georgia Tech basketball for 2002-03, not the least of which was the way the Yellow Jackets finished last season, winning seven of their last nine conference games and eight of 10 overall to end the regular season.

Also working in the Jackets' favor is that they lost only two players who saw significant minutes — sharpshooting point guard Tony Akins and forward Clarence Moore. Three players who made up the ninth-best recruiting class in the nation join the Tech team for the upcoming season, and the Jackets will be deeper than ever, despite the loss of those players.

"The way it carries over into the summer is that it gives our kids some enthusiasm," said head coach Paul Hewitt of the Yellow Jackets' finish a year ago. "Anytime you can get something positive for your efforts encourages you to go out and do more. The summer is what's going to carry over into next season. We have examples all of the time in my coaching career of kids that had great years that ended the year well, but didn't do what they needed to do during the summer so when they came back, they really took a nose-dive.

"I think the developments at the end of last season did an awful lot to encourage our guys and show that if you do the things you're supposed to do and you work hard, you can be successful; at the same time the developments at the end of last season won't have as big of an impact as you might think because of the loss of Tony Akins."

Hewitt heads into his third season on the Flats with a Tech roster almost entirely different from the one he first coached, and the makeup of his 2002-03 team fits Hewitt's full-court basketball philosophy better than ever. Because of the improved depth and size that the incoming freshman class brings, Hewitt expects this team will be vastly improved defensively.

"I think we'll be much improved in all areas - shot blocking, perimeter defense, guys stepping in and taking a charge," said Hewitt. "If there is one area that I think we will see the most improvement in, it will be the defensive end of the floor."

And while he sees tremendous potential in this group, there are challenges to overcome.

One is youth - eight of Tech's players will be freshmen and sophomores, one of them will have to replace Akins at point guard. Another is depth, a double-edged sword which is always good for coaches and fans, but not always good for players. Hewitt has effectively played 10 players each of his first two seasons at Tech, but each incoming class has been more heralded than the last. Last year's squad saw 123 of 155 possible starts made by freshmen and sophomores, and this year's team breakdown likely will be similar.

"This is going to be a deeper team than we've had in the past," said Hewitt, who enters his sixth season as a head coach two wins shy of 100 for his career. "If we can stay clear of injuries, this is easily going to be the deepest team that I've coached here at Georgia Tech.

"Anytime you have a deep ball club, there has to be a certain amount of sacrifice made by the teammates. I always tell people that coaches and players hear the word 'depth' differently, sometimes players may think of it as a dirty word. There is going to have to be a sacrifice made by this ball club and made by the individuals in order for the team to reach its full potential."

Three Starters Return

Three starters return from last year's 15-16 squad, which finished sixth in the Atlantic Coast Conference at 7-9 and missed a potential NIT berth by one win - junior guard Marvin Lewis, sophomore forward Ed Nelson, the ACC Rookie of the Year, and sophomore guard B.J. Elder, an ACC All-Freshman choice.

Lewis, a 6-4 sharpshooter from Germantown, Md., who has started 60 games in two seasons, was perhaps the most dependable performer on the team last year. He averaged 10.9 points and 4.2 rebounds a game while hitting 39.1 percent of his three-point shots and 87.5 percent of his free throws. For is career, Lewis has shot 38.4 percent from three-point range and 87.2 percent from the stripe.

"Marvin has probably been our most consistent player," said Hewitt. "But he has to improve on his ability to create shots off the dribble. The thing that will help that is when his body gets bigger and stronger he will have a little bit more quickness. The thing I keep in the back of my mind is that when Marvin came in here he was 17 years old. He's a great shooter with tremendous knowledge of the game, and about as reliable as they come on the court. He's always where he needs to be, and just a very intelligent player."

Nelson and Elder earned great respect in the ACC by the end of last season, both making the All-Freshman team while Nelson became the ninth Tech player to be named ACC Rookie of the Year.

"Steady Eddie," playing most of his minutes at center despite his 6-8 height, demonstrated himself to be a tremendous grinder throughout the season, averaging 8.5 points and 6.9 rebounds while shooting an even 50 percent from the floor. The Fort Lauderdale, Fla., native led all conference freshmen in rebounds and was 10th in the ACC overall. He will move out to a more natural power forward position this season, which will force a slight change in his game.

"[Ed] needs to improve his range as a shooter while not giving up or forgetting that he's a banger - a guy that can be very, very effective around the basket," said Hewitt. "He can certainly improve defensively and play a little further out on the perimeter. Again, he had an excellent freshman year, and he's working very hard to improve on what he did as a freshman, as I've seen him around a lot this summer."

Elder began the season coming off the bench but worked his way into the starting lineup for the final 12 games, finishing strong with games of 18 and 25 points, respectively, in victories over nationally-ranked Virginia and Wake Forest. The Madison, Ga., native averaged 9.9 points per game overall and 10.9 against the conference, while shooting 40.7 percent from bonus range against the league.

BIGGER INSIDE

ACC Rookie of the Year Ed Nelson (right) won't spend as much time battling larger foes in the post as 7-1 Luke Schenscher brings added weight and strength to Tech's frontline. The two sophomores combined to make 52.1 percent of their field goals last season.

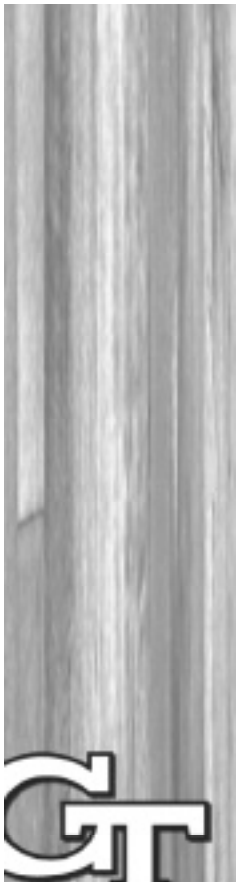
"He's probably the most complete of the sophomores in terms of defense, offense, ability to shoot, and handling the ball," Hewitt said. "But B.J. has to assert himself more physically and vocally. He sees a lot out there, he knows the game very well, and he needs to impart some of that wisdom of what he sees happening on the court to some of his teammates."

Clarence Moore, a 6-5 forward who would have been Tech's fourth returning starter, decided during the off-season to give up basketball for personal reasons. Moore, who had two years of eligibility remaining and will remain at Tech to complete his degree requirements in management, was Tech's fourth-leading scorer last season at 9.4 points per game and its second-leading rebounder at 5.4 per game.

"He did a tremendous job for us as one of our defensive leaders and as one of our emotional leaders," said Hewitt, "and towards the end of the year he became one of our more consistent three-point shooters. He's been having his struggles as far as whether he wants to commit himself to basketball, and we have been patient with him because he's gone through a lot in his young life — losing his mom, going through a coaching change, and having an injury that cost him a season. But we wish him well as he finishes out his degree here."

WING MEN

Sophomores Isma'il Muhammad (near left), B.J. Elder (middle photo) and Anthony McHenry (far right), each of whom have grown an inch and 10 pounds since last season, also will assume larger roles this season.



Bench Deep As Well

Four other players who played significant roles off the bench last year are also returning, including 6-6 forward Isma'il Muhammad and 6-7 guard/forward Anthony McHenry along the perimeter, and 6-9 forward Robert Brooks and 7-1 center Luke Schenscher in the frontcourt.

Muhammad and Schenscher made the biggest impact on Tech's fortunes last season on the defensive end, and the Jackets suffered when they missed games due to injury. Schenscher, a sophomore from Hope Forest, South Australia who led Tech in field goal percentage (58.7 percent), averaged 4.8 points and 3.2 rebounds per game, but the Jackets were 4-8 when he was out with a broken foot, and 8-5 after he returned. Muhammad, an Atlantan who averaged 7.1 points and 3.1 rebounds, missed nearly three games with a hip pointer and the Jackets lost two of those.

"Luke is putting on some weight, is becoming stronger and is improving his lateral quickness," said Hewitt. "Not only his lateral quickness, but also his ability to sprint and to backpedal to get back into position. I've always told Luke that if he's involved in the play, then he can usually make the play, and the trick is to be quick enough and strong enough to get yourself in to where the action is going on and he will execute. Luke is a very intelligent player, and he is the best passing big man that I have ever worked with.

"Isma'il plays with a lot of will and with a lot of energy, and I know that he will always do that. He's working very hard on improving his outside shot, and I tell him all the time that if he puts the effort and time in, the shot will come. A lot like 'Mo,' he's a leader, an emotional player, a great defender, and will be a tremendous part of this program in the years to come."

McHenry, a promising prep performer from Birmingham, Ala., whom Hewitt expects will surprise people this year, battled with his confidence most of the year, finishing with averages of 1.8 points and 1.3 rebounds. But he showed flashes of potential with 13 points against Cornell and a 6-point, 5-rebound effort in Tech's home finale against Wake Forest. Brooks, from Saginaw, Mich., was solid off the bench all season - 3.4 points and 4.3 rebounds per game - and gave Tech a lift in 12 starts while Schenscher was out, including a career-high 17 points against Syracuse and a 13-point, 10-rebound game at Georgia.

"Anthony McHenry is a tremendous basketball player," said Hewitt. "He struggled a little with his confidence last year, but he is just a tremendous talent. I think he's just going through a normal growth, what freshmen go through. But I think he has higher expectations of himself and that's driving him this summer to have a better year next year.

"Robert is a great energy guy. He had some games last year where he was brilliant, and he had some games last year where he struggled with his confidence. I think he'll be more consistent as he gets older and he gets stronger."

Also back are a pair of walk-ons in 6-5 senior David Ewing (Stone Mountain, Ga.), who gives the Jackets some front line bulk, and 5-9 junior David Nelson (Syracuse, N.Y.), a savvy point guard.

Freshman Class Rated High

The returning nine letterwinners alone give Hewitt a good measure of depth and experience, but the third-year coach must replace Akins at point guard, and that task will most likely fall to one of the highly-regarded freshmen.

Jarrett Jack, universally regarded as one of the top 50 high school players in the country, would appear at first glance to be better equipped physically to handle the demands of playing in the ACC, with four inches on his predecessor. But it will be very difficult to replace the quickness and shooting ability that helped Akins average 17 points and 5.7 assists last year, make the all-ACC team and become the second-leading three-point shooter in Tech history.

Jack, a Fort Washington, Md., native who played his senior year at Worcester (Mass.) Academy, averaged 20.2 points and 10.5 assists per game as a senior.

"Anytime you start a freshman at point guard there is so much that freshmen have to adjust to in college," said Hewitt. "Fortunately for us, Jarrett has been away from home for school before, so it won't be his first time away from home. There will still be the adjustment to doing this schoolwork at Georgia Tech, playing against bigger, stronger, and more physical players, and also learning a whole new system. But he's talented enough, he's worldly enough, he's intelligent enough to handle all of the things that we are going to throw at him. So I have a lot of confidence if he indeed ends up being our starting point guard, and that's what it looks like, that he can go out there and do the job.

"He's an outstanding penetrator, a very strong player, and rebounds the ball very well. He's vocal, which I love about him. He's leading all of the time, always talking to his teammates and instructing them."

Tech's biggest advancement from last season is adding depth and size to its frontcourt. Hewitt did do with a pair of talented players in 6-10 forward Chris Bosh of Lancaster, Texas, and 6-9 forward/center Theodis Tarver of Monroe, La.

"We had size last year but we have depth with the addition of Tarver and Bosh," said Hewitt. "Those are two athletic young men that will come in and give us some help on the boards, and also defending around the basket as both are outstanding shot blockers."

Bosh comes in as Tech's most highly-sought freshman since Stephon Marbury in 1995. The left-handed shooter was the player of the year in the state of Texas and the national high school player of the year by one magazine (Basketball America). He made the McDonald's and Parade All-America teams, and led his Lincoln High School team to a 40-0 record and the USA Today national championship, as well as the Texas state title.

He averaged 21.8 points and 12.2 rebounds as a senior, and showed range on his shot by hitting 45.3 percent from three-point land.

Tarver comes in with far less fanfare, but excelled at Carroll High School in Monroe, La., by averaging 18.5 points, 11 rebounds and 5.2 blocked shots as a senior, leading Carroll to the Louisiana State championship with a 34-8 record.

"The thing I like about Chris is that he's a winner, he's somebody that's very unselfish," said Hewitt. "I remember seeing him take five charges in a game, and he's the type of kid who's going to do whatever it takes to win. If that means taking a charge, he'll take the charge. He runs the floor extremely well, and he's an outstanding passer. Last year, his senior year, was actually the only year that he led his team in scoring in high school. I think he was capable of scoring more when he was younger, but it wasn't a major concern of his. Winning was a concern, and I think people saw that when his team went 40-0 and won the national championship.

"Theodis is a tremendous shot blocker and runs the floor extremely well. He's probably not quite ready offensively, but can do everything else extremely well at this level."

All three had plenty of competition this summer to prepare them. All three played on the U.S. team that won the Global Games in early July in Dallas, Texas, while Bosh earned a spot on the official USA Basketball Junior National Team that won a Bronze medal at the World Junior Championships in Venezuela.

Tech recently added a pair of freshmen, including 6-4 forward/guard Jim Nyström from Stockholm, Sweden, a sharp-shooting two-year veteran of a club team in Sweden who eases the loss of Clarence Moore, and 6-3 walk-on guard Mario West of Douglasville, Ga., an honorable mention all-state player.

With all the talented players in the locker room for Tech, it is understandable that Hewitt shies away from talk of what the Yellow Jackets' projected starting lineup will be. He has always been more interested in who finishes games than who starts, and he has been able to find quality minutes for everyone. But he is excited about this year's squad as a whole and the direction the Tech program is taking.

"This is going to be one of the smartest teams that I have ever coached," he said. "I like the kids as people, and they all have great personalities. In terms of style of play, I think it fits a little bit more. Because we're young, I know the kids are going to be around. The first time we had a group that did pretty well and they were very effective, but we just had them for one year. Then last year we had to re-teach a whole new group of guys that didn't have the benefit of college experience behind them.

"Now, we're talking about having some guys in the program that have some experience, and that can teach to younger guys, which should make their adjustment time a little shorter. From the athletic standpoint, I guess it fits a little more for the pressing, running style. But they still have to go out and play."

ACC Basketball Handbook

ACC Finish: 4th

All-ACC Choices: B.J. Elder (3rd team), Marvin Lewis (honorable mention), Ed Nelson (honorable mention)

Comments: "The added talent and the harsh lessons of last year's early tribulations could reap big dividends this winter … But talent is talent, no matter the age, and Hewitt has more of that as his disposal than at any other time during his tenure on The Flats. For the first time, he lists both depth and experience up front … They're improving. Those guys have done a great job recruiting, and they finished last year so strong. They got better as the year went along. That says a lot about their staff."

ACC Finish: 4th

National Ranking or Post-Season Finish: second round of NCAA Tournament

All-ACC Choices: Marvin Lewis (2nd team), B.J. Elder (3rd team), Ed Nelson (3rd team)

Comments: "Paul Hewitt is quietly building a future power in Atlanta … Based on the effort his players gave in maintaining their conditioning and improving other nuances offensively, Hewitt has no intention of letting this team place itself on the NCAA bubble, much less settle for an NIT bid."

All-ACC Choices: none

Comments: "Young Jackets are deep, talented and Paul Hewitt can coach … Hewitt has set the work ethic standard. In two short seasons, his veteran players have made significant strides. More important, the Yellow Jackets' player-friendly attack has attracted some of the nation's top talent. That combination is the reason many believe Georgia Tech can emerge from the ACC's mid-pack in what appears to be a transitional season for the league."

Comments: "Don't be surprised if Georgia Tech makes a run for the title. Paul Hewitt's that good a coach … The [2001-02] turnaround solidified coach Paul Hewitt's reputation as a strategist, and a recruiting class apparently prepared to fill impending needs at center and point guard should get the Jackets back in the NCAA tourney hunt."

Q&A with Paul Hewitt

What are some general thoughts you have about your team as the season looms?

"We changed some things in how we do our conditioning, and most of our guys are in a little better shape than we have been the last couple of years. That's a positive sign going in. The key for this team, since we have such a young core of players with our freshmen and sophomores, will be Marvin Lewis and Robert Brooks providing us some veteran leadership after the loss of Tony Akins and Clarence Moore. That's a lot of leadership and experience we lost."

What are your areas of emphasis?

"We need to really work on our execution and communication on the court, the little things that veteran teams do. We need to 'age' this team as quickly as possible. Communicating is going to be very important. In my experience, young players are less likely to talk on the floor."

From your individual instruction sessions and early workouts, what have you learned about your players?

"They have worked hard. They've shown improvement in a lot of areas and have gotten a lot stronger. Our guys are faster, quicker and more athletic. It shows me that these guys were committed in the off-season to coming back in better shape and more ready to play.

How different is the physical nature of your team from the one you inherited two years ago?

"We're probably a little more athletic. I think we have a ways to go before we can say we are as skilled or as smart as that team. Athleticism will certainly help us, but there is a lot of work still to do on the finer points. We're a young team, and a lot of times young players who are gifted athletically tend to try to do it all with athletic ability. These guys need to learn there is a lot more to the game than just running, jumping and being faster. We need to work on a lot of things for this team to become an NCAA Tournament team."

You can see the expectations start to rise now when you look at some of the pre-season magazines predicting your team as high as third in the ACC. Most of that is fueled by the recruiting successes you've had the last couple of years. How do you look at that?

"It's a good thing to be thought of highly. If people think you're the third or fourth best team in this league, that's a positive thing. I think it helps our players to believe that the work they put in is recognized. But, that said, we need to go out and do it. Much of that stops once the games begin."

Did the timing of Clarence Moore's decision to give up basketball force a drastic change in the way you planned for this season?

"The only thing it did change was that it got us looking for [another player] in the spring and summer. I really felt like he was going to eventually come back and play. As late as early September, he came in and talked about the possibility of playing. But his heart was not in it. It did not change anything dramatically in terms of personnel. With Theodis Tarver and Chris Bosh coming in, the emergence of Luke Schenscher and with Ed Nelson and Robert Brooks coming back, we have a full front court. On the perimeter, adding in Jarrett Jack and Jim Nyström gives us a full complement of perimeter players to go with Marvin Lewis, B.J. Elder and Isma'il Muhammad. Losing 'Mo' does hurt from a standpoint of leadership and experience. It would have been nice to have him, but it was a decision that was best for him and for us.

Do you worry about leadership with no seniors?

"Absolutely. But also at the same time, they have proved themselves to be a very mature group. The things I look for early in the year are how they approach their school work, how they approach their individual instruction, how they approach their academic advisement and study hall. They have been very mature and consistent in their efforts. I would say this is probably the smoothest preseason I have ever experienced as a head coach. Does that mean it will translate into a smooth season? Who knows? But I like what I've seen so far."

You've replaced experience with a lot of talent without experience, particularly with Chris Bosh and Jarrett Jack, who will play key roles for you.

"Those guys will certainly see considerable minutes. But I wouldn't discount Theodis Tarver, who is a tremendous shot-blocker, and Jim Nyström is a guy who can play a key role for us. The area that we will miss Clarence Moore the most, besides his leadership, is his three-point shooting. He had become a consistent three-point shooter in the latter part of the season. That's the one area I hope we can replace, his ability to make open threes. Jim is the guy right now, from individual instruction, who has a chance to be an outstanding open three-point shooter. With the guys we have and the size we have inside, he should be able to find some open space behind that three-point line.

Is there someone on this team to watch, someone whom people might not expect much from, who might blossom this year, based on what you've seen in individual instruction?

"I would guess, because Robert Brooks has been somewhat up and down his first two years, that he has a chance to become a steady and consistent performer. He has some good moments his freshman year and some great moments last year. Both years he had some down time from being physically weak and inexperienced. This year, he comes in bench pressing over 300 pounds. He's worked extremely hard on his outside shooting."

Noting the Yellow Jackets

Schedule Rugged Again

Georgia Tech's 2002-03 schedule will be typically tough, including 13 games against teams who played in last year's NCAA Championship or National Invitation Tournament. Five opponents played in last year's NCAA Tournament, including national champion Maryland, and three played in the NIT.

Among the non-conference foes are Georgia (at home) and Tennessee, Tech's opponent in the Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl Classic for Kids at Philips Arena. The Jackets visit Minnesota as part of the ACC/Big Ten Challenge and have road games scheduled against Marist, Syracuse, Tulane and Cornell.

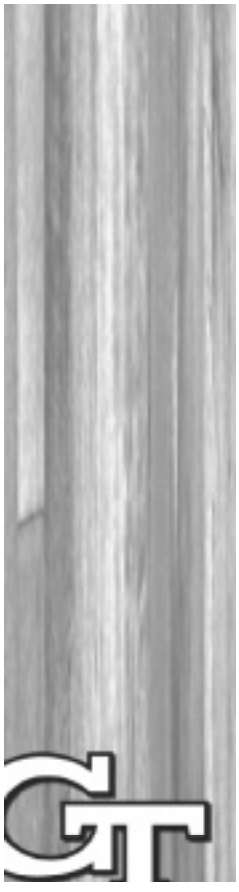
Tech's December will be spent mostly away from home, with trips to Minnesota, Marist (Madison Square Garden), Syracuse, Maryland and Tulane, as well as a game with Tennessee at Philips Arena.

Youth vs. Experience

While Georgia Tech may be short on experience, it is long on talent. Its sophomore class includes four players who were listed among the top 100 high school seniors when they signed with Tech, while three members of this year's freshman class were ranked in the top 100.

Tech was a young team last year, with only one senior playing regular minutes. The Yellow Jackets will be even younger this season, with nary a senior on the roster. Marvin Lewis and Robert Brooks are the only scholarship juniors in the program.

The remainder of the roster includes five sophomores and three freshmen. No one on the current roster played for former coach Bobby Cremins, though Marvin Lewis was recruited by the legendary Tech coach.



Bigger is Better

On average, Georgia Tech is about two inches taller and eight pounds heavier per man than the Yellow Jacket team which played in the NCAA Tournament in Paul Hewitt's first season.

Among scholarship players, Tech is actually 2.5 inches taller per man. Tech's strength and conditioning tests during the pre-season also show improvement.

Some of the highlights include:

Best vertical jump: Isma'il Muhammad (35.5 inches standing, 40.5 inches running)

Best bench press: David Ewing (420 pounds)

Lowest body fat percentage: Robert Brooks, Jarrett Jack, Anthony McHenry, Isma'il Muhammad (each 7 percent)

Highest standing reach: Luke Schenscher (108 inches or 9 feet)

Biggest weight gain since school began: Jim Nyström (16 pounds)

Nelson Voted ACC Rookie of the Year

Ed Nelson, who led Tech in rebounding, and averaged 10.4 points and shot 54.2 percent against the ACC, was named ACC Rookie of the Year following the ACC Tournament, becoming the ninth Tech player to win the award since its inception in 1976.

Nelson joined an august group of Rookie winners which includes Mark Price, Bruce Dalrymple, Duane Ferrell, Tom Hammonds, Dennis Scott, Kenny Anderson, Martice Moore and Stephon Marbury. All but Dalrymple and Moore went on to play in and distinguish themselves in the NBA.

Tech Rookies Get Noticed

Center Ed Nelson and swingman B.J. Elder both earned spots on the Atlantic Coast Conference all-Freshman team, while Nelson was voted the ACC Rookie of the Year.

Tech has had more players named ACC Rookie of the Year (9) than any other team since the inception of the award in 1976. North Carolina has had five.

With two players on the ACC all-Freshman team, Tech has had a conference-high nine rookies named to the team since 1993, when the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association began naming an all-freshman team. Duke is second with eight, and North Carolina seven.

Both players have received some pre-season mention for all-conference honors this season.

Tech Sets ACC Mark For Turnaround

Georgia Tech finished its ACC slate at 7-9 despite losing its first seven conference games. According to ACC research, that was the biggest turnaround in conference history. Tech's seven ACC wins broke the existing record of four straight wins by a team beginning the season 0-7 or worse, held by NC State in 1996-97 and Florida State in 2001-02.

The Yellow Jackets started 0-7, but lost six of those games by an average of eight points. The other loss was a 25-point verdict at Duke.

The Jackets closed the first trip through the ACC with a 77-46 home-court rout of Florida State, which started Tech's resurgence through the second half of the conference schedule. After that, Tech won six of its eight ACC tilts in February and March and added a 20-point road win at Saint Louis.

Tech defeated every team in the ACC during the season except Duke and Maryland, who handed the Jackets their only two losses after January.

Getting Better at the Line

Georgia Tech burned the nets in the last four regular-season games from the free throw line, making 65 of 79 attempts (82.2 percent). That included 37-of-43 (86 percent) in defeating Virginia and Wake Forest.

The Jackets were 10-of-10 in the second half against Virginia (15-of-17 for the game) and made its first 15 attempts of the game against Wake Forest before finishing 22-of-26.

Tech didn't fare as well in the ACC Tournament, going 13-for-23 against Wake Forest, but finished the year at 69.2 percent, which ranked fourth in the ACC and was its best percentage since the 1995-96 season.

Five Tech players hit over 70 percent from the stripe, two at 80 percent or better.

Tech Trends and Anomalies

•Paul Hewitt needs two wins to reach 100 for his career. The second-year Tech mentor won 66 games as the head coach at Siena, and is 32-29 at Tech.

•Six players who started at least two games, and nine lettermen altogether, return for 2002-03. Tech also signed three incoming freshmen during the early signing period in November of 2001.

•The nine lettermen who return accounted for 57.5 percent of the Yellow Jackets' points scored and 67.1 percent of the team's rebounds.

•Tech held 10 opponents under 40 percent shooting last season, winning all of those games. In two seasons under Paul Hewitt, the Yellow Jackets are 20-1 when holding an opponent under 40 percent. The exception: St. Joseph's in the first round of the 2001 NCAA West Regional (.393).

•Tech was 13-1 last season when shooting a higher field goal percentage than its opponent. The only loss: the first meeting with NC State. Tech was 2-15 when the opponent shot a higher percentage. In two seasons under Hewitt, Tech is 29-3 when outshooting its opponent from the floor and 3-26 when it does not.

•Tech reached 50 percent overall in a game only three times in its last 37 contests, and nine times overall in two seasons under Hewitt. Tech has shot 50 percent from three-point range six times in two seasons.

•In two seasons under Paul Hewitt, Tech has made 521 three-point field goals, the most in consecutive seasons for the Yellow Jackets since the shot was instituted. Tech's 261 three-pointers last season are the second most for a season in Tech history, and its 260 the year before tied for third, and both teams ranked second in the ACC behind Duke.

•Tech has made 37.3 percent of its three-point attempts combined in two seasons under Hewitt, ranking third and first in the ACC, respectively.

•Marvin Lewis is the top returning three-point shooter in the ACC, in terms of percentage. The junior ranked ninth last season at 39.1 percent, and all eight players ahead of him are no longer in the league.

•Ed Nelson is the third-leading rebounder returning in the conference, behind Ray Henderson of Clemson and Josh Howard of Wake Forest. At 6.9 boards per game last season, Nelson ranked 10th overall.

Bosh B'gosh

Georgia Tech freshman Chris Bosh was named to the McDonald's All-America team his senior year of high school. He is the first McDonald's all-American to attend Tech since Dion Glover in 1997 and the 13th overall. Bosh also was named an all-American by Parade magazine, and High School Player of the Year by Basketball America.

Stephon Marbury	1995
Brian Oliver	1986
Dennis Scott	1987

•Tech has attempted more free throws than its opponent in only 19 games in two seasons, and won 18 of those. Opponents have, on average, attempted four more free throws per game than has Tech in those 61 games.

•Tech averaged 8.68 steals per game (second in the ACC), compared with 7.9 per game in Paul Hewitt's first season. That was the best average in Tech history. Tech finished with 269 steals for the season, which was the second best total in its history. Tech averaged 9.0 steals in ACC games.

•In 29 of Tech's 32 victories in the last two seasons, Tech outscored its opponent in the second half, including 14 of Tech's 15 victories last season. Tech is 27-6 when outscoring its foe in the second half under Paul Hewitt.

Summer Vacation

Sophomore center Luke Schenscher took a trip to China in June as part of the Australian Boomers national team. The 7-1 pivotman from Hope Forest, Australia, however, did not make the Australian national team which will prepare for the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens, Greece.

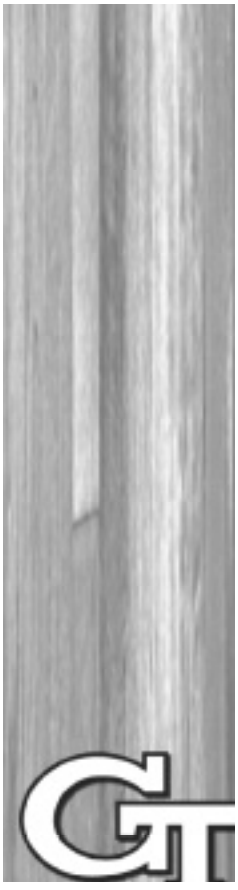
Meanwhile, junior guard Marvin Lewis and a group of college players made a 10-day tour of Great Britain in August, and incoming freshman Chris Bosh earned a spot on the USA Basketball Junior National Team which won a bronze medal in the Junior World Championships in July in Venezuela. Jim Nyström has played for the Swedish Junior National Team and has been named to his country's national team.

Bosh and fellow freshmen Jarrett Jack and Theodis Tarver were part of the U.S. team which won the Global Games in Dallas, Texas, in July. Bosh was named MVP.

Everyone Contributes

Head coach Paul Hewitt used six different starting lineups last season, when he used the same starting lineup for 29 of the 30 games. Tony Akins and Marvin Lewis were the only players to start every game last year.

Nine different players started games last season, and seven started an ACC game. Despite who started the game, however, Hewitt still used a 10-man rotation with each member averaging 9.4 minutes a game or more.



Practicing "Schenscher-ship"

Luke Schenscher made a profound impact after a 12-game absence last year with a broken foot. The Jackets went 4-8 in his absence, 8-5 after his return.

The 7-1 sophomore led Tech in field goal percentage (58.7, 64.3 in ACC games). Very thin at 214 pounds when he arrived at Tech, Schenscher had grown to 255 pounds by the time spring semester ended.

Marv on the Mark

Marvin Lewis has established himself as one of the top three-point shooters in the ACC, hitting 39.1 percent of his attempts last season, the top mark among the league's returning players. In two seasons, Lewis has an accuracy rate of 38.4 percent from beyond the arc.

The 6-4 junior also is one of the ACC's top marksmen from the foul line, hitting 87.5 percent from the stripe last season. In his two-year career, Lewis has missed just 16 free throws, going 109-for-125 (87.2 percent).

Bench Key Component for Tech

Playing with a 10-man rotation since the arrival of head coach Paul Hewitt, Georgia Tech has come to rely more heavily on its bench. It has provided the Jackets some real spark offensively, contributing a double-figure scorer in 17 games last season.

Tech's reserves averaged 22.2 points per game last season, and outscored the reserves of its opponent in 20 of 31 games.

Dialing Long Distance

Georgia Tech owns the fourth-longest active streak in the nation for consecutive games with at least one three-point field goal. Tech's streak has reached 472 games. The last team to hold the Jackets without a three-point field goal was Virginia in the 1987 ACC Tournament.

UNLV, Vanderbilt and Princeton are the only schools to have at least one three-pointer in every game since the shot was put in for the 1986-87 season.

Consecutive Games Scoring a Three-Point Field Goal

Freshman Class Ranked in Top 10

Georgia Tech's freshman class has been ranked among the top 10 in the nation, and it includes 6-10 forward Chris Bosh from Lancaster, Texas; 6-3 point guard Jarrett Jack of Fort Washington, Md.; 6-9 forward/center Theodis Tarver of Monroe, La.; and 6-4 guard/forward Jim Nyström of Stockholm, Sweden.

Bosh, the most decorated player Tech has signed since Stephon Marbury in 1995, was named to the McDonald's All-America team and the Parade All-America team. Jack was rated among the nation's top 50 high school seniors, while Tarver was among the top 100.

Tony Akins, Clarence Moore and Halston Lane may be gone, but Georgia Tech still leans a little to the left. With Chris Bosh joining the Yellow Jackets this season, Tech still has three left-handed shooters on its roster, including Isma'il Muhammad and walk-on David Nelson.

Besides Akins, some of the notable lefties in Tech's recent history include point guards Kenny Anderson and Travis Best, and forward Jason Collier.

Rand McNally Roster

Eight states and three continents are represented on Georgia Tech's roster. Three Yellow Jackets hail from Georgia, all from the Atlanta area, while Tech has two players from Maryland. Tech also has one player each from Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Michigan, New York and Texas, and one each from Australia and Sweden.

Tech in the Thrillerdome

Georgia Tech will play its 47th season at Alexander Memorial Coliseum at McDonald's Center in 2002, and the Jackets have a record of 454-158 (.741) in the building, which opened Nov. 30, 1956 with a 71-61 Tech loss to Duke. Since the beginning of the 1981-82 season, Tech is 216-57 (.791) in its on-campus home.

Tech played its 600th men's game in the facility last Nov. 28, defeating Wisconsin 62-61 after trailing by 20 in the second half. Tech's win over Cornell Jan. 2 was the 450th for the Yellow Jackets at Alexander Memorial Coliseum at McDonald's Center since the facility opened for the 1956-57 season.

The Yellow Jackets have had just two losing seasons in its home arena, and narrowly avoided a third last season, finishing the regular season 8-7 after defeating NC State and Wake Forest in its final two home games.

Georgia Tech is 120-8 against non-conference opposition at Alexander Memorial Coliseum since the beginning of the 1981-82 season, an impressive mark indeed. But three of those eight losses occurred last season to Penn, Tulane and IUPUI. From 1981 through last season, the only other non-ACC teams to win at the Thrillerdome were Georgia (Dec. 6, 2000), Penn State (March 18, 1998), the College of Charleston (Jan. 16, 1993), Louisville (Jan. 15, 1989), and Richmond (Dec. 22, 1987).

INSIDE FORCE

Luke Schenscher has gained one inch and nearly 40 pounds since his arrival a year ago, which should help Tech field a more formidable frontline this season.

Reversal of Fortune

Tech's Fast Finish Sets Stage for Successful Future

Hoping to secure a second straight post-season invitation, Georgia Tech fell one victory short, ending a five-game winning streak and its 2001-02 season with first-round Atlantic Coast Conference tournament loss to No. 3-seeded Wake Forest, at the Charlotte Coliseum in Charlotte, N.C.

But out of the disappointment of a 15-16 season arose plenty of optimism in the future of the program because of the Yellow Jackets' level of play in the final month of the season.

The Jackets finished their regular season with eight wins in their last 10 games to secure the sixth seed after beginning the conference schedule 0-7. Down the stretch, Tech defeated NC State, Virginia, Wake Forest and Florida State.

Continually improving over the course of the final month of the season, Tech defeated six teams that it had lost to in their first meeting of the season. The Jackets, who ranked near the bottom of the league in most statistical categories early in the year, finished toward the middle, including scoring offense and defense, and led the ACC in three-point percentage.

Tech concluded its ACC slate at 7-9 despite losing its first seven conference games. According to ACC research, that is the biggest turnaround in conference history. Tech's seven ACC wins broke the existing record of four straight wins by a team beginning the season 0-7 or worse, held by NC State in 1996-97 and Florida State in 2001-02.

Incorporating a group of five talented freshmen, Tech played well in stretches early, but also struggled. After a 35-point victory in the season opener against Florida A&M, Tech dropped two of three games in a tournamant in Las Vegas over Thanksgiving weekend, its conference opener at North Carolina and a road game at Georgia. In between, however, the Jackets rallied from a 20-point second-half deficit for a 62-61 home-floor triumph over Wisconsin, which went on to share the Big Ten championship.

After the loss at Georgia, Tech regrouped to rout Syracuse, the 13th-ranked team in the nation at the time, 96-80, at Philips Arena. Wins followed against Davidson on the road and Wofford at home before the Jackets stumbled in a home game against Tulane, 79-69 right before Christmas.

After the holiday, Tech was handed another homecourt defeat by IUPUI, 98-92, before recovering for an 86-68 win over Cornell to start the New Year. Then came six more conference losses, including a seven-point defeat to Clemson, a five-point loss to No. 4 Maryland and a four-point loss to No. 7 Virginia.

Once January rolled around, however, Hewitt and his players began to see promise, even though the Jackets still lost games.

THRILLERS

Above, Tech players celebrate a victory over Wisconsin in November after the Jackets rallied from 20 points behind. Marvin Lewis (opposite page) drained a long three-pointer just before the final buzzer to lift Tech over Virginia in Charlottesville.

"They could see it," said Hewitt. "It was obvious [to them] that we were playing much better basketball. That first Duke game, they took care of us pretty handily, and it would've been easy for us to put our heads down. But, especially after that first half, they came back and battled in the second half. And then they played an outstanding game here against Maryland, and were beat by an All-American in Juan Dixon, the player of the year in the ACC. But, I think from that point on they realized that, 'you know what, we've got some good things going here, we got some positive things, let's just keep plugging away and see what happens.' The thing that I kept telling them and our staff was 'hey, let's just get one.' I just had a feeling that if we could get one [victory], then we would go on a roll, and that's exactly what happened."

The Jackets closed their first trip through the ACC slate with a 77-46 home-court rout of Florida State, which catapulted Tech through the second half of the conference schedule. It was the largest margin of victory for Tech ever against an ACC opponent. After that, Tech won six of its eight conference tilts in February and March and added a 20-point road win at Saint Louis.

Tech defeated every team in the ACC during the season except Duke and Maryland, who handed the Jackets their only two regular-season losses after the end of January. Tech finished out the regular season with five straight wins, including a last-second, 82-80, triumph at No. 22 Virginia and a 90-77 triumph over No. 24 Wake Forest in its final home game of the season.

"We got to be a healthy basketball team with the return of Luke Schenscher," Hewitt said. "Isma'il Muhammad made a full recovery from his hip-pointer that really hampered him during a crucial stretch of the season for us when we lost some close, tough games. And our guys grew up; our guys got a little bit more mature. The freshman got a better understanding of the value of the half-court offense, moving the ball, taking good shots, not forcing things that a lot of times led to turnovers or bad shots that gave us poor defensive balance. So, a combination of those things, confidence, and us coming together, and it just rolled from there.

"And then, Tony Akins deserves a lot of credit for, as a senior, not turning his back on the coaching staff and the players, and not becoming a selfish player. He remained unselfish, remained a team player all the way through, realizing that he could get his numbers while helping the team improve. So, Tony deserves a lot of credit for what happened."

Akins, the veteran point guard who made the all-ACC second team, played brilliantly down the stretch, averaging 22 points and 6.2 assists in Tech's final six games. Tech's only senior, from Lilburn, Ga., the 5-11 Akins ranked eighth in the ACC in scoring (17.0), fifth in assists (5.7), second in three-point percentage (.403) and second in three-point field goals per game (3.16).

Off-guard Marvin Lewis was Tech's only other player averaging in double figures for the season and was the only other Jacket to start every game. The 6-4 sophomore from Germantown, Md., averaged 10.9 points and 3.9 rebounds per game. He was second on the Tech team in three-point percentage (39.1) and would have ranked third in the ACC in free throw accuracy (87.5), but he did not have enough attempts to qualify for league rankings.

Tech's starting lineup for the final 13 games of the season included 6-5 sophomore forward Clarence Moore (Norco, La.), along with a pair of ACC all-Freshman team members in 6-3 guard B.J. Elder (Madison, Ga.), and 6-7 center Ed Nelson (Fort Lauderdale, Fla.).

Moore averaged 9.4 points and 5.4 rebounds, shooting 46.3 percent from three-point range and 47.5 percent overall vs. the ACC. Nelson earned ACC Rookie of the Year honors, averaging 8.5 points and a team-leading 6.9 rebounds. He topped ACC freshmen in rebounding, and averaged 10.4 points and shoots 54.2 percent vs. the ACC. Elder, who joined Nelson on the ACC all-Freshman team, averaged 9.9 points overall and 10.9 against the league.

Tech went five deep on the bench, which provided about 30 percent of the Jackets' scoring: 6-5 forward Isma'il Muhammad (Fr., Atlanta, Ga.), who averaged 7.1 points; 6-5 sophomore wingman Halston Lane (Oak Ridge, Tenn.), 6.1 points per game; 6-8 sophomore center Robert Brooks (Saginaw, Mich.), 3.4 points and 4.3 rebounds; and 6-5 guard Anthony McHenry (Fr., Birmingham, Ala.), 1.8 ppg. Seven-foot freshman center Luke Schenscher (Hope Forest, South Australia), who was 10-for-11 from the floor in his last three games, averaged 4.8 points and 3.2 rebounds and shot 64.3 percent against the ACC.

"It would have been a big accomplishment but it didn't happen," Hewitt said about falling shy of post-season. "What was a nice accomplishment was to see our guys not hang their heads and see the guys fight, battle, and really grow as a team right before your eyes. But, we didn't reach our ultimate goal, so that still leaves a little bit of a bitter taste."

GEORGIA TECH 62, WISCONSIN 61

11-28-01 • ALEXANDER MEMORIAL COLISEUM

Halston Lane made two free throws with 14 seconds left as Georgia Tech rallied past Wisconsin in the ACC-Big Ten Challenge. The Yellow Jackets (3-3) trailed by 20 with 16 minutes left, and were still down 61-50 with 4:18 remaining. But the Badgers didn't score again, and Tony Akins scored seven points to help pull Georgia Tech to 61-60 before Lane made his free throws.

1-5-02 • ALEXANDER MEMORIAL COLISEUM

The Tigers built a 14-point lead in the first seven minutes of the second half, withstood a Tech rally that cut the advantage to 3 points and then pulled away again at the end. With Clarence Moore scoring 12 of his 16 points over a 7 1/2-minute span, Tech cut the lead to 70-67, but that was as close as the Jackets could get.

Nelson notched one of his two double-doubles against the Wolfpack.

Georgia Tech 60, St. Louis 40

2-16-02 • St. Louis, Mo.

Tony Akins had 21 points and five assists as the Yellow Jackets defeated cold-shooting Saint Louis. Saint Louis shot 19 percent and scored 13 points in one of the school's worst halves in decades, falling behind by 12 points. It didn't get much better the rest of the way as the Billikens finished at 31 percent.

Georgia Tech 82, Virginia 80

2-23-02 • CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.

Virginia missed four consecutive free throws in the last minute when one would likely have been enough, and Marvin Lewis drained the Yellow Jackets' 15th 3-pointer of the game at the buzzer. Tech trailed 80-74, before B.J. Elder hit a 3-pointer with 45 seconds left to begin the Jackets' rally.

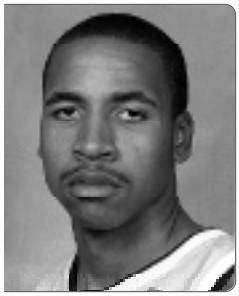
FORWARD • 6–8 • 220 • JUNIOR (2 LETTERS)

SAGINAW, MICH. • ARTHUR HILL H.S.



At Tech

Lanky frontcourt player who has contributed important minutes off the bench … Originally signed with Eastern Kentucky in November, 1999, but after a coaching change, he opted for Georgia Tech and was released from his original letter of intent … Runs the floor well, and continues to add weight and strength.

2001-02

Started 12 games while 7-foot freshman Luke Schenscher was sidelined with a foot injury, and filled in capably … Played extremely well in games at Georgia (13 points, 10 rebounds), Syracuse (17 points, 8 rebounds, 3 assists, 2 blocks, 4 steals) and Wofford (12 points, 9 rebounds) … Also played well in Tech's win at Saint Louis with two points, nine rebounds, three steals and a blocked shot in 13 minutes on Feb. 16, which began Tech's season-ending five-game winning streak.

Settled back into a reserve role on Jan. 22 and averaged 16.3 minutes per game for the season.

Not known as a scorer (3.4 points per game), has an effective mid-range jumper and shot 43.7 percent from the floor … Also capable at the free throw line (71.1 percent) ... The team's third-leading rebounder (4.4) … Had more assists (23) than turnovers (20), and was Tech's third-leading shot blocker with 15.

2000-01

Averaged 2.8 points and 3.0 rebounds while playing about 15 minutes a game off the bench … Also contributed 24 assists, 11 blocked shots and 15 steals … Shot 50 percent fom the field … Scored a season-high 10 points on 5-for-5 shooting at Wake Forest … Had nine points, nine rebounds and three assists against Harvard … Collected seven points and seven rebounds against Georgia … Contributed five points, five rebounds and two blocks in Tech's win at Virginia … Did not score but grabbed nine rebounds in win over UCLA … Blocked three shots against Charleston Southern.

STEPPING UP

Brooks started 12 games last season while Luke Schenscher was sidelined with a foot injury, and played extremely well in games against Georgia (13 points, 10 rebounds), Syracuse (17 points, 8 rebounds, 3 assists, 2 blocks, 4 steals) and Wofford (12 points, 9 rebounds).

MARVIN LEWIS

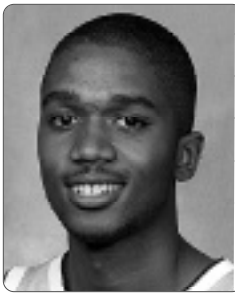
GUARD • 6–4 • 208 • JUNIOR (2 LETTERS)

GERMANTOWN, MD. • MONTROSE CHRISTIAN



•ACC All-Freshman, 2001

•ACC All-Academic, 2001

•ACC Rookie of the Week, 2001 (4 times)

At Tech

Started every game at Tech except for Senior Day 2001 (60 of 61 games) ... Moved to shooting guard after playing the small forward position as a freshman, but can still play a wing forward position depending on Tech's alignment on the floor ... Very good long-range shooter who also excels at the free throw line ... In his two-year career, Lewis has missed just 16 free throws, going 109-for-125 (87.2 percent) ... Coached at Montrose Christian by Stu Vetter, who coached former Tech standout Dennis Scott ... Ranked ninth in the ACC last season in three-point field goals per game, but is the league's top returnee in that category ... Toured Great Britain with a team of college players in August.

2001-02

Tech's second-leading scorer at 10.9 points per game, he and Tony Akins were the only players to start every game for the Yellow Jackets ... One of the top three-point shooters in the league, hitting 39.1 percent ... Did not have enough attempts to be listed among the ACC leaders ... Second on the team with 41 steals and 56 assists, and fourth in rebounding at 3.9 per game.

One of the ACC's top marksmen from the foul line, hit 87.5 percent from the stripe ... Would have ranked third in the ACC in free throw percentage, but also fell short of the league minimum ... Hit 8-of-9 in Tech's first meeting with Clemson and had three games where he was 6-for-6 (Illinois, Davidson, Wofford).

In ACC games, he averaged 9.7 points and shot 37.8 percent from three-point range, as well as 84.6 percent from the line.

Made one of Tech's biggest plays of the season with his buzzer-beating three-pointer at Virginia ... With Tech trailing by one, he took a pass from Tony Akins at the top of the key and fired a three-pointer at the buzzer to give the Jackets an 82-80 victory over then-15th-ranked Cavaliers ... Was his fifth three-pointer of the game in six attempts; finished with 15 points and six rebounds.

•ACC All-Freshman, 2002

•ACC Rookie of the Week, 2002 (twice)

At Tech

Athletic performer who moved into the starting lineup midway through the season, and earned a spot on the ACC All-Freshman team … Third-leading vote-getter for Rookie of the Year which went to teammate Ed Nelson … Good perimeter shooter who can also create off the dribble … Became more assertive late in the season, making a lot of key plays at the offensive end in the last two weeks … A capable ballhandler who often ran the point when Tony Akins rested.

2001-02

The ACC's second-leading scorer among freshmen (9.9, tied for 29th overall) and was tied for third in steals … Averaged 10.9 points against conference foes and shot 40.7 percent from three-point range and 83.3 percent from the free throw line.

Tech's third-leading scorer overall … Shot 36.0 percent from three-point range overall and 78.7 percent from the line.

Turned red-hot in Georgia Tech's last three regular-season games, scoring 18 points at Virginia and 25 against Wake Forest to help the Yellow Jackets to a pair of victories over ranked teams, then adding 10 at Florida State … Scored 11 points in Tech's ACC Tournament loss to Wake Forest, making it four straight double-digit games to finish the season … Made 20 of 39 field goals, 12-of-23 from three-point range and 12-of-13 from the free throw line in those four games … Scored in double figures 13 times in Georgia Tech's last 21 games.

Poured in 25 points in Tech's final home game against Wake Forest, 23 of them in the second half as Tech came away with the 90-77 win … Hit 7-of-10 field goals, 4-of-6 from three-point range, and 7-of-7 from the free throw line to key the victory … His point total was the highest for an ACC freshman in ACC games.

Scored 19 points in just 16 minutes in Tech's 74-50 win at Clemson … Made one of the key plays in Tech's 82-80 come-from-behind win at Virginia … With Tech trailing by six, hit a three-pointer with 45 seconds left to pull the Jackets within three points and set the stage for the last-second victory … Finished the game with 18 points and four assists in just 25 minutes, hitting four three-pointers on eight attempts … Contributed eight points, four rebounds and two steals in Tech's 65-59 victory over NC State.

Was named the ACC Rookie of the Week each of the last two weeks of the regular season.

After joining the starting lineup on Jan. 22 against Virginia, he averaged 11.0 points and Tech went 8-5 in those games … Made 24-of-52 three-point attempts (46.2 percent) in those games.

Was first inserted into the starting lineup for Tech's Jan. 10 game at Duke, and he responded with 10 points on 5-of-9 shooting with two assists before fouling out.

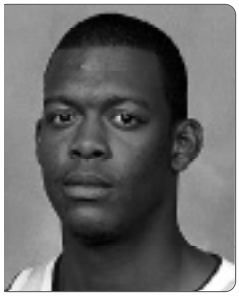
ANTHONY McHENRY

#55

GUARD • 6–7 • 220 • SOPHOMORE (1 LETTER)

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. • WOODLAWN H.S.



At Tech

Has contributed primarily on the defensive end, where his lanky build and long arms are assets ... Can play point guard, shooting guard or small forward ... His future is expected to be at the point ... Struggled at the offensive end, but will improve with confidence.

2001-02

Played in all but one game, and made two starts early in the year against Wisconsin and North Carolina ... Averaged just under two points per game, and struggled with his outside shooting, but had his moments ... Despite limited minutes, had 12 blocked shots and 12 steals.

Scored six points and grabbed five rebounds while playing an excellent defensive game to help Tech defeat No. 24 Wake Forest in Tech's final home game ... Helped shut down Wake sharpshooter Craig Dawson to no points in five field goal attempts ... Also scored six in a loss to Duke, hitting 3-of-4 field goals.

Scored a career-high 13 points on 5-for-7 shooting and grabbed four rebounds in win over Cornell ... Blocked three shots against IUPUI ... Season high of three assists came in the season opener against Florida A&M.

High School

Named to the Alabama Super 12, signifying the top prospects in the state ... Rated No. 42 nationally by Rivals.com, No. 77 by The Sporting News and No. 87 by HoopScoop ... Averaged 14 points and nine rebounds as a junior ... Led Woodlawn High to the 2000 Alabama state title in Class 6A.

ISMA'IL MUHAMMAD

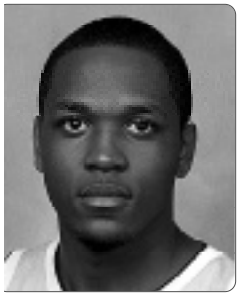
FORWARD • 6–6 • 228 • SOPHOMORE (1 LETTER)

ATLANTA, GA. • W.D. MOHAMMED H.S.



At Tech

Tremendous leaper who earned considerable playing time as a freshman, contributing primarily on the defensive end … Still developing his offensive skills, but showed ability to score at times.

2001-02

Did not have great statistical numbers, but was able to give the Jackets a lift offensively at times … Averaged 7.1 points overall, 6.4 against the ACC … Hit 8-of-17 three-point shots and shoots 46.5 percent overall … Against the ACC he shot 43.9 percent overall and 5-of-10 from behind the arc.

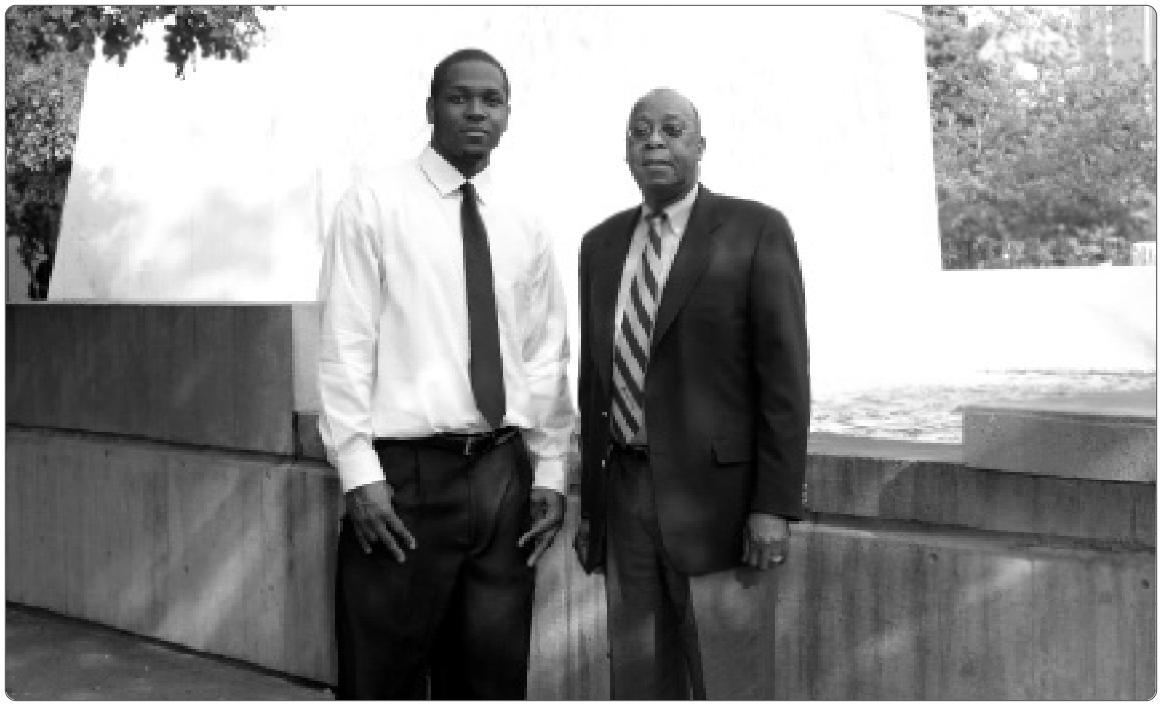
Bothered in late December and early January by a hip pointer that he sustained against Tulane … Missed the next two games and was limited for several games after that … Sat out the season opener against Florida A&M with a sprained ankle.

Had three double-digit scoring games after his return from the hip pointer, including 10 against Maryland at home (Jan. 13), 12 against Florida State (Jan. 30) and 15 at Maryland (Feb. 13) … Finished the season with a career-high 16 points in Tech's ACC Tournament loss to Wake Forest … Hit 7-of-11 shots from the floor, 1-of-2 three-pointers, and grabbed four rebounds with two assists (one turnover) in 24 minutes.

His 15 points at Maryland were his season high before the season finale … Hit 4-of-7 field goals, including a three-pointer, and was 6-for-12 from the line in the loss.

Scored 12 points at North Carolina on Dec. 2 … Also had 12 points and a season-high seven rebounds in win over Florida State on Jan. 30 ... Other double-figure scoring efforts included 10 points versus Illinois, 10 against Wofford and 11 against Tulane … Handed out a season-best six assists in the second meeting with North Carolina … Grabbed four steals in Tech's win at Clemson.

Other high rebound games were Wisconsin, Georgia and Wofford, with five each.



Isma'il visits with Willie Pearson, chairman of the department of History, Technology and Society.

At Tech

The top freshman in the Atlantic Coast Conference last season, according to the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association ... Was named ACC Rookie of the Year, the ninth Tech player so honored, and made the ACC all-Freshman team ... Steadily grew more comfortable as the season has progressed, giving the Yellow Jackets some inside scoring presence and solid defense, almost always against taller players ... Third-leading returning rebounder in the ACC behind Clemson's Ray Henderson and Wake Forest's Josh Howard.

2001-02

Started 28 of Tech's 31 games ... Topped ACC freshmen in rebound average (6.9) in all games and ranked 10th overall, and also ranked fourth among the ACC's rookies in scoring average (8.5) ... Ranked second among freshmen in minutes played (25.5) ... One of two Tech players to shoot 50 percent or better from the floor (50.0).

In ACC games only, Nelson averaged 10.4 points, second among the league's freshmen, and 6.6 rebounds and made 54.2 percent of his field goal attempts, both of which were high figures for ACC rookies.

From Tech's Jan. 10 meeting with Duke on, Nelson averaged 10.6 points and 7.1 rebounds in Tech's last 16 games ... Was consistent on the glass, recording double-digit efforts against North Carolina (11), NC State (10) and Wake Forest (14 in the ACC Tournament).

Nelson scored 17 points on Feb. 9 to lead Tech against Duke, earning him ACC Rookie of the Week honors ... Scored a season-high 18 (6-9 FG, 6-10 FT) in the first meeting between Tech and Maryland ... Against NC State on Feb. 20, he posted his second double-double (13 points, 10 rebounds) of the year ... Added 17 at Florida State on 8-of-10 shooting.

Had five double-figure rebounding efforts with a high of 14 versus Penn, matched against Wake Forest in the ACC Tournament ... Had 13 against Florida A&M and 11 in the second meeting with North Carolina ... Had eight or nine rebounds on seven other occasions.

Made 65 of 124 field goal tries (52.4 percent) in the last 16 games and scored in double digits seven times ... In his first 15 games, he had just three double-digit scoring games ... Also got to the free throw line for 63 at-

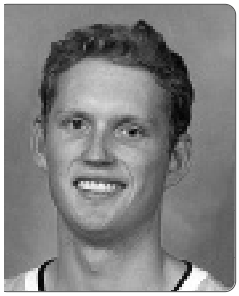
#12

CENTER • 7–1 • 255 • SOPHOMORE (1 LETTER)

HOPE FOREST, SOUTH AUSTRALIA • LAKE GINNINDERRA H.S.



•ACC Rookie of the Week, 2002

At Tech

Seven-footer whose presence in the paint was invaluable, especially on defense, after his return from a broken foot as a freshman … Lacks strength and bulk but uses his hands and moves his feet well on defense … Has built himself up to about 255 pounds since arriving at Tech weighing 214 … A good passer for a big man, and can score with either hand … Each of Schenscher's entries and exits from games at Alexander Memorial Coliseum, as well as his baskets and blocks, are greeted by the home crowd's chants of "Loooook" … Played with the Australian Boomers national team which made a 10-day tour of China in July.

2001-02

Made a profound impact after returning to action for Georgia Tech against Virginia on Jan. 22 … Strengthened Tech's interior defense to the point where he helped the Jackets allow 42.9 percent shooting in the last 11 regular-season games (33.3 percent from three-point range).

Led Tech in field goal percentage at 58.7 percent (64.3 in ACC games) … Averaged 4.8 points and 3.2 rebounds for the season, numbers which improved to 5.7 and 3.6 against the ACC.

Went 10-for-10 from the floor in the last two regular-season games, 7-for-7 against Wake Forest and 3-for-3 at Florida State (went 0-for-1 vs. Wake Forest in the ACC Tournament) … Averaged 5.8 points and hit 26 of 43 field goal attempts (60.5 percent) in his last 11 games.

Started five of the first six games before he was sidelined with a broken foot … Prior to that, he averaged just 3.7 points and 2.5 rebounds … Broke the third metatarsal in his left foot and missed 12 games, during which Tech went 4-8 … While he was out, Tech had no player taller than 6-8 and nine healthy scholarship players.

Made his presence felt immediately upon his return with six points, two rebounds and three blocks in 10 minutes against Virginia … Named ACC Rookie of the Week on Feb. 4 following Tech's convincing wins over Florida State and North Carolina … Averaged 7.5 points and 5.0 rebounds in the two games while providing excellent defense in the post as Tech held those two oppo-

"LOOOOOK"

Schenscher, who has built himself up to about 255 pounds since arriving at Tech weighing 214, is greeted by the home crowd's chants of "Loooook" each time he comes into and out of games.

Meet Paul Hewitt

Say hello to a coach who wants to make sure that his players enjoy the game of basketball.

By Jack Williams

Here comes that fast break again! Now you see 'em, now you don't. It's the master plan of head coach Paul Hewitt, the man who's in a really big hurry to lift Georgia Tech back among the elite teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference and the nation.

And no one who knows the difference between a slam dunk and a set shot doubts he can do it. Especially not Paul Hewitt himself. The guy stresses the power of positive thinking in everything he does.

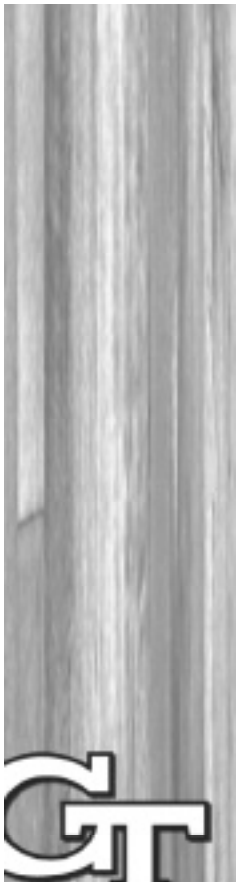
You remember when he accepted the Tech job in the spring of 2000, Hewitt was asked if he could take Georgia Tech back to the top echelon of ACC basketball.

"If I did not think I could do that, I would not have taken the job," he answered. "I was fortunate to have some other good coaching offers when I was at Siena. In the other situations, I did not feel I could coach the teams to the top of their conferences. Georgia Tech has all the things I was looking for: very strong academics, the diversity of the City of Atlanta and a winning tradition."

So what did Hewitt do in his first year with the Jackets? He went out and won with a bang. His team posted a 17-13 record, beat the likes of UCLA, Kentucky, Maryland, Wake Forest and Virginia (three times) and returned to the NCAA Tournament.

Everyone in gold and white went wild. Hewitt took it all in stride.

"What Bobby Cremins did here really took hard work," Hewitt said. "When he took over the program, Tech had won four games the year before. The Tech record in the ACC was about zero. What he accomplished at Tech took a lot of vision. All I am doing is reaffirming what he already has proved — that Georgia Tech can be a strong factor in the ACC and in the nation."



Paul Hewitt is a man for all seasons. He never stops learning. He takes notes when things attract his attention — and remembers people's names. He gives credit to the coaches and others who have helped him mold his two-sentence philosophy which is so simple, but also profound.

"My job is to make sure the players learn and to make sure they enjoy themselves. If I accomplish those two things, then we are going to win."

Hewitt says his biggest plus at Georgia Tech is the Atlantic Coast Conference in which the Jackets compete. What better proof of the strength of the league than the results of the last two seasons? ACC front-runner Duke won the NCAA Championship in 2001, and another conference member, Maryland, won it last season after losing to the Blue Devils in the national semifinals the year before.

"Some nights, I am really happy to be in the Atlantic Coast Conference," Hewitt says, smiling. "Then other nights, I am not so happy when I look out there and see the talent on the other teams and the quality coaches on the other benches."

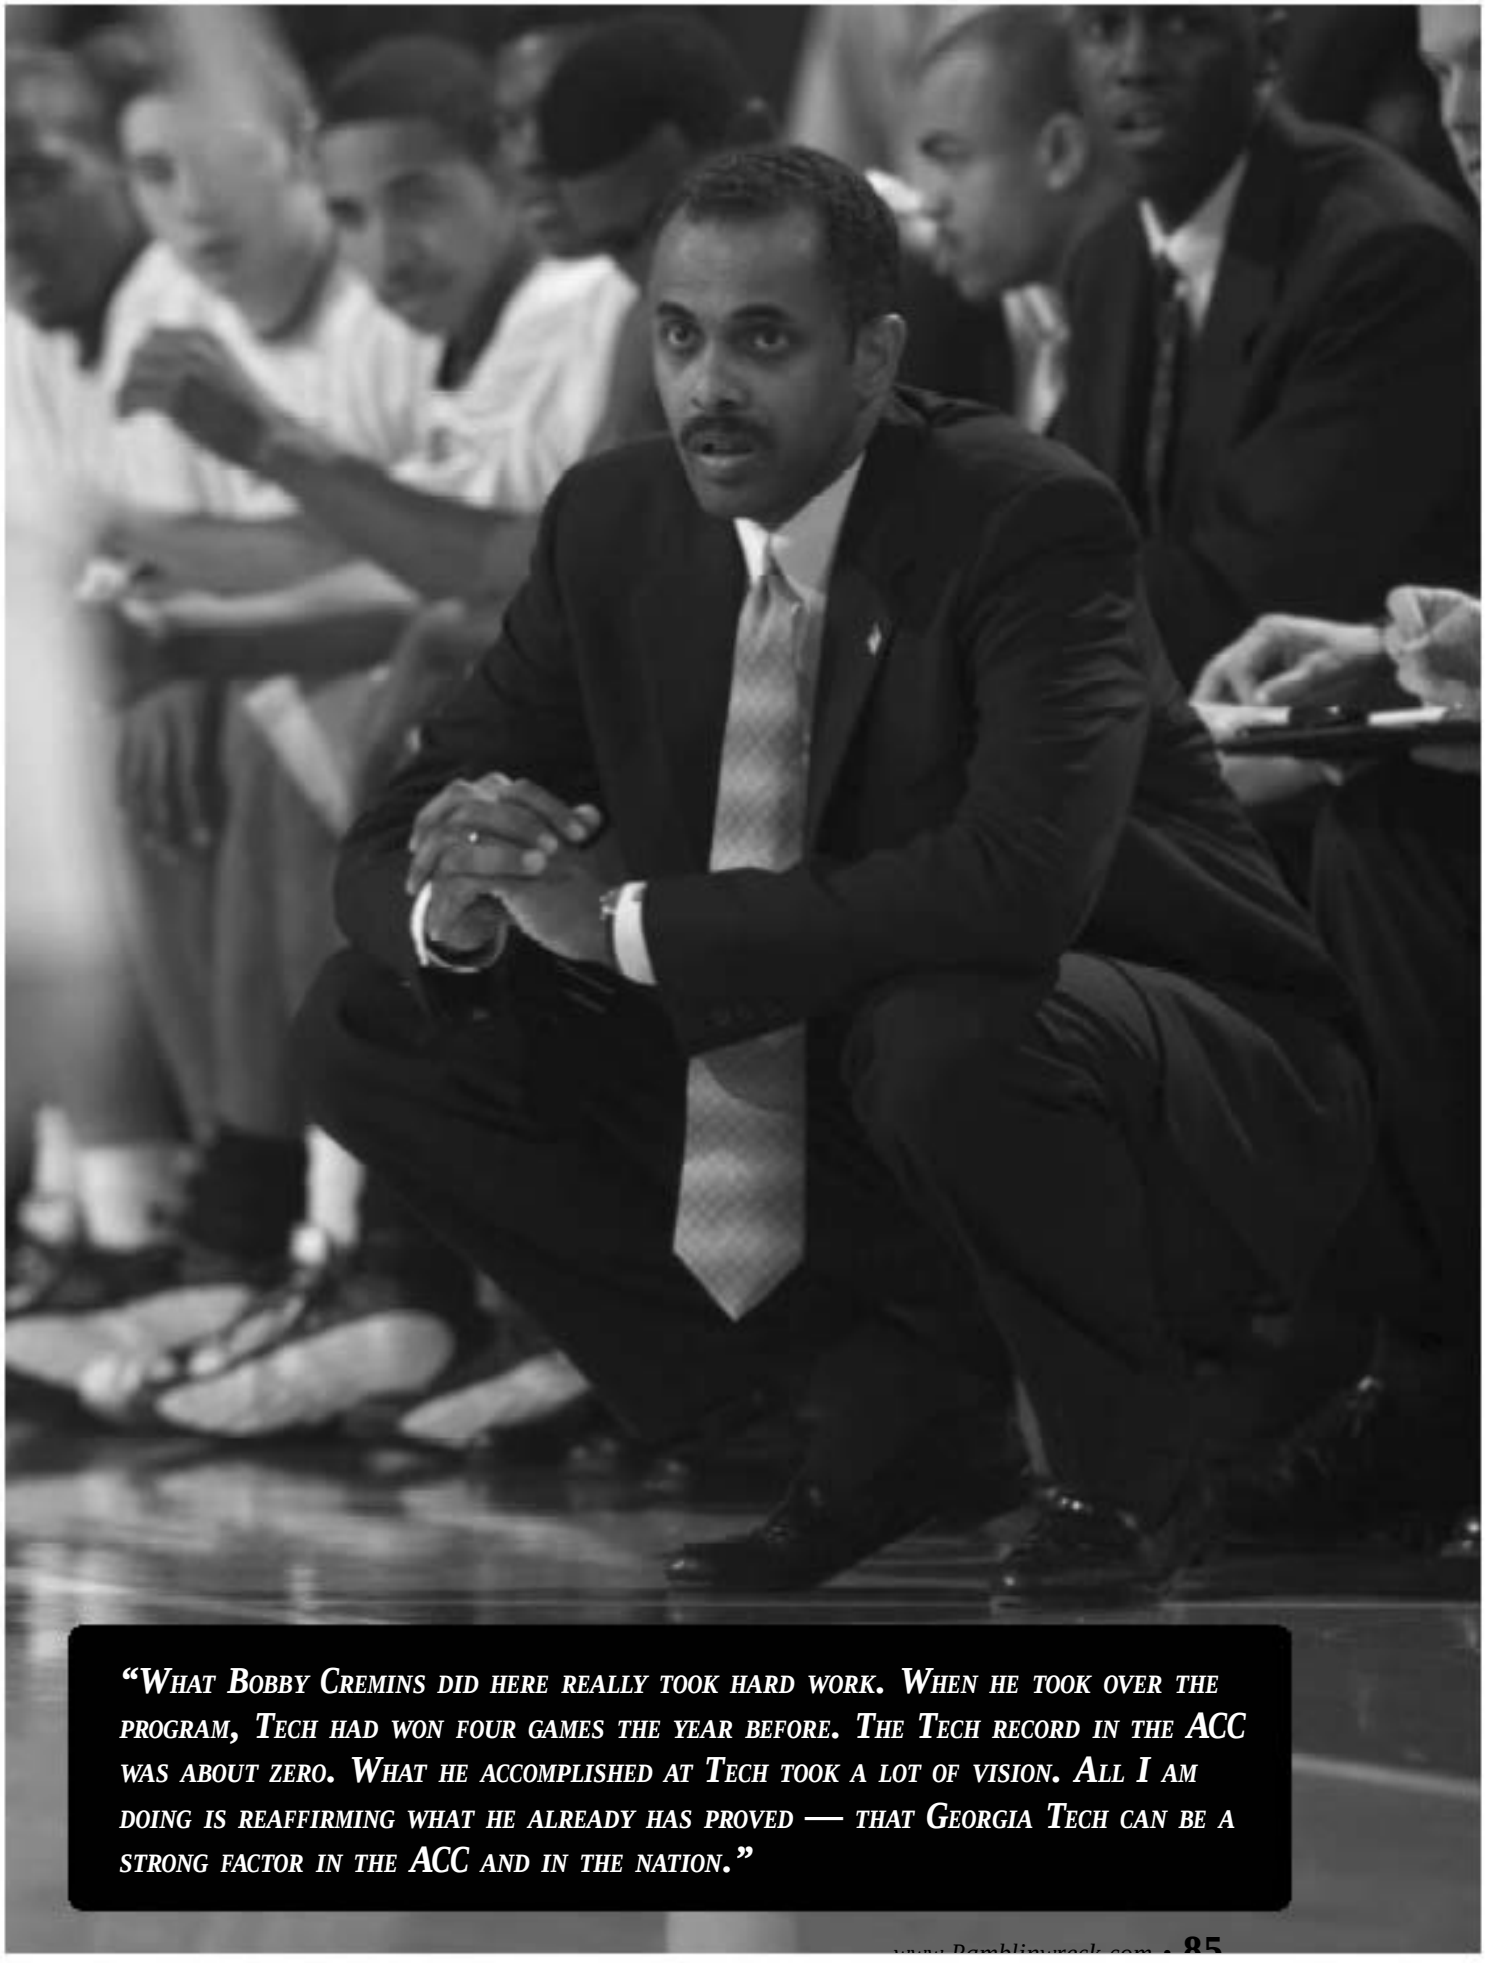
Hewitt, always observing, always learning, admits he marveled at the play of Duke's champions last season. "It's one thing to have great talent," he said. "It's another to see how much confidence they show on the court. Coach (Mike) Krzyzewski gives them a lot of freedom. As a coach, I really admire the way they play."

One thing you learn quickly in talking with Hewitt is that basketball is not his only passion. He has slam-dunked his way through life in other arenas, in other ways. Let's take a brief look at him away from the basketball court. You may find, in some subtle ways, that he is different from many others who coach the game.

For one thing, as a college freshman, Hewitt aspired to be a sports journalist. How many coaches do you know who ever wanted to be a sports writer? For heaven's sakes, think about that.

He wrote columns and covered games for his school paper at St. John Fisher College in Rochester, N.Y. One of his proudest moments came when he stepped out of the sports arena to review a concert given by Roberta Flack, singing with the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra.

Hewitt thoroughly enjoys plays and stage performances by noted singers, but says he has had little time for either since being in Atlanta. "My wife did recently



"What Bobby Cremins did here really took hard work. When he took over the program, Tech had won four games the year before. The Tech record in the ACC was about zero. What he accomplished at Tech took a lot of vision. All I am doing is reaffirming what he already has proved — that Georgia Tech can be a strong factor in the ACC and in the nation."

drag me to a Janet Jackson concert," he said. "I had been offered two tickets to that concert by a friend. When I told my wife I turned down the tickets, she said, 'Have you lost your mind?'"

One of Hewitt's special interests is politics — "the people and things that shape our society." He has read many a book about the lives of Martin Luther King and Malcolm X. He recently enjoyed reading The King of the Cats, the story of Adam Clayton Powell, and was especially interested to note that the book had many references to Hewitt's home state, New York. Proof that he is a very diverse fellow, Hewitt also just read What They Don't Teach in the Harvard Business School. Also on his recent reading list: Andrew Young's book, An Easy Burden.

Hewitt long has been an admirer of the great UCLA Coach John Wooden and has his latest book, Wooden, handy at all times.

Instead of the usual basketball memorabilia, Hewitt has paintings by noted artists Ernie Barnes and Joseph Holston hanging in his office.

The guy covers all the bases.

Hewitt says his basketball philosophy, which highlights an up-tempo style of play with relentless defensive pressure, was inspired by a number of coaches, notably his high school coach, Martin Reid, at Westbury High on Long Island.

"His philosophy was based on helping players improve their individual skills," Hewitt said. "We used a pressure, running style of play, and if you're going to do that, you must be well-drilled.

"At the Final Four one year, I had the good fortune to hear a talk by Pete Newell (NCAA Championship coach at the University of California)," Hewitt says. "He said something I wrote down. He said he thinks the game today is over-coached and under-taught. That goes right along with my philosophy."

The Tech coach also credits three head coaches under whom he worked — George Raveling at Southern Cal, Nick Marcarchuk at Fordham and Steve Lappas at Villanova, where Hewitt helped the Wildcats win 103 games in five seasons.

"Aside from my high school coach, George Raveling had the most influence on me as a coach," Hewitt says. "He's the best-prepared person I've ever been around with the exception of my Dad. Coach Raveling was not a person to ever just wing it. He was always prepared."

"My Dad was the same way. He's a machinist in Queens, N.Y., who always has everything mapped out. He also taught me the value of working long hours. He worked every day from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m."

The Tech coach also learned some valuable lessons from John Thompson, the former Georgetown coach.

"When I was a high school coach, I would work summer camps in an effort to increase my knowledge of the game," Hewitt says. "When I went to Coach Thompson's camp at Georgetown, I found him to be very visible. He would go to a game room every night and sit there for a long period of time, sipping iced tea out of a can in a brown paper bag and telling stories to the coaches assembled there.

"Most of the people who went there played cards. I'm not into cards all that much. But I took part just so I could hear all the things Coach Thompson said. He would talk about his basketball and life philosophies and what student-athletes should be getting out of their basketball experiences. I took it all in."

All the lessons Paul Hewitt learned so well from so many different people have been put to work at Georgia Tech. His intense conditioning program and meticulous instruction have gained great favor with his athletes in his first two seasons with the Jackets. At one time or another during the his first season, almost every Tech player admitted he was in the best shape of his life after under-going rigorous conditioning.

"Professors are showing these youngsters how to succeed in the classroom," Hewitt said. "Our job as coaches is to show them how to succeed on the court and also in life. In my opinion, we are taking a step in that direction when we teach the basketball players the value of hard work."

Hewitt established strong relationships with all his players from the start. He tells about receiving a phone call on the eve of NBA practice this season from center Alvin Jones, one of the stars of the 2000-01 season.

"Alvin was getting ready to go to practice with the Philadelphia 76'ers and just phoned to say hello and see how everything was going here," Hewitt said. "Those are the kind of calls a coach lives for."

It is natural that Hewitt should have strong rapport with his players because he sticks up for their interests every day in every way. In a recent interview, for example, the coach took a shot at some of the collegiate rules which he feels do not have a positive affect on athletes.

"We have too many rules that apply off the court that do not serve the game well," he said. "I'm speaking of the way we determine eligibility, who gets in school and who does not. There are times when we have passed rules just because they would be well-received in the public eye rather than considering what affect they will have on the student-athlete.

"What we need to always do is think of the student-athlete, first, last and always. We should make it possible for young people to get a quality education and enjoy the unbelievable experience of playing college basketball."

Hewitt is a strong family man who talks often about his wife, Dawnette, a native of London, England, and their daughters, Olivia, 8; Danielle, 6; and Kayla, 4.

Dawnette moved to New York at the age of 16 and attended the same high school at Westbury, N.Y., as her future husband. Strangely, they never met there.

When Dawnette, some years later, was a senior at the State University of New York at Stony Brook, she served as a campus tour guide for a group of high school students. Guess who was escorting the students? None other than an aspiring student counselor named Paul Hewitt. You can guess the rest.

Hewitt says his family has adjusted extremely well to life in Atlanta and all are enjoying their time here. "The girls have made a lot of friends in school, maybe too many, judging by the number of people who are running through our home these days," he said, flashing his best smile.

Asked to assess his upcoming Georgia Tech team, Hewitt said, "I think we'll be much improved in all areas - shot blocking, perimeter defense, guys stepping in and taking a charge. If there is one area that I think we will see the most improvement in, it will be the defensive end of the floor."

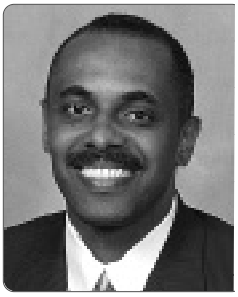
The coach and his staff continue to recruit better and better each year. The Jackets landed forwards Chris Bosh of Dallas, Texas, and Theodis Tarver of Monroe, La., and a standout point guard in Jarrett Jack of Fort Washington, Md.

There are, of course, some very talented returning players, too, including junior guard Marvin Lewis and last year's ACC Rookie of the Year, Ed Nelson.

"This is going to be one of the smartest teams that I have ever coached," Hewitt said. "I like the kids as people, and they all have great personalities.

Then there's the head coach whose main purpose is to ensure that these guys have fun. OK. Tip it up. Let's play ball.

PAUL HEWITT



HEAD BASKETBALL COACH

RECORD AT TECH: 32–29 (.525), 2 SEASONS

OVERALL RECORD: 98–56 (.636), 5 SEASONS

- ACC Coach of the Year, 2001
- MAAC Coach of the Year, 2000
- NCAA Tournament, 1999, 2001
- NIT, 2000

Paul Hewitt, given the task of restoring Georgia Tech's basketball program to the level it achieved in the 1980's and early 90's with 10 NCAA Tournament appearances and three Atlantic Coast Conference championships, has wasted little time putting the Yellow Jackets back on the map.

The 39-year-old Hewitt, who was named Tech's 12th head basketball coach on Apr. 6, 2000, has almost completely overhauled the Yellow Jackets' roster in two short years and laid a solid foundation for future success with two excellent recruiting classes.

In his two seasons at Tech, Hewitt has been recognized as one of the rising stars of the coaching profession, posting a 32-29 record, taking the Yellow Jackets to the NCAA Tournament his first year and to the brink of a post-season bid last season. Heading into next season, Hewitt is two wins shy of 100 for his career with a record of 98-56.

Though Tech finished 15-16 last year, Hewitt and the Jackets earned kudos for the biggest turnaround in Atlantic Coast Conference history, emerging from an 0-7 start (7-13 overall) to finish 7-9 with a sixth place showing in the conference. One win in the ACC Tournament could have earned the Jackets a berth in the NIT.

Hewitt has dealt with very different circumstances in each of his two seasons on the Flats.

Last season, with five freshmen to assimilate in place of the five seniors he coached in his first season, he guided Tech to its remarkable mid-season turnaround, with eight wins in the team's final 11 games. It was enough to prod some members of the media into giving him their votes again for conference coach of the year (he finished third).

He guided the Jackets back to the NCAA Tournament in his very first season. Disproving the prevailing pre-season opinions that had Tech finishing no better than eighth in the ACC and gave the Jackets little chance for a winning record, Hewitt guided a veteran squad with five seniors to an 8-8 record and a fifth-place finish in the nation's toughest conference. Tech's 17-13 record marked its first winning season since 1998, and the Jackets won their first ACC Tournament game and earned their first trip to the Big Dance since 1996.

Hewitt was recognized as the Atlantic Coast Conference Coach of the Year, only the second time in league history that a first-year coach has won the award. He was also named District 5 Coach of the Year by the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) and was a finalist for the Naismith College Coach of the Year Award by the Atlanta Tipoff Club.

Tech's on-court accomplishments have been possible because Hewitt demands a high level of intensity, hustle and hard work, and his players deliver. He teaches a style of basketball that is fast-paced, but is grounded in sound fundamentals.

His commitment to individual player development and instruction have paid big dividends for all the Tech players, particularly for the six seniors he has coached, all of whom enjoyed the best seasons of their careers. It is the foundation for teams to come.

Center Alvin Jones was named to the all-Atlantic Coast Conference first team in 2001, while guards Shaun Fein and Tony Akins earned honorable mention all-conference recognition. Akins further developed under Hewitt and his staff to become a second-team all-ACC player as a senior, and he finished his career No. 11 on Tech's all-time scoring list, No. 4 in assists and No. 2 in three-point field goals.

The recruiting efforts of Hewitt and his staff also have resulted in strong contributions from Tech's young players. This past year, Ed Nelson became the ninth Tech player to earn ACC Rookie of the Year honors, and teammate B.J. Elder joined him on the ACC all-Freshman team. In 2001, freshmen Marvin Lewis and Halston Lane won the ACC's Rookie of the Week award seven times, and Lewis was tabbed to the league's All-Freshman team.

Tech's recruiting class for 2002-03 includes the Jackets' first incoming McDonald's all-American since 1997, and has been ranked as high as ninth nationally.

"Our staff has done an unbelievable job in recruiting," said Hewitt, who began a four-year term on the board of directors of the Black Coaches Association in September. "If you look at where we started, in two short years of recruiting, we've overhauled the whole roster. We've signed nine players now. Our staff has been working overtime. They deserve a lot of credit for what we've done."

"Right from the day I got the job, we have been able to take advantage of what Bobby [Cremins] did here to make this program a national name. I can go back to my first press conference where I talked about why I like this place and the reasons why I came here, and all those reasons have held up. When I go out recruiting, talking to parents or to a young man, I can say 'great school, great city, great conference.'"

Said Tech director of athletics Dave Braine, "We felt from the beginning that we had the right person for this job, and Paul's first two years with us have been everything we could have expected and more. We wanted a coach who is a great recruiter, a very good communicator and an excellent teacher. Paul fits all three of these qualifications very well.

"He has a great deal of confidence in his ability to get the job done here. Our fans appreciate the style of basketball Paul teaches, and we have seen the people coming back into Alexander Memorial Coliseum and recreating the Thrillerdome atmosphere."

But Tech's early success under Hewitt should come as no surprise. Prior to his arrival in Atlanta, he posted a 66-27 mark as the head coach at Siena. At the Loudonville, N.Y., school, Hewitt revived a program that had been dormant since the mid-90's and molded it into one of the best in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference and among the best in the Northeast.

In three seasons at Siena, Hewitt developed one of the nation's highest scoring teams. Siena ranked third nationally in scoring each of his last two seasons there, and in three seasons the team averaged 85.6 points per game while shooting 38.1 percent from three-point range and 77.8 percent from the free throw line.

Following a three-season stretch in which Siena won just 22 games, Hewitt guided a young Saints team to a 17-12 overall record in his first season, including a 10-8 mark in the MAAC the school's first-ever berth in the MAAC Tournament title game.

In his second year, Siena garnered a great deal of national attention after starting the season 18-2. The year culminated with a 25-6 overall record, the school's first-ever MAAC Tournament Championship and the first appearance in the NCAA Tournament since the 1988-89 season.

Hewitt again guided the Saints to the top of the MAAC standings in 1999-2000 for the Saints' first-ever outright conference regular-season title. Siena finished the season with a 24-9 overall mark and a MAAC-best 15-3 slate. He directed the Saints to their third consecutive MAAC Championship game appearance, and second-consecutive postseason berth with a bid to the National Invitation Tournament. Siena ousted Massachusetts in the first round of the NIT before falling 105-103 in a thriller at Penn State University in the second round.

Hewitt's up-tempo style of play, combined with a relentless defensive attack, helped bring back the excitement that had been missing since Siena advanced to the Final Four of the 1994 National Invitation Tournament.

"I'm very big on learning from others," says Hewitt. "I had a chance to hear Pete Newell speak, and he said he thinks the game today is over-coached and under-taught. If you watch us play, you see a team that is not over-coached, but is very well-taught.

"We put a strong emphasis on teaching guys how to play the game. When you play a high-scoring, fast-paced style, situations come up that your players need to know how to react to. You can't stop and call every play and diagram every cut. If you play the style that we play, you've got to teach people how to play the game.

"The system is important, but the thing I think that has made us successful is our efforts in the area of player development."

Success has followed Hewitt in every stop he has made in his coaching career.

He came to Siena from the venerable Big East program at Villanova, where he spent five seasons (1992-97) as an assistant to head coach Steve Lappas. During his final season in Philadelphia, Hewitt was promoted to associate head coach.

While there, Hewitt helped lead the Wildcats to four straight 20-win seasons in five years, three consecutive trips to the NCAA Tournament, and an NIT Championship in 1994, when Villanova beat Siena in the semi-finals en route to the title. In 1997, Villanova was the No. 4 seed in the East Region and lost to California in the second round, finishing the season with a 24-10 record.

Hewitt also made an impressive name for himself as a recruiter. In his time at Villanova, he helped the Wildcats land four top-20 recruiting classes from 1993 to 1997. Included in those classes were Tim Thomas, the nation's top-ranked high school senior in 1996 who is now playing for the Milwaukee Bucks, as well as Jason Lawson (Toronto), Alvin Williams (Toronto) and Malik Allen (Miami).

His potential was recognized early on. In 1996, Eastern Basketball magazine named him one of the top four assistant coaches on the East Coast ready to take over a head coaching position. Basketball Weekly named him one of the top 10 assistant coaches in the United States that same year.

Prior to his stint at Villanova, Hewitt served as an assistant coach at Fordham University for two years (1990-92), when the Rams posted a 45-18 mark. During those two seasons, the Bronx school won two-straight Patriot League regular-season championships and made

Recognized as one of the rising stars of the coaching profession, Hewitt has a 32-29 record in two seasons at Tech, taking the Yellow Jackets to the NCAA Tournament his first year and to the brink of a post-season bid last season. Heading into this season, Hewitt is two wins shy of 100 for his career with a record of 98-56.

the NCAA Tournament in 1992.

He moved to Fordham after spending a year under the legendary George Raveling at Southern California, where he served as a graduate assistant. Hewitt's first collegiate job came as an assistant coach at C.W. Post on Long Island during the 1988-89 school year. He helped guide the Pioneers to the ECAC New York State Division Championship that season.

"I've learned under some great people, primarily George Raveling," said Hewitt. "He taught me an awful lot. He's been the foundation for my coaching career and a lot of my philosophies, and he's been there every step of the way to mentor me and give me advice.

"From a distance, I had a chance to observe John Thompson at Georgetown. I went to his camp back in 1980. When I got into coaching one of the things I did was to start working camps around the country, and I had a chance to work the Georgetown camp for four years. I observed and talked to and listened to Coach Thompson and absorbed as much as I could.

"I've also been very fortunate to work for some great people who have given me a lot of opportunities - Nick Marcarchuk, the head coach at Stony Brook (former head coach at Fordham), Steve Lappas (former head coach at Villanova, now at Massachusetts) and the administration at Siena College, who gave me a big break."

Hewitt spent three years as the junior varsity head coach at his alma mater, Westbury High School on Long Island (1985-88), following his graduation from St. John Fisher College in Rochester, N.Y.

A 1985 graduate of St. John Fisher College with a bachelor of arts degree in journalism and economics, Hewitt was a four-year letterwinner and served as the Cardinals' captain as a senior. He also worked toward a post-graduate degree in counseling and high school guidance at Long Island University and C.W. Post.

Hewitt and his wife, Dawnette, have three daughters, Olivia, Danielle and Kayla.

What They Say About Paul Hewitt

"I think he's a terrific coach. He remained calm and remained positive. I think his team is playing as an extension of him."
Skip Prosser, Wake Forest head coach

"So impressed were the judges of ACC basketball, they elected Hewitt conference coach of the year. Far be it from me to promote myself to such lofty status, but I herewith suggest that Paul Hewitt has successfully defended the title. His manner is mild. But beneath that calm exterior, though, there is a layer of toughness."
Furman Bisher, Atlanta Journal-Constitution

"A few more role models like Hewitt can only help the league, the game, and the participants, and those who care about all three."
Barry Jacobs, ACCToday.com

"Paul's quiet and reserved but very, very bright. He is an excellent coach who is a players' coach but is able to get close to them without having to sacrifice his authority or leadership philosophy. Someday soon, he will be thought of as one of the best coaches in the country."
George Raveling, former Southern California head coach

"Paul Hewitt has done a remarkable job in short order. It's really unbelievable. He has an excellent scheme and the players and fans have taken to it. I can say that Tech basketball is alive and well."
Dave Odom, South Carolina head coach

DEAN KEENER

ASSISTANT COACH • THIRD SEASON AT TECH • DAVIDSON '88

Dean Keener, a 14-year veteran of college coaching, is in his third season at Georgia Tech as an assistant coach on Paul Hewitt's staff.

Before coming to Tech, Keener spent the 1999-2000 season at James Madison as an assistant coach under former Georgia Tech assistant coach Sherman Dillard.

At JMU, Keener helped the Dukes post a 20-9 record. He previously spent a total of six years at Virginia Tech and has also served as an assistant coach in three other Division I programs.

Before going to James Madison for the 1999-2000 season, Keener served two years at Virginia Tech (1997-99) under Bobby Hussey, his college coach at Davidson College. He also worked four years on the Hokies' staff under Bill Foster from 1991-95, during which time Virginia Tech posted a 43-20 record his final two years there, including the NIT Championship in 1995.

In between his stints in Blacksburg, Va., Keener was an assistant to Mike Dement at Southern Methodist for two years (1995-97). He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Drake for two seasons (1988-90) and then spent one year as an assistant on George Raveling's staff at Southern Cal (1991), where his tenure overlapped briefly with Tech head coach Paul Hewitt's stint as a graduate assistant.

"When I realized I was going to be named the head basketball coach at Georgia Tech, one of my first calls was to Dean Keener," said Hewitt. "Dean and I worked together for a short time at USC. I was extremely impressed with him then, and we've remained friends over the years."

A native of Tallmadge, Ohio, Keener received his bachelor's degree in economics from Davidson in 1988. He served as the Wildcats co-captain and was a member of the school's 1986 NCAA Tournament team.

Keener is married to the former Meg Young of Radford, Va., and the couple welcomed the birth of their first child, Julia, in August of 2001.

WILLIE REESE

ASSISTANT COACH • FOURTH SEASON AT TECH • GEORGIA TECH '89

Former Georgia Tech basketball player Willie Reese is in his fourth season an assistant coach at his alma mater after a successful stint in the high school coaching ranks.

"As a Georgia Tech graduate, Willie can relate his experiences to our current players to help them be successful in academics and in basketball," says Tech head coach Paul Hewitt. "He is also very familiar with the Tech winning tradition, having played on very successful teams under Bobby Cremins."

Before returning to Georgia Tech to join Cremins' staff for the 1999-2000 season, Reese spent the previous five years as the head coach at Landmark Christian Academy, compiling an 87-35 record and a .713 winning percentage at the Atlanta private school.

Under Reese's direction, Landmark Christian improved from a 3-18 record during his first season in 1994-95, when he became just the second coach in the school's history, to a 24-3 mark and the subregion championship in his second year. After that first season, Reese won nearly 79 percent of his games, compiling a four-year mark of 84-23. Two of Reese's players earned Division I scholarships in Greg Clark, who signed with Chattanooga, and Leigh Gayden, a member of the 1999 Atlanta Journal-Constitution "Terrific Ten" who signed with Tennessee Tech.

Also the cross country coach at Landmark Christian, Reese guided his squad to state titles in 1995 and 1996. He was named the region and state Coach of the Year for cross country in 1996 by the Georgia Athletic Coaches' Association as well as the Atlanta Track Club's cross country Coach of the Year in 1995 and 1996.

Reese was recruited to the Tech program by Cremins in 1984 and was redshirted during the Rambling Wreck's 1984-85 Atlantic Coast Conference championship season. He went on to earn four letters as a frontcourt reserve from the 1985-86 through 1988-89 seasons, helping the Jackets compile a four-year record of 85-42 while earning four trips to the NCAA Tournament. During his career, Reese played with many of the great names in Tech annals, including Mark Price, John Salley, Bruce Dalrymple, Duane Ferrell, Tom Hammonds and Dennis Scott.

Named the basketball team's outstanding scholar-athlete his junior and senior years, Reese earned a bachelor's degree in Industrial Management from Georgia Tech in 1989. After graduation, he spent five years in private business before beginning his coaching career in 1994.

Reese, who attended Carver High School in Atlanta, and his wife, Subrina, reside in Jonesboro and have a son, Willie, 12, and a daughter, Jasmine, 9.

CLIFF WARREN

ASSISTANT COACH • THIRD SEASON AT TECH • MOUNT SAINT MARY'S '90

Cliff Warren is his third season on the basketball staff at Georgia Tech and his sixth as an assistant to Paul Hewitt.

"Cliff does a great job with individual instruction, in particular, guard development," says Hewitt, under whom Warren also worked three seasons at Siena before coming to Tech. "He runs some of the hardest workouts I've ever seen."

Warren was instrumental in the development of Tech point guard Tony Akins, who in his junior and senior seasons, led the Tech squad to 32 victories and finished his career as Tech's 11th all-time scorer, fourth all-time assist leader and second all-time three-point shooter.

In his three-year tenure at Siena (1998-2000), Warren helped the Saints to a 66-27 record and two postseason berths with the 1999 NCAA Tournament and the 2000 NIT.

Warren's work at Siena was recognized by Eastern Basketball magazine, which named him as one of the top recruiters at a mid-level program.

Warren went to Siena in 1997-98 after three years as an assistant coach at his alma mater, Mount Saint Mary's College, under the legendary Jim Phelan. In 1995 in Warren's first year on the staff, the Mount made its first-ever NCAA Tournament appearance, and the following year Mount Saint Mary's played in the NIT.

A native of Silver Spring, Md., Warren is a 1990 graduate of Mount Saint Mary's with a bachelor of science in business finance. He then worked as a graduate assistant coach and earned a master of business administration from the school in 1993.

Before returning to the Mount as a full-time assistant coach in 1994-95, Warren played professionally for the Frederick Flyers of the Atlantic Basketball Association. Midway through the season, he was named an assistant coach. In addition, he worked as an intern for the NBA's Washington Wizards and was a substitute teacher in the Montgomery County (Md.) school district, as well as serving as a volunteer coach at Paint Branch High School, his alma mater.

During his collegiate career, Warren was a two-year starter for the Mountaineers. As a senior in 1989-90, he averaged 10.4 points and 5.0 assists per game, leading the Mount to a 16-12 record, its first winning season in Division I. He finished his career ranked among the school's all-time top 50 in scoring and top five in assists.

In eight seasons as an assistant coach, Warren has been part of programs that have earned five postseason berths, including three NCAA Tournament bids and two NIT berths.

Warren is single and lives in Atlanta.

PETER ZAHARIS

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS • THIRD SEASON AT TECH • NEW YORK UNIV. '87

Peter Zaharis is in his third year as Georgia Tech's director of basketball operations after spending four years with the Villanova basketball program, including three seasons as an assistant coach.

Zaharis is responsible for team travel and numerous other administrative duties for the basketball program.

"Peter has a great mind for basketball, he does not mind working long hours, and he is extremely organized," said Tech head coach Paul Hewitt, who previously worked with Zaharis at Villanova.

Zaharis joined the Villanova staff as administrative assistant in 1996-97, when Hewitt was in his final year on the Wildcats' staff. He became an assistant coach beginning with the 1997-98 season through 1999-2000.

In his three seasons as an assistant coach, Villanova went 53-41 with a pair of 20-win seasons with one appearance each in the NCAA Tournament and NIT.

Zaharis began his coaching career in 1992 on the high school level, spending three years as an assistant coach at Holy Trinity High School in New York.

From there, Zaharis made the jump to the collegiate level, earning a spot as an assistant coach at New York University. While at his alma mater, he handled recruiting, scouting, and assisted in the planning of practices. In addition, he served as the head coach of the junior varsity program. During his tenure at NYU, the Violets advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

Zaharis earned his bachelor's degree in 1987 from NYU and then added his MBA from the school in 1989. Prior to entering the coaching ranks, Zaharis worked for five years at Citibank in New York City as a financial analyst.

Zaharis, a native of Jamaica, N.Y., is married to the former Ritsa Demetriades, and lives in Atlanta.

TIM HANSEN

Assistant Athletic Trainer

Tim Hansen is in his third year at Georgia Tech as assistant athletic trainer, working with the men's basketball program.

Hansen joined the Tech staff in 2000 after two years as a graduate assistant athletic trainer at Syracuse University. While at Syracuse, Hansen worked primarily with the football, men's basketball, wrestling, and lacrosse teams.

Before going to Syracuse, he employed by an Excel Orthopedic Rehabilitation clinic in Fort Lee, N.J., while working at a local high school.

The native of Avenel, N.J., is licensed by the State of Georgia and certified by the National Athletic Trainers Association.

Hansen earned a bachelor's degree in physical education and athletic training from Kean University in 1997 and added a master's degree in exercise science from Syracuse in 2000.

He is recently married to the former Kristina Clifford.

TROY PEACE

Associate Director of Academic Services

Troy Peace is in his fifth year on the Georgia Tech academic support staff and his third as the academic advisor for the men's basketball program.

Peace came to Tech in 1998 after two years at Virginia Tech as the Assistant Director of Student Life.

He previously worked six years for the Department of Veteran Affairs Medical Center in Washington., D.C. as a Psychological Technician and was involved in five studies that were published in the Journals of Clinical Neuropharmacology, Biological Psychiatry, and Schizophrenia Research.

A native of Washington, D.C., Peace, 38, attended the University of the District of Columbia, earning a bachelor's degree in Psychology and a master's in Clinical Psychology. He attended DeMatha Catholic High School in Hyattsville, Md.

KISHA GRIMES

Administrative Coordinator

Kisha Grimes is in her second year with the Georgia Tech basketball program, as the administrative coordinator for head coach Paul Hewitt.

Grimes came to Tech in 2001 from Children's Healthcare of Atlanta, where she served as a human resources assistant.

A native of Little Rock, Ark., Grimes is a United State Marine Corp. veteran. After seven and a half years of active duty, she received an honorable discharge as a Sergeant.

CHRISTY KAISER

Administrative Assistant

Christy Kaiser begins her fourth year with the Georgia Tech basketball program, serving as the administrative assistant for the assistant coaches and for recruiting.

Kaiser, who joined the Tech staff in August of 1999, is a 1992 graduate of Georgia Southern with a bachelor's degree in recreation.

The native of Marietta, Ga., is married to Chip Kaiser.

SCOTT McDONALD

Player Development Coach

Scott McDonald is in his sixth season as the player development coach for the Georgia Tech basketball program. He also works with Tech's volleyball, track and cross country programs.

McDonald joined the Tech staff in 1997 after three years at Florida State, where he was the assistant strength coach for the football team.

A certified strength and conditioning specialist, McDonald earned a degree in sports fitness management from Alabama.

McDonald's father, Bill, is the Director of Sports Medicine at Alabama and previously served in that capacity at Georgia Tech from 1972-86.

ETHAN SHAPIRO

Graduate Assistant

Ethan Shapiro, a former manager for the Georgia Tech basketball team, is in his first year as a graduate assistant on the staff.

Shapiro has been an administrative assistant in the Athletic Association since September of 2001, and helped coordinate ESPN's College Basketball Awards Show and the NABC All-Star Game during the 2002 NCAA Final Four. He also spent a year as an assistant in the Tech marketing and promotions department.

Shapiro graduated from Tech in May of 2001 with a bachelor's degree in management and a certificate in marketing, making the Dean's List in 10 of 12 terms. He served as a manager for the basketball team for two years.

Shapiro began working toward his Master's in sports admninistration in August at Georgia State.

CHRIS JACOBS

Graduate Assistant

Chris Jacobs, a former assistant men's basketball coach at LeMoyne College, has joined the men's basketball staff as a graduate assistant.

Jacobs spent two seasons (2000-02) on the basketball staff at Division II LeMoyne, also working as a supervisor at the college's recreation center, and prior to that served one year as an administrative assistant for the men's basketball staff at Northwestern. Jacobs also has served as a coach and instructor at several summer basketball camps, including the Georgia Tech camp in the summer of 2002.

A 1999 graduate of Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Jacobs earned a bachelor's degree in business administration there and played two seasons of varsity basketball. He is currently working toward his master's in sports admninistration at Georgia State.

Tech vs. UGA

At AMC: 28-8
All Other Home Courts: 28-16
All Home Games: 56-24
All Road Games: 28-47
At Stegeman Coliseum: 3-21
At The Omni: 8-6
In Atlanta: 65-32
At Neutral Sites: 13-10
Under Paul Hewitt: 0-2

The annual contest between these two state rivals returned to campus arenas in 1995-96 after 14 straight games at the Omni in Atlanta ... The home team has won six of seven games since the series moved to the campuses; the lone exception being Georgia's win at Alexander Memorial Coliseum on Dec. 6, 2000 ... That was the first win for the visiting team in a campus arena since Georgia's 55-38 victory at Alexander Memorial Coliseum on Dec. 6, 1980 ... Neither team has had much success in the other's current home arena; Tech holds a 28-8 advantage at the Thrillerdome but is just 3-20 at Stegeman Coliseum ... The Jackets have lost eight in a row in Athens since a 64-43 victory in 1976-77.

Tech vs. Clemson

All Home Games: 35-17
At AMC: 21-12
In Atlanta: 35-18
All Away Games: 13-31
At Littlejohn Coliseum: 6-24
Since joining the ACC: 22-26
In the ACC Tournament: 2-0
Under Paul Hewitt: 3-1

Georgia Tech swept the 2000-01 series with Clemson for the first time since 1985-86 ... Tech's sweep was only the fourth by either team since 1983 ... The Jackets have won the last two meetings at Littlejohn Coliseum after not winning there in seven straight meetings since 1993 ... Still, Tech has won just five times at Littlejohn Coliseum since joining the ACC in 1979-80 and has lost 13 of the last 16 games there ... The home team has won 25 of the last 31 regular season games ... Tech's 76-72 loss at Clemson on Nov. 30, 1968 was the first game played at Littlejohn Coliseum.

Tech vs. FSU

All Home Games: 12-11
At AMC: 12-11
In Atlanta: 12-11
All Road Games: 8-13
At Tallahassee-Leon County C.C.: 5-6
Since joining the ACC: 11-12
In the ACC Tournament: 0-1
Under Paul Hewitt: 3-1

The Jackets lost the first six meetings when FSU joined the ACC in 1991-92 … Since then Tech is 11-6 against the Seminoles, including a season sweep last year for the first time since the 1995-96 season … Tech's 77-46 win over the Seminoles at home last year established a Tech record for largest victory margin over an ACC foe … The teams were both members of the Metro Conference for two seasons (1976-78).

All Road Games: 10-17
At Cole Field House: 10-17
Since joining the ACC: 30-23
In the ACC Tournament: 3-3
Under Paul Hewitt: 1-3

Georgia Tech's 30-23 record against Maryland since 1979-80 is its best mark against any ACC team since the Jackets joined the league … Tech has won two of the last three meetings in Atlanta, and Maryland has won just seven times in 23 games on Tech's home court … From the end of the 1980-81 season through the 1995-96 season, Tech went 28-7 against the Terrapins, but has lost nine of 11 since then.

Under Paul Hewitt: 2-2

The teams have split the season series each of the past three seasons ... Tech's 66-63 win in 1999-2000 snapped NC State's seven-game winning streak, which followed a seven-game streak by the Jackets from 1994-97 ... Seven of the last 10 games have been decided by six points or fewer ... The Jackets are 20-18 vs. NC State since 1985.

FRED VINSON was a key figure in two Tech wins over No. 1-ranked North Carolina in 1994. He came off the bench to hit three three-point field goals and another long jumper in an 89-69 win against the Tar Heels in Atlanta. Then he hit eight three-pointers and scored a career-high 26 points as Tech upset the Tar Heels in Chapel Hill a month later.

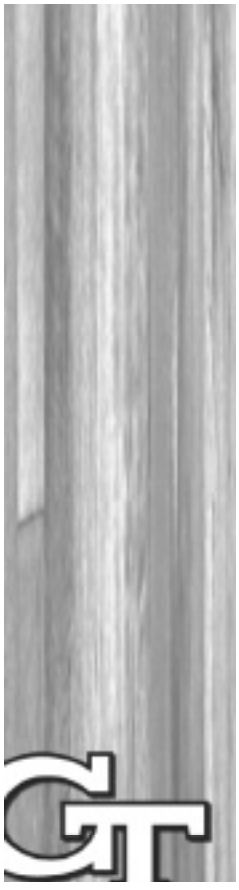
SAMMY DRUMMER (second from right) and TICO BROWN (far right) helped Tech set a season mark for scoring margin in 1978-79. They made the all-tournament team of the Pillsbury Classic along with future NBA stars Danny Ainge (far left) and Kevin McHale (shaking hands with Drummer).



CRAIG NEAL (left) and BRIAN OLIVER each served as Tech's primary point guard between the Mark Price years and the Kenny Anderson years. They combined to help Tech set a season record with 680 assists in 1987-88.

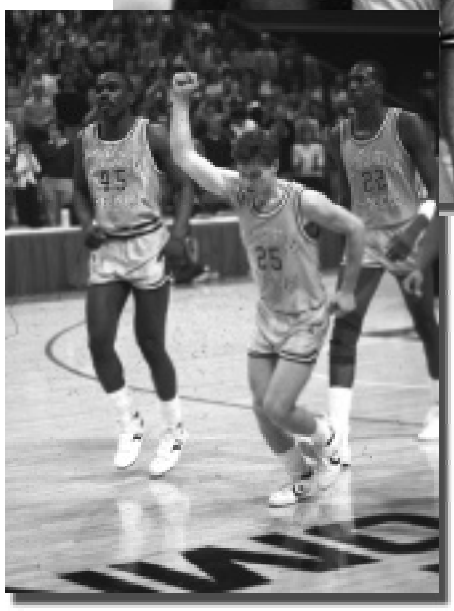
ACC Champions • 1985



March 8–10 • Atlanta, Ga.

- Georgia Tech 55, Virginia 48
- Georgia Tech 75, Duke 64
- Georgia Tech 57, North Carolina 54

Georgia Tech, the perennial conference also-ran, accomplished this feat nearly unmatched in ACC history. Inheriting a 4-23 team, Bobby Cremins took a winless ACC squad and transformed it into a first place team within a four-year span.

Nationally the Jackets, 27-8 overall, reached new heights, climbing to their highest ranking ever (5th place tie with Oklahoma-UPI). In all, the Rambling Wreck beat 13 teams that were ranked in the nation's Top 20 at the time of their defeat.

The playing cast for Georgia Tech had limited numbers. So limited that Furman Bisher of the Atlanta Journal-Constitution labeled Tech "The Thin Gold Line." By ACC tournament time, with a knee injury to Ferrell, it was a "Thin Gold Thread." The starting lineup throughout the season was Mark Price and Bruce Dalrymple at guards, Yvon Joseph in the middle and John Salley and Duane Ferrell at the forwards.

The top reserves were senior Scott Petway, who started the final six games for the injured Ferrell, and 7-0 freshman center Antoine Ford.

A deadly outside shooter, Price gave Tech more than just points. Dishing out the ball from his point guard spot, he was largely responsible for Tech's five starters averaging in double figures almost the entire season.

While Dalrymple was listed as a guard, that didn't limit him from mixing it up underneath. A former ACC Rookie-of-the-Year, he was the ultimate triple threat with his scoring , rebounding and passing, and drew the tough backcourt defensive assignments.

Joseph, a 6-11 center from Haiti, provided Tech the muscle in the middle while teaming up with Salley. Ferrell was an instant starter at the small forward position, but he saw limited duty at the end of the season because of strained knee ligaments.

In his place, Petway, a 6-6 forward, gave Tech consistent play as a solid complementary player. He was not called upon to score much and usually aided Tech with his ballhandling, passing and defense.

Tech dropped two of three ACC contests down the stretch, which turned the league race topsy-turvy. In its final league game, Tech rallied to beat North Carolina in the Omni. The victory gave Tech a share of first place with UNC and NC State. In a drawing by the ACC office, the Jackets received top seeding in the tournament.

Price earned MVP honors at the tournament with a 50-point performance, including 20-of-20 from the foul line. Dalrymple was as defensive demon and contributed 43 points and was a choice by many as the tournament MVP.

Against the Tar Heels, Tech trailed the entire game, falling behind by eight points with 14:44 to play before beginning their comeback. The Jackets managed their first lead with just 52 seconds left on a free throw by Yvon Joseph and then held on for a 57-54 win. Price, who had 24 points against Duke and 16 in the comeback win over UNC.

Tech had never won more than one game in its NCAA tournament history, but the Jackets proceeded to reel off victories over Mercer, Syracuse, and Illinois before earning a date with a top-ranked Georgetown. Tech lost to the Hoyas by six points in the regional final and concluded the record-breaking year.

ACC Champions • 1990

March 9–11 • Charlotte, N.C.

• Georgia Tech 76, NC State 67

• Georgia Tech 83, Duke 72

• Georgia Tech 70, Virginia 61

The "Lethal Weapon 3" trio of Dennis Scott, Kenny Anderson and Brian Oliver carried third-seeded Tech to the title with wins over NC State, Duke and Virginia. Oliver averaged 23.3 points, including 31 in the semis, to claim Most Valuable Player honors. The title sent Tech into the NCAA Tournament on a high note, and the Jackets went on to earn their first trip to the Final Four.

In the quarterfinals, Tech rallied from a 10-point halftime deficit to score a 76-67 win over the Wolfpack. The Jackets again found themselves trailing at the intermission against a nationally-ranked Duke team that would join Tech in the Final Four, but Oliver and Scott, who also had 31 points, led the second-half assault in the 83-72 win. In the title game, Oliver aggravated an injured ankle but still provided the spark down the stretch in Tech's 70-61 win over the Cavaliers.

Then for the first time in school history, Tech reached the promised land of the "Final Four," capturing the Southeast Regional with thrilling wins over Michigan State (81-80 in OT) and Minnesota (93-91).

Against the Spartans, Kenny Anderson hit a game-tying jumper dangerously close to the buzzer to send the game into overtime. Dennis Scott hit the actual game-winner, a leaning one-hander with seven seconds left.

There was no doubt in the Minnesota game as the trio of Anderson, Scott and Brian Oliver combined for 89 of 93 points for the victory to send the Jackets to the Final Four. After the game, Cremins said, "This is the best team I've ever coached."

In Denver, the Jackets lost to eventual national champion UNLV in the semifinals to end a dream season with a 28-7 record, the most wins in school history.

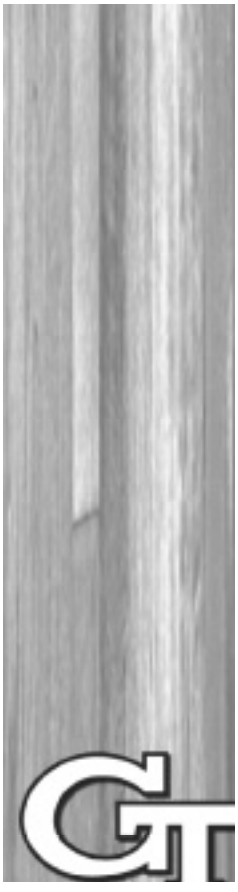
Oliver became the first player in Georgia Tech history and only the third ACC player ever to compile 1,500 points, 500 rebounds and 500 assists in his career. For the second year in a row, he led the ACC in rebounding among guards. Beyond statistical input, Oliver was truly the backbone of this 20-win team.

Scott's creative offensive skills blossomed after his summer training regimen took 20 pounds off of this frame. His ability to score inside the lane or outside the three-point line made him one of the nation's top 10 scorers. He climbed over the 2,000-point mark in his career and moved into third place on Tech's all-time scoring list.

Anderson lived up to all the expectations of a highly-touted recruit, and more. He won the ACC Rookie-of-the-Week award an unprecedented 10 times during the season. He recorded a "triple-double" and six near-misses while ranking No.1 in the league in assists and No. 5 in scoring.

Together, they became Georgia Tech's "Lethal Weapon 3," a potent combination of scoring, rebounding and passing abilities. Tech's fastbreak attack was off and running behind this trio, but the Jackets became more than a three-on-three game. The underrated frontline of Johnny McNeil and Malcolm Mackey developed into a tough combo while super-sub Karl Brown found his role as a defensive stopper.

The Jackets mixed this formula to perfection in the ACC Tournament and its NCAA Tournament run.



ACC Tournament Champions • 1993

March 12–14 • Charlotte, N.C.

- Georgia Tech 69, Duke 66
- Georgia Tech 69, Clemson 61
- Georgia Tech 77, North Carolina 75

Like a fighter that gets knocked down but not out, Georgia Tech bounced off the canvas with a vengeance and delivered a knockout punch to the rest of the Atlantic Coast Conference, capturing its third conference title in nine years.

Led by the amazing play of sophomore forward James Forrest, Georgia Tech stunned the ACC by becoming only the fourth sixth seed ever to win the conference tournament. To do so, the Yellow Jackets had to knock off eighth-ranked Duke in the quarterfinals, 69-66; a stubborn Clemson team in the semis, 69-61; and then No. 1 North Carolina in the finals, 77-75.

Forrest averaged 26.7 points and 7.0 rebounds and hit 69 percent of his shots to claim the Everett Case Award as the tourney MVP. He poured in 27 points against Duke, 26 versus Clemson and 27 against UNC, the first player to top 20 points in three consecutive tournament games since Virginia's Wally Walker in 1976.

The Jackets also got a boost from their backcourt tandem of sophomore Travis Best and freshman Drew Barry. Barry broke the tournament assist record with 27 handouts, earning him a spot on the all-tournament first team, while Best struggled with his shooting but handled and distributed the ball well enough to make the second team.

In addition to playing on ACC championship teams in 1990 and 1993, senior Malcolm Mackey broke the Tech career rebounding record early in the season and climbed to eighth in ACC history with a career total of 1,205 boards, along with 1,734 points. The 6-11 center averaged 15.6 points and 10.2 rebounds per game and notched 16 double-doubles on the season.

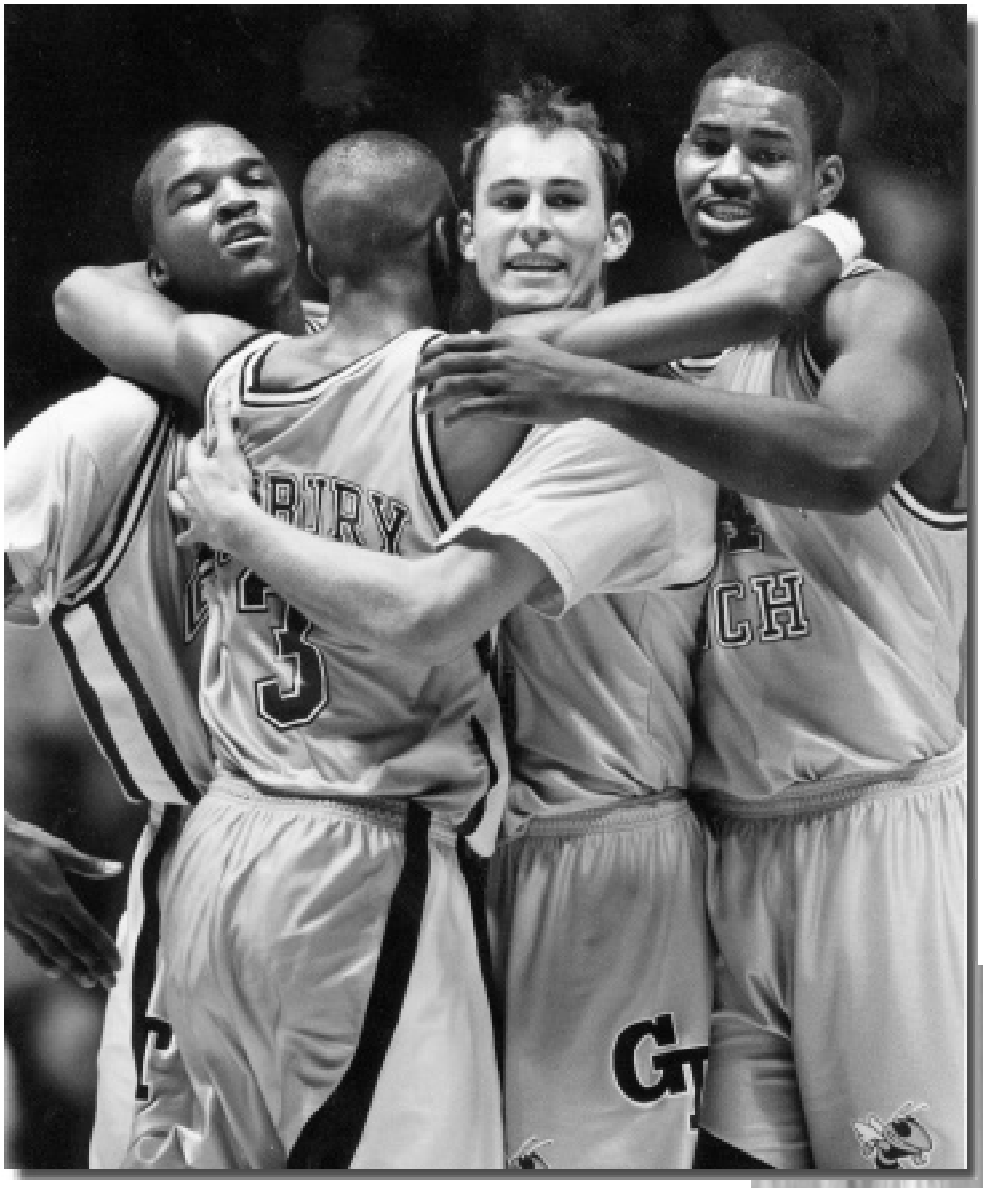
A pair of freshmen rounded out the Tech starting five in Barry, who joined the lineup midway through the season and provided a spark with his ball-handling and three-point shooting, and swingman Martice Moore, the 1993 ACC Rookie of the Year. After averaging 10.5 points, 4.6 rebounds and 2.1 assists per game, Moore became the seventh Yellow Jacket in the last 11 years to be named the league's top freshman.

Thanks to that stunning victory in the ACC Tournament, the Yellow Jackets entered their ninth consecutive NCAA Tournament in fine fashion, having won seven of nine games. In doing so, Tech transformed itself from a team that many thought was in danger of missing the 64-team field to the fourth seed in the West Region in Tucson, Ariz.

Unfortunately for the Jackets, the roller coaster ride ended on a downward note as Tech was upset by the surprising Southern University, 93-78, in the first round of the NCAA Tournament. Despite the finish, the Rambling Wreck finished with a 19-11 record while facing the nation's fifth toughest schedule, according to the Sagarin Index.

In addition to earning the school's ninth consecutive NCAA bid-the fourth longest current streak in the nation-the Rambling Wreck twice upended the nation's number one-ranked team with the victories over Duke and North Carolina. Tech toppled a total of five Top 10 foes, posting a 5-4 record in such games along with a 7-7 mark against all nationally-ranked teams.

ACC Regular Season Champions • 1996



Georgia Tech entered the new year with a 6-7 record against a murderous non-conference schedule, but behind the inspired play of first-team all-ACC performers Matt Harpring and Stephon Marbury and second-teamer Drew Barry, the Rambling Wreck rolled through the ACC slate with a 13-3 mark to claim the first regular-season title in school history.

Tech won its final seven ACC games, including heart-stopping overtime wins over Duke and North Carolina and a dramatic showdown with Wake Forest. The Jackets became the first team to sweep both Duke and UNC since Virginia in 1980-81.

Tech made a run at the tournament title but lost a heart-breaking championship game to Wake Forest. The Jackets fell behind 39-24 at the half and still trailed 71-60 with 2:23 to play but pulled within 71-70 with 52 seconds left before last-second shots by Marbury and Barry were off the mark.

Playing the nation's toughest schedule, Tech compiled 24-12 overall mark, a Top 10 ranking in the nation's RPI, a No. 3 seed in the NCAA Southeast Regional, and the school's third trip to the NCAA Sweet 16 in the last seven years.

The resulting honors were many. Sophomore forward Matt Harpring and freshman point guard Stephon Marbury were both named first-team all-ACC, while senior guard Drew Barry earned second-team all-ACC honors.

Marbury, the mercurial point guard from Brooklyn, N.Y., was named ACC Rookie of the Year, Tech's eighth Rookie winner in the last 14 years, and Cremins was honored as the ACC Coach of the Year, collecting his third such honor, but his first since 1985.

At the start of January, 1996, Tech stumbled home to Atlanta after losing to Bradley and Santa Clara in the Cable Car Classic and extending a four-game losing streak that began with a stunning defeat by Mount St. Mary's.

Tech was in dire straits, and Cremins and his young squad, which featured three sophomores and three freshman among its top eight players, knew it.

Three major events occurred - Nobody left, a senior [Barry] took charge, and a talented freshman [Marbury] sacrificed. The end result was a team of beauty.

Beginning with a 98-84 win over Maryland on Jan. 3, the Jackets gained confidence, poise and chemistry with each successive outing and ripped through the Atlantic Coast Conference with an up-tempo offense featuring the passing of Barry and Marbury, three-point shooting unparalleled in school history, and aggressive defense unseen on the Flats since the days of Mark Price and John Salley.

Following the Yellow Jackets' heart-breaking loss in the championship game, Tech advanced to the NCAA's Sweet 16 by defeating Austin Peay State and Boston College in Orlando, Fla., before falling to No. 2 seed Cincinnati in Lexington, Ky.

Mideast Region

Freedom Hall, Louisville, Ky.
1st round: Tech 57, Ohio University 54

Ohio University, an upset winner over Notre Dame in the first round, jumped to a 19-6 lead at the 10:26 mark of the first half and still led by 12 points with 13 minutes left in the game. Eighth-ranked Tech, which had received a first-round bye, used its full-court pressure defense to get back in the game, taking the lead at 49-48 on a pair of free throws by Roger Kaiser with 4:55 left. Kaiser, who led Tech with 25 points, scored 16 of the Jackets' final 23 points, including several critical free throws, as Tech survived, 57-54, and advanced to the Elite Eight.

2nd round: Ohio State 86, Tech 69

Ohio State, featuring future NBA stars Jerry Lucas and John Havlicek, had compiled a 22-3 record and a No. 2 national ranking. The matchup with Tech was a contrast in styles between the Buckeyes' whirlwind pace and the more deliberate pace of the Jackets. Ohio State led 41-35 at the half and threatened to run away in the second half, but Tech, though physically overmatched, stayed within striking distance, trailing 66-56 with 8:53 to play, before the eventual national champions pulled away for the 86-69 victory.

East Region, No. 2 Seed

The Omni, Atlanta, Ga.
1st round: Tech 65, Mercer 58

Yvon Joseph led all scorers with 19 points and nine rebounds and Bruce Dalrymple had a double-double with 13 points and 11 boards as Georgia Tech defeated Mercer, 65-58, in the Yellow Jackets' first NCAA Tournament game in a quarter of a century. Tech saw an 18-point lead crumble to just six points with 1:35 to play before Mark Price, who finished with 14 points, delivered the clinching basket with a layup with just 27 seconds left.

2nd round: Tech 70, Syracuse 53

Mark Price scored 18 points and Bruce Dalrymple delivered his second straight double-doubles with 10 points and 10 rebounds as Georgia Tech knocked off Syracuse, 70-53, to advance to the Sweet 16. Tech held Syracuse to just 39.6 percent shooting from the field and outrebounded the Orangemen 38-24.

Providence Civic Center, Providence, R.I.
Regional Semifinal: Tech 61, Illinois 53

Mark Price connected on nine of 12 field goal attempts for 20 points to lead Georgia Tech over Illinois, 61-53, and into the Final Eight for the first time in school history. Tech built a 52-37 with 7:02 left in the game, but Doug Altenberger kept Illinois in the game with 24 points. He scored 10 unanswered points cut the Tech lead to 55-51 before fouling out with 1:34 to play.

Regional Final: Georgetown 60, Tech 54

Top-seeded Georgetown ended Tech's Cinderella season with a 60-54 victory in the East Regional Final. All-America center Patrick Ewing scored 14 points and had four rebounds despite playing just 25 minutes due to foul trouble, while Bill Martin and Reggie Williams each had 12 points for the Hoyas. The bigger, more physical Hoyas outrebounded Tech 32-23 and harassed the Jack-

1st round: Georgia Tech 68, Marist 53

Mark Price scored 20 points to lead Georgia Tech to a 68-53 victory over No. 15-seed Marist in the first round of the NCAA Tournament. After the Red Foxes had gone ahead 36-35 with 15:35 to play, Price responded with three straight long range jumpers during a 5-for-6 second half. Rik Smits led Marist with 22 points, but he picked up his fourth foul with 14:33 to go. Tech's John Salley completed a three-point play for a 40-38 lead that the Jackets would not relinquish.

2nd round: Georgia Tech 66, Villanova 61

Sixth-ranked Georgia Tech managed just one field goal during the final 12 minutes of the game but hung on for a 66-61 victory over defending national champion Villanova. Tech led by as many as 18 points in the second half, and Duane's Ferrell's tip-in of a missed shot at 12:01 put the Jackets ahead, 54-40, but that was Tech's last basket until John Salley's short jumper with just 1:44 left. After Ferrell's tip, Villanova whittled away at the Tech lead, pulling within 59-57 with 2:26 left before the basket by Salley, who finished with 14 points and 11 rebounds. Mark Price led Tech with 20 points, including 10-12 from the free throw line, and Ferrell added 14 points and eight rebounds.

The Omni, Atlanta, Ga.
Regional Semifinal: Louisiana State 70, Tech 64

LSU's Don Redden (27) and Derrick Taylor (23) combined for 50 points as the Tigers made their final eight field goals to pull away from Georgia Tech, 70-64. Tech appeared to have seized the momentum, taking a 56-52 lead with 6:19, to play, but Taylor tied the score with a driving layup, followed by a 19-foot jumper. Redden hit a crucial 21-footer with 4:05 left to put LSU ahead 60-58, and then his layup with 2:36 to play capped a 10-2 run that put the Tigers up 62-58. From there, Tech was forced to foul but managed only two more field goals. Mark Price led Tech with 20 points, and the Jackets shot 58 percent from the field to LSU's 41 percent, but 17 turnovers negated the good shooting as Tech attempted only 48 field goals.

Rosemont Horizon, Chicago, Ill.
1st round: Louisiana State 85, Georgia Tech 79

Darryl Joe scored a game-high 28 points to lead LSU to a 85-79 victory over Georgia Tech. The Tigers used a 14-2 run in the first half to build a 14-point lead with 13:48 left in the half. Tech spent the rest of the game trying to close the 20-6 deficit, but came up short in the end. Tom Hammonds led the Jackets with 24 points while Duane Ferrell added 17.

1988 (1–1)
East Region, No. 5 Seed

Civic Center, Hartford, Conn.
1st round: Georgia Tech 90, Iowa State 78

Tom Hammonds scored a career-high 33 points and Dennis Scott added 23 to lead No. 5 seed Georgia Tech to a 90-78 victory over Iowa State. The Cyclones led 41-38 at halftime, and the game was tied at 72 with 4:50 left to play, but the Jackets scored nine straight points and finished the game with an 18-6 run. Tech hit 36 of 42 free throw attempts, including Hammonds' school record 19 free throws on 21 tries. Meanwhile, Iowa State was cold from the floor in the second half, hitting just 16-42, including 0-12 from three-point range.

2nd round: Richmond 59, Georgia Tech 55

Led by Peter Woolfolk's 27 points, 13th-seeded Richmond upset Georgia Tech, 59-55. The Spiders held Tech to 18 points in the first half and led the entire game, but the Jackets had a chance at the end. Dennis Scott nailed a three-pointer with 35 seconds to play to cut the Spiders' lead to 57-55, but Benjy Taylor hit two free throws to seal the victory. Richmond, which had stunned fourth-seeded Indiana in the first round, held the Jackets to 33 percent shooting from the floor and limited Tech's high-scoring duo of Tom Hammonds and Duane Ferrell to a combined 17 points. Scott and Brian Oliver led Tech with 15 points apiece.

1st round: Texas 76, Georgia Tech 70

Eleventh-seeded Texas, making its first NCAA appearance in a decade under first-year head coach Tom Penders, knocked off No. 6 seed Georgia Tech, 76-70. The Longhorns, who entered the tournament as the nation's fourth-highest scoring team, were held almost 20 points below their average but led the entire game. Travis Mays (23 points), Joey Wright (17), Alvin Heggs (17) and Lance Blanks (13) scored all but six of the Texas' points. Brian Oliver led the Jackets with 24 points.

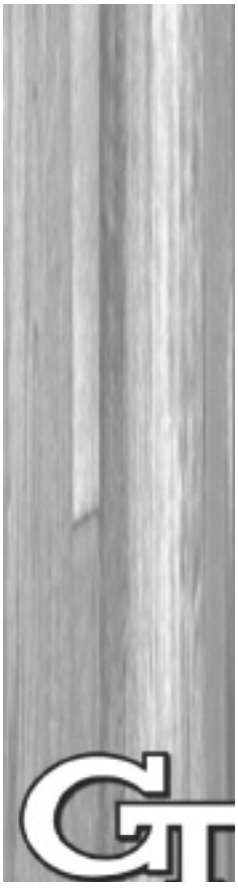
2nd round: Georgia Tech 94, Louisiana State 91

Dennis Scott scored 30 points, including two free throws with seven seconds left, to lift Tech to a 94-91 victory over LSU. The Yellow Jackets advanced to the Sweet 16 despite a combined 40 points, 29 rebounds and eight blocked shots, from LSU seven-footers Shaquille O'Neal and Stanley Roberts. The Jackets missed 15 of their first 19 shots and fell behind 22-5, but Tech managed to cut the deficit to just 41-40 at the half. The teams traded leads throughout the second half until Kenny Anderson's basket with 1:35 put the Jackets ahead 92-91. LSU held for a final shot, but Maurice Williamson's drive to basket came up empty, and Scott's free throws sealed the outcome. Anderson had 26 points for Tech while Brian Oliver scored 18.

Superdome, New Orleans, La.
Regional Semifinal:
Georgia Tech 81, Michigan State 80 (OT)

Kenny Anderson's controversial 20-foot jumper at the buzzer tied the game and Dennis Scott hit the game winner with a 12-foot hook shot with seven seconds remaining in overtime as Georgia Tech knocked off top-seeded Michigan State, 81-80. With the Spartans leading 75-73, Steve Smith missed the front end of a one-and-one with five seconds left, and Anderson, who finished with 31 points, took the rebound and raced down the court. The basket was originally called a three, but he was just inside the arc at the top of the key, forcing the overtime. Scott scored 18 points for Tech, while Smith led all scorers with 32 points.



NCAA Tournament History

MIRACLE IN MILWAUKEE

Freshman James Forrest had not hit a three-pointer all season, but his 25-foot heave off an in-bounds play at the buzzer lifted Tech past No. 2-seeded Southern California, 79-78, and into the Sweet 16.

Regional Final: Georgia Tech 93, Minnesota 91

Dennis Scott poured in 40 points to lead Georgia Tech over Minnesota, 93-91, and into the NCAA Final Four for the first time. Kenny Anderson had 30 points and Brian Oliver added 19 as "Lethal Weapon 3" produced 89 of the Jackets' 93 points. Tech rallied from a 12-point deficit late in the first half to trail just 49-47 at the intermission. The Jackets built a five-point advantage early in the second half, but the teams traded leads until Oliver put Tech ahead for good at 84-83 with a pair of free throws with 3:50 left. Minnesota had a chance to tie or win the game when Anderson missed the front end of a one-and-one with six seconds left, but Kevin Lynch's three-point attempt was no good. Tech made 27 of 35 free throws, while the Gophers were only 5-11.

Final Four, McNichols Arena, Denver, Colo.
National Semifinal: UNLV 90, Georgia Tech 81

Georgia Tech's magical run through the NCAA Tournament came to an end at the hands of UNLV, 90-81, in the national semifinals. Tech led 53-46 at halftime, but a three-pointer by Anderson Hunt put UNLV on top 56-54 with 16:23 to play and the Rebels held off the Jackets the rest of the way. UNLV's pressure defense held Tech without a field goal during the first six minutes of the second half. Dennis Scott scored game-high 29 points, while Brian Oliver scored 24, and Kenny Anderson finished with 16 points and eight assists.

Midwest Region, No. 8 Seed

University of Dayton Arena, Dayton, Ohio
1st round: Georgia Tech 87, DePaul 70

Kenny Anderson had 31 points, five assists, and four rebounds to lead No. 8 seed Georgia Tech over DePaul, 87-70. Jon Barry added 22 points while Malcom Mackey scored 12 with eight rebounds. Tech shot 58.6 percent from the field to 43.5 percent for the Blue Demons.

2nd round: Ohio State 65, Georgia Tech 61

Perry Carter had 19 points and 18 rebounds and Jimmy Jackson contributed 16 points, eight rebounds and eight assists for top-seeded Ohio State. Kenny Anderson led Tech with 25 points, but made only eight of his 28 field goal attempts, and Malcolm Mackey was the only other Tech player in double figures with 10 points and a career-high 19 rebounds. Tech shot 37.5 percent from the field but still had a chance at the end. The Buckeyes, who made just two field goals in the final nine minutes, led 58-56 when Anderson hit a free throw with 32.4 seconds left, but he missed the second and Tech was forced to foul. Ohio State made seven of eight free throws in the final 30 seconds.

Midwest Region, No. 7 Seed

Bradley Center, Milwaukee, Wis.
1st round: Georgia Tech 65, Houston 60

Trailing 58-54 with four minutes to play, Georgia Tech finished the game with an 11-2 run to secure a 65-60 victory over Houston. Tech held the Southwest Conference champions to 35.4 percent shooting from the field while Jon Barry paced the Jackets with 17 points.

2nd round: Georgia Tech 79, Southern California 78

James Forrest's desperation three-pointer at the buzzer gave the Yellow Jackets 79-78 victory over No. 2 seeded Southern Cal. USC's Rodney Chatman drove the baseline past Forrest for a basket with just 2.2 seconds that put the Trojans ahead by two. Matt Geiger's inbounds pass from under the basket, intended for Jon Barry, was tipped away, and with just 0.8 seconds on the clock, Geiger inbounded from midcourt to Forrest near the sideline, and the Tech freshman threw in the first three-pointer of his career from about 25 feet. All five Tech starters scored in double figures, led by 20 from Barry and 16 each from Malcom Mackey and Travis Best.

Regional Semifinal:
Memphis State 83, Georgia Tech 79 (OT)

Georgia Tech made its fourth Sweet 16 appearance in eight years, but six Memphis State free throws in overtime sealed a 83-79 victory for the Tigers. Tech led 74-72 with 17.2 seconds left in regulation when Matt Geiger missed the front end of a one-and-one. Memphis State's Billy Smith hit the tying basket with 9.3 seconds left, and the Tigers outscored the Jackets 9-5 in the overtime to advance. Tech was led by 29 points from Jon Barry while James Forrest added 16 points and 11 rebounds.

West Region, No. 4 Seed

McKale Center, Tucson, Ariz.
1st round: Southern 93, Georgia Tech 78

Just five days after a stunning run through the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, No. 4 seed Georgia Tech was upset in the first round of the NCAA Tournament by Southern, 93-78. Tech led by as many as 15 points in the first half and still led 44-39 at the half, but the Jaguars, who led the nation with a 97.9 scoring average, scored the first six points of the second half and took their first lead, 45-44, with 18:50 remaining. A three-pointer by Darius Mimms with 12:33 to play gave Southern the lead for good at 64-61. Jervaughn Scales paced Southern with 27 points and 18 rebounds. Malcolm Mackey led Tech with 27 points and James Forrest added 24 points, but the Jackets committed 23 turnovers, 16 in the second half.

1996 (2–1)
Southeast Region, No. 3 Seed

Orlando Arena, Orlando, Fla.
1st round: Georgia Tech 90, Austin Peay 79

Matt Harpring scored 27 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead third-seeded Georgia Tech to a 90-79 victory over No. 14 seed Austin Peay. Both teams shot better than 60 percent in the first half, which ended with Tech leading just 51-47. The Jackets opened the second half with a 9-2 run to build an 11-point lead and remained hot from the floor, connecting on 56.7 percent. Four Tech starters were in double figures as Stephon Marbury and Eddie Elisma scored 17 points each, and Mike Maddox had 16. Drew Barry contributed nine points and 11 assists.

2nd round: Georgia Tech 103, Boston College 89

Stephon Marbury poured in a career-high 29 points, hitting 10-for-12 from the field including 6-for-7 from three point range, to lead Georgia Tech over Boston College, 103-89, and into the Sweet Sixteen. Marbury also tied his career high with nine assists and had four steals and no turnovers. He led a balanced scoring attack that featured all five starters in double figures, including 20 points by Matt Harpring. The Jackets shot a season-high 61 percent from the field and set an NCAA Southeast Region record and tied the school record with 16 three-pointers en route to their highest scoring output in an NCAA Tournament game.

Rupp Arena, Lexington, Ky.
Regional Semifinal:
Cincinnati 87, Georgia Tech 70

With six players scoring in double figures and an effective defense that held the Yellow Jackets to just 36.9 percent shooting, No. 2 seed Cincinnati eliminated Georgia Tech, 87-70. Cincinnati, which outrebounded Tech 45-34, was led by the interior play of Danny Fortson (12 points, 16 rebounds) and Art Long (12-8). Stephon Marbury led the Jackets with 15 points while Matt Harpring and Michael Maddox had 13 points each.

West Region, No. 8 Seed

Cox Arena, San Diego, Calif.
1st round: St. Joseph's 66, Georgia Tech 62

After trailing by 18 points early in the second half, eighth-seeded Georgia Tech rallied to pull within three in the final two minutes before falling to No. 9 seed and 23rd-ranked St. Joseph's, 66-62. Tony Akins' two free throws pulled Tech within 63-60 with 1:12 to play, and then the Hawks missed the front end of one-and-one attempts by Damian Reid and Jameer Nelson. But Yellow Jackets came up short on two scoring chances as Tony Akins' shot spun out of the basket and Alvin Jones missed an alley-oop dunk, although both players appeared to be fouled. Nelson hit two foul shots to keep St. Joe's ahead 65-60 with 29.7 seconds left. Akins led Tech with 16 points, including 7-of-7 free throws, and Darryl LaBarrie tied his career-best with 15 points. Jones finished with eight points and 10 rebounds after being held scoreless in the first half. Marvin O'Connor led the Hawks with 21 points, and Nelson added 13. St. Joe's took a 56-28 lead early in the second half before Tech scored 15 of the next 17 points to get within 48-43 with 11:47 remaining.

ROOKIE WONDER

Playing in his only NCAA Tournament, Stephon Marbury averaged 23 points and eight assists in Tech's first- and second-round wins in 1996 in Orlando, Fla. He scored a career-high 29 against Boston College in the second round to help Tech to its third Sweet 16 appearance of the 1990s.

National Invitation Tournament

NIT Record: 6–6

1969–70 (1–1 • Quarterfinals)

All games at Madison Square Garden, New York

1st round: Tech 78, Duquesne 68

Rich Yunkus led Georgia Tech to its first NIT victory with 28 points and 15 rebounds.

Quarterfinals: St. John's, 56-55

St. John's Greg Cluess' layup with nine seconds left gave St. John's a victory. Georgia Tech trailed 45-40 with five minutes to play, but Rich Yunkus' spinning layup put the Jackets ahead, 55-54, with 30 seconds left. With Tech pressing, SJU's John Devasto found Cluess alone under the basket for the winning score. After being held to just four points in the first half, Yunkus scored Tech's first 17 points of the second half and finished with 27 points and 11 rebounds.

1970–71 (3–1 • Finals)

All games at Madison Square Garden, New York

1st round: Tech 70, LaSalle 67

Rich Yunkus led had 27 points and 13 rebounds and Tommy Wilson added a career-high 21 points and 10 boards to lead Georgia Tech to the first-round victory. After LaSalle tied the score at 64-all with 1:14 left, Yunkus scored for Tech and then Wilson's driving layup put the Jackets ahead by four with 51 seconds to play. The Explorers pulled with one, 68-67, but Wilson hit two free throws with four seconds left to seal the win.

Quarterfinals: Tech 78, Michigan 70

Rich Yunkus again led the way with 27 points and 16 rebounds and Tommy Wilson added 15 points to pace Georgia Tech's victory over Michigan.

Semifinals: Tech 76, St. Bonaventure 71 (2 ot)

Rich Yunkus' field goal tied the game with less than a minute left in regulation, and then Georgia Tech survived two potential game-winning free throw attempts with no time left in the first overtime to defeat St. Bonaventure. Jim Thorne led Tech with 27 points, and Yunkus added 19 points and 12 rebounds.

Finals: North Carolina 84, Tech 64

Thirteenth-ranked North Carolina held Rich Yunkus to a career-low 10 points in his final game as the Tar Heels prevailed behind 34 points and 10 rebounds by Bill Chamberlain. Tech trailed by just four points and had the ball with seven minutes to play, but the UNC press forced a turnover, and Chamberlain hit four straight free throws to send the Tar Heels on their way to victory.

1983–84 (0–1)

1st round (Blacksburg, Va.): Virginia Tech 77, Georgia Tech 74

Perry Young and Dell Curry led the Hokies with 19 points each, while Yvon Joseph had 17 points and 12 rebounds for Georgia Tech in its first post-season game in 13 years.

1993–94 (0–1)

1st round (Albany, N.Y.): Siena 74, Tech 69

Siena's Doremus Bennerman scored 33 points, including 13-for-14 on free throws, and the Saints outscored Georgia Tech 11-2 in final 3:25 to win at Knickerbocker Arena. Martice Moore had 22 points for the Jackets, who played without James Forrest and with Drew Barry hampered by injury.

T.J. VINES' free throw with 11 seconds left in overtime proved to be the winning point in Tech's 80-79 victory over Georgetown in the 1998 second round.

1997–98 (2–1 • Quarterfinals)

1st round (Atlanta): Tech 88, Seton Hall 78

Freshman Dion Glover scored career-high 33 points, including six of Georgia Tech's Alexander Memorial Coliseum-record 15 three-pointers as the Yellow Jackets defeated Seton Hall. Tech trailed 43-38 at the half, but the Jackets opened the second half with a 20-5 run. Matt Harpring added 16 points and eight rebounds, and Jason Floyd scored 15 off the bench.

2nd round (Atlanta): Tech 80, Georgetown 79 (OT)

Trailing by 16 points with less than nine minutes to play, Georgia Tech went on a 20-5 run to force overtime and then hung on for a victory over Georgetown. Freshman T.J. Vines, who keyed the comeback with three treys and a season-high 12 points, hit a free throw with 11 seconds left to break a tie. Rhese Gibson's layup attempt from the lane was off.

3rd round (Atlanta): Penn State 75, Tech 70

Calvin Booth had 16 points, eight rebounds and four blocks to lead Penn State to the victory. Matt Harpring led the Jackets with 25 points in his final game to come within eight points of the Tech career scoring record.

1998–99 (0–1)

1st round (Eugene, Ore.): Oregon 67, Georgia Tech 64

A.D. Smith scored 17 points, including the winning free throws with 1:20 left, and Alex Scales added 16 points to lead Oregon to the first-round victory. Tech took a 64-63 lead on a three-pointer by Jason Floyd and then a tip in by Alvin Jones with 1:38 to play. Smith then drew a charge on Tech's Jason Collier and hit both free throws to put the Ducks ahead. Tony Akins missed a final shot for the Jackets. Jones led Tech with 27 points and 11 rebounds.

KENTUCKY KILLER

Whack Hyder, shown here directing his team during a 1962 contest against Georgia, coached the Yellow Jackets for 22 seasons, longer than any other head coach. Among Hyder's 292 career wins were three triumphs over Kentucky teams ranked No. 1 in the nation.

FANTASTIC FINISH

Anthony Sherrod (underneath basket) tipped in a missed shot at the buzzer to give the Jackets a thrilling 78-77 win over arch-rival Georgia at the Omni in 1987. Sherrod had rebounded a Georgia miss at the other end, sprinted the length of the court and was in position to tap in a missed jumper by Dennis Scott (4).

BACK ON CAMPUS

In December 1996, Georgia Tech hosted Georgia in Alexander Memorial Coliseum for the first time in 16 years, and rallied from 11 points down in the final four minutes to win, 62-61. Tech took the lead for good with 2:27 to play on a Michael Maddox three, and Matt Harpring sealed it with two free throws.

BIG WINS COAST-TO-COAST

SEEN A LOT OF THRILLERS

ESPN and ABC play-by-play man Brad Nessler, shown interviewing Paul Hewitt after Tech defeated Kentucky in 2000, called Yellow Jacket basketball games on Atlanta radio in the early 1980's. He coined the phrase "The Thrillerdome," commonly used to refer to Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

Wins Over No. 1

Georgia Tech 59, Kentucky 58
Jan. 8, 1955

Joe Helms' jump shot with 11 seconds to play gave Georgia Tech a stunning 59-58 upset over No. 1-ranked Kentucky at Memorial Coliseum, ending the Wildcats' 129-game home winning streak. Kentucky had not lost a Southeastern Conference game in 16 years and were riding a 32-game winning streak, but trailed 26-23 at the half and 38-30 in the second half. Still, the Wildcats led by three with 1:14 left. After Kentucky missed a pair of free throws, Tech's Bobby Kimmel was fouled on the rebound and hit two free throws to pull the Jackets within one. With Kentucky's Bill Evans trying to run out the clock, Kimmel tied him up and Helms snatched the ball and then let fly with the winning shot.

Georgia Tech 65, Kentucky 59
Jan. 31, 1955

Just 23 days after stunning No. 1 Kentucky on its homecourt, Georgia Tech again downed the mighty Wildcats, 65-59, at Heisman Gym. Tech's backcourt of Bobby Kimmel and Joe Helms combined for 44 points, and the Yellow Jackets connected on 25 free throws to just five for the Wildcats. Tech never trailed in the game, jumping to a 15-8 lead in the early going. Kentucky pulled within 18-16 but could get no closer as the Jackets took a 32-24 lead into the intermission. In the second half, Tech went ahead by as many as 14 points, leading 58-44 with six minutes to play.

Georgia Tech 76, Kentucky 67
Jan. 4, 1964

Kentucky native R.D. Craddock scored 25 points as Georgia Tech shocked the top-ranked Wildcats, 76-67, at Alexander Memorial Coliseum. Charlie Spooner added 16 points and Mick Stenftenagel 15 for the Jackets as Tech head coach Whack Hyder recorded his ninth victory over Adolph Rupp's Wildcats, including three win over No. 1-ranked Kentucky teams. Craddock, who was 5-for-8 from the field and 15-for-17 from the foul line, scored 19 points in the second half as Tech rallied from a 32-30 halftime deficit to lead by as many as 13 points. Leading 48-43, Tech scored seven straight points on field goals by Craddock and Jim Caldwell and three free throws by Bill Edison, to go up 55-43 with 10:35 to play and then held off the Wildcats with free throw shooting, hitting 17 in a row in one stretch.

"DUKE IS DUKE"

Georgia Tech 80, Duke 79
Jan. 10, 1993

Freshman Drew Barry came off the bench to record 11 points, five assists and four steals, as No. 10 Georgia Tech knocked off No. 1-ranked Duke, 80-79, at Alexander Memorial Coliseum, ending a 23-game winning streak for the defending national champions. Barry and freshman Martice Moore combined for 15 of Tech's 19 points during a second half stretch in which the Jackets took a 76-74 lead with 1:04 to go. Tech began the game with a 12-0 run and led by as many as 14 in the first half before Duke pulled within 44-37 at the half. The Blue Devils led 60-59 when Moore's three-pointer put Tech ahead 62-60 with 8:47 left. Duke tied the score three times after that but never led.

Georgia Tech 77, North Carolina 75
Mar. 12, 1993

James Forrest had 27 points and 10 rebounds to lead Georgia Tech to a 77-75 victory over top-ranked North Carolina in the championship game of the ACC Tournament at the Charloote (N.C.) Coliseum. The Tar Heels led by one point midway through the second half when Forrest ignited an 11-0 run that put Tech up 66-58 with six minutes to play. Forrest hit 11 of 19 field goals against the Heels as he averaged 26.7 points and shot 69 percent for the tournament.

Georgia Tech 89, North Carolina 69
Jan. 13, 1994

Travis Best had 27 points, nine assists and only one turnover and James Forrest added 22 points as Georgia Tech downed its third straight No. 1-ranked team with an 89-69 upset over North Carolina at Alexander Memorial Coliseum. After leading by as many as 13 in the first half, Tech held a 38-35 advantage at the intermission. The score was tied at 44-44 with 16 minutes to play when Fred Vinson came off the bench to hit three three-pointers and another long jumper, helping Tech build a 66-56 lead with 8:03 remaining.

Georgia Tech 96, North Carolina 89
Feb. 12, 1994

Fred Vinson scored a career-high 26 points, 24 of them on eight three-pointers, and James Forrest added 25 points and 17 rebounds as Georgia Tech knocked off a No. 1 ranked team for the fourth straight time with a 96-89 win at North Carolina. Tech hit a school-record 15 three-pointers in defeating a top-ranked Tar Heel team for the third time in less than a year. Tech trailed by 15 points in the first half and stayed close only by nailing nine treys, five by Vinson. Trailing 48-41, Tech opened the second half with three straight threes. Travis Best gave Tech the lead for good, 85-84, with 1:54 left when he drained a 15-footer as the shot clock expired, and the Jackets hit nine of 10 free throws in the final minute to seal the win.

Fantastic Finishes

Georgia Tech 62, Kentucky 60
Jan. 30, 1961

All-America guard Roger Kaiser nailed a baseline jumper as time expired to give Georgia Tech a 62-60 upset over Kentucky at Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

After, Kentucky's Carroll Burchett tied the score at 60-60 with a tip-in with 30 seconds left, Kaiser took the ball and dribbled most of the clock away. With time running out, he drove to the baseline, shook off two defenders, and fired from the left corner as the buzzer sounded.

Despite playing with a broken thumb on his shooting hand, Kaiser connected on 7-of-15 from the field and 15-of-19 from the free throw line for a game-high 29 points, leading Tech to its third victory in four games over Kentucky.

Georgia Tech 86, Kentucky 85 (2 OT)
Jan. 5, 1963

Mike Tomasovich scored the winning points on a pair of free throws with seven seconds left in the second overtime as Georgia Tech upset sixth-ranked Kentucky, 86-85, at Memorial Gymnasium in Lexington, Ky.

Kentucky tied the score at 70-70 on a basket by Roy Roberts with 20 seconds left in regulation, and then Scotty Baesler's shot with 1:09 left in the first overtime tied the game at 76. In the second extra session, Tech's R.D. Craddock hit two free throws to put Tech ahead, 84-81, with 19 seconds left. After a tip-in pulled the Wildcats within one, Tomasovich sealed the win with two more free throws.

Georgia Tech 76, St. Bonaventure 71 (2 OT)
Mar. 25, 1971

Rich Yunkus' field goal tied the game with less than a minute left in regulation, and then Georgia Tech survived two potential game-winning free throws with no time left in the first overtime to defeat St. Bonaventure, 76-71, in double overtime in the National Invitation Tournament semifinals at Madison Square Garden.

With the score tied at 67-67 in the first overtime, Tech guard Jim Thorne missed the front end of a one-and-one with nine seconds left. St. Bonaventure's Paul Hoffman launched a desperation shot at the buzzer that missed, but the Yellow Jackets' Frank Samoylo was called for a foul, giving Hoffman a pair of free throws with no time left. Hoffman missed both shots, forcing the second extra session.

Thorne, who finished with a game-high 27 points, scored Tech's first basket with 3:09 left in the second overtime, and the Jackets coasted to a 76-71 victory. Yunkus added 19 points and 12 rebounds for Tech.

Georgia Tech 64, Maryland 58 (OT)
Mar. 11, 1983

Freshmen Mark Price and John Salley combined for 31 points to lead Georgia Tech to a 64-58 overtime victory over Maryland in the opening round of the 1983 ACC Tournament in The Omni in Atlanta.

Price, who managed 15 points and eight rebounds, and Salley, who chipped in 16 points, combined to score 11 of Tech's 12 points in the overtime session as the Jackets captured their first-ever victory in the ACC Tournament.

Georgia Tech 68, Wake Forest 66
Jan. 7, 1984

Junior Scott Petway capped a game-long comeback with a 15-foot jump shot with just three seconds remaining in the game to give Georgia Tech a 68-66 victory at Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

Petway's shot gave the Jackets their first lead since the red-haired forward had scored the game's first points. After Wake's Anthony Young missed the front end of a one-and-one with 1:05 left, Salley grabbed the rebound. Tech ran the clock down to 11 seconds before calling a timeout. Petway was supposed to get the ball to either Mark Price, who had 19 points and six assists, or Yvon Joseph, but when both were covered, Petway dribbled to the left baseline and drilled the shot.

DOUBLE-OT

Bruce Dalrymple (45) leads the celebration after Tech's double-overtime win over Maryland in 1984.

Tech trailed 52-42 with 14:42 remaining but fought back to within two, 62-60, on Mark Price's 19-footer at 6:07, and baskets by Joseph tied the score at 64 with 2:50 left and then at 66 with 1:11 on the clock.

Georgia Tech 72, Virginia 71 (3 OT)
Jan. 23, 1984

Georgia Tech's John Salley hit a pair of free throws for a four-point lead with 59 seconds left in the third overtime and then the Yellow Jackets survived a three-point play by Rick Carlisle and a last-second missed shot by Othell Wilson for a 72-71 victory over 19th-ranked Virginia at Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

Tech scored eight straight points in the second half to take an eight-point lead with 12:37 left in regulation, but the Cavaliers responded with a 13-2 run to take a 46-45 lead with 6:36 to play. From there, the lead changed hands almost every possession until Tech, with the score tied at 51-51, held the ball for more than four minutes for the last shot. But Carlisle fouled Scott Petway with 10 seconds left and Petway missed the front end of the one-and-one. At the other end, Wilson and Jim Miller missed shots as time expired.

After the two teams failed to score in the first overtime, Tech fell behind by five in the second session, trailing 60-55 with 1:28 left. But the Jackets called timeout and then scored the next four times down the floor, including two free throws by Yvon Joseph with 10 seconds left to force the third overtime.

Bruce Dalrymple scored Tech's first basket of the third overtime, and his only field goal of the night, for a 65-63 lead the Jackets would not relinquish. After Petway fouled out, Anthony Byrd came off the bench to make four straight free throws, but his charging foul with 36 seconds left led to Wilson's final shot, which bounced off the back of the rim at the buzzer.

Georgia Tech 71, Maryland 70 (2 OT)
Feb. 4, 1984

John Salley completed a three-point play with eight seconds left in the second overtime to give Georgia Tech a three-point lead as the 18th-ranked Yellow Jackets knocked off No. 9 Maryland, 71-70, in double overtime at the Thrillerdome.

After Maryland's Jeff Adkins tied the score at 68-68 with a pair of free throws with 1:23 left in the second overtime, Tech ran the clock down until Mark Price drove to the basket with about 14 seconds left. He found Salley alone under the basket, and Tech's 7-0 center put the ball off the glass and drew a foul from Herman Veal. After two Maryland timeouts, Salley hit the free throw, rendering meaningless a field goal by the Terps' Keith Gatlin with four seconds left.

Tech fell behind by as many as 11 points in the second half and trailed 62-55 after Veal's jumper with 6:01 left, but the Jackets held Maryland scoreless for the remainder of regulation and Anthony Byrd hit the tying basket with a foul line jumper with 1:57 left. Byrd again tied the score with a jumper with 1:06 left in the first overtime to force the second extra session.

Georgia Tech 66, NC State 64
Dec. 16, 1984

Mark Price's 20-foot jump shot with one second left gave 12th-ranked Georgia Tech a 66-64 victory over No. 9 NC State in the Rambling Wreck's first win at Raleigh since joining the ACC.

Tech fell behind by 13 points in the first half and did not lead until six minutes into the second half. The Jackets held State to just two points in the final four minutes, and with 24 seconds left and the score tied, Tech took the ball away as Yvon Joseph forced a jump ball with Ernie Myers to set up Price's heroics.

Tech trailed 29-16 with 6:42 remaining in the first half before scoring eight straight points in a 73-second span late in the half to pull within 37-30 at the intermission.

Georgia Tech 70, Maryland 69
Dec. 28, 1984

Mark Price hit a driving layup with three seconds left to give 10th-ranked Georgia Tech a 70-69 victory over Maryland and the championship of the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Maryland's Adrian Branch, who scored 27 points, had given the Terps a one-point lead with a 20-foot baseline jumper with 41 seconds to play and had another chance to be the hero in the closing seconds. After Price's shot went in, Maryland's Jeff Adkins tried to inbound the ball from midcourt to Len Bias with two seconds left, but Tech's Scott Petway deflected the pass. Branch grabbed the ball in mid-air and shot a desperation 25-footer than rimmed out.

Georgia Tech 62, Louisville 61
Jan. 6, 1988

Tom Hammonds' 12-foot jumper gave Georgia Tech a one-point lead with seven seconds left and then the Yellow Jackets withstood a final shot by Louisville for a 62-61 victory at Freedom Hall.

Down 59-57, freshman Dennis Scott hit a three-pointer at 1:12 to the Jackets a one-point lead. Louisville answered 39 seconds later with a 12-foot jumper by Mike Abrams. After a timeout, Hammonds hit nothing but net from the right baseline. Louisville inbounded with seven seconds left and LaBradford Smith drove the length of the floor, but his shot from 16 feet bounced off the rim and fell away.

Georgia Tech 64, Maryland 62
March 8, 1986

Sophomore forward Duane Ferrell's steal, drive and dunk with just one second remaining gave Georgia Tech a dramatic, 64-62 win over Maryland and sent the Yellow Jackets into the finals of the ACC Tournament for the second straight year at the Greensboro Coliseum.

Tech had fought back from a 45-37 second half deficit to forge a tie at 62-all. But Tech's all-America guard Mark Price committed a turnover with five seconds remaining to give the ball to Maryland. But Ferrell stepped in and stole the inbounds pass at midcourt, then drove the length of the floor for the dunk and the win.

Georgia Tech 78, Georgia 77
Dec. 5, 1987

In one of the most dramatic endings of this classic rivalry, reserve forward Anthony Sherrod made the play of his career, scoring off a missed shot at the buzzer to give Georgia Tech a stunning 78-77 win over arch-rival Georgia at The Omni.

Georgia had come from 14 points down in the second half to take a 77-76 lead on a shot by Milt Blakely with seven seconds to play. Tech called time and Sherrod inbounded the ball to Dennis Scott, who had 23 points, at the far end of the floor for the final shot. Scott's shot, though, was off, but Sherrod, who had hustled the length of the floor, beat his man to the glass and the ball, putting the rebound shot through as the horn went off.

Georgia Tech 71, DePaul 70
Feb. 6, 1988

Freshman Dennis Scott stunned a national television audience and a capacity Thrillerdome crowd with a dramatic three-point field goal at the buzzer to give the Jackets another miracle, 71-70, victory over nationally-ranked DePaul. Scott, who was just 3-for-13 prior to his 28-foot game-winner, had just missed a similar shot seconds before. But a DePaul player missed two free throw attempts, and when given a second opportunity, Scott's shot was true, giving Tech the win as the fans stormed the court.

BUZZER-BEATERS

Fantastic Finishes

Georgia Tech 76, North Carolina 74
Mar. 1, 1989

Sophomore Dennis Scott's reputation as a clutch shooter was crystallized as his three-point field goal with just two seconds remaining gave Georgia Tech a stunning, 76-74 upset of North Carolina at Alexander Memorial Coliseum.

The game looked out of reach with Tech's Karl Brown at the line for two free throws and the Jackets trailing by three points. But Brown made both charity tosses and when UNC's Kevin Madden attempted to inbound the ball, Scott stole the pass from North Carolina's Scott Williams. Scott, who had a game-high 28 points, then turned and fired up a 23-foot three pointer which hit nothing but net for a 76-74 Tech victory.

Georgia Tech 93, Pittsburgh 92
Dec. 5, 1989

Dennis Scott poured in a career-high 42 points, including the game-winner as time expired to give Georgia Tech a 93-92 victory over Pitt in the ACC-Big East Challenge at Hartford, Conn. With Tech clinging to a one-point lead, Brian Oliver fouled Pitt's Jason Matthews, who made both free throws to put the Panthers ahead by one with nine seconds to play. Tech called timeout with six seconds left to set up a play for Scott, who was scoreless in the final four minutes until his game-winning shot, a leaning, left-hander from about eight feet.

Pitt used a 21-0 run to open a 26-5 lead in the first half, but Tech fought back, closing to within eight points at the half. The Jackets took their first lead at 83-81 with 6:01 left, spurred by three three-pointers by Scott.

Georgia Tech 81, Michigan St. 80 (OT)
Mar. 23, 1990

Kenny Anderson's controversial 20-foot jumper at the buzzer tied the game and Dennis Scott hit the game winner with a 12-foot hook shot with seven seconds remaining in overtime as Georgia Tech knocked off top-seeded Michigan State, 81-80, in the Southeast Regional Semifinal in New Orleans, La.

With the Spartans leading 75-73, Steve Smith missed the front end of a one-and-one with five seconds left, and Anderson, who had 31 points, took the rebound and raced down the court. The basket was originally called a three, but his foot was just inside the three-point line at the top of the key, forcing the overtime. Scott scored 18 points for Tech, while Smith led all scorers with 32 points.

Georgia Tech 112, Georgia 105 (3 OT)
Dec. 19, 1990

In a game many believe to be the greatest in Georgia Tech history, the Yellow Jackets used a 40-point outing by sophomore guard Kenny Anderson to overcome foul trouble and arch-rival Georgia for a thrilling 112-105, triple overtime victory at The Omni.

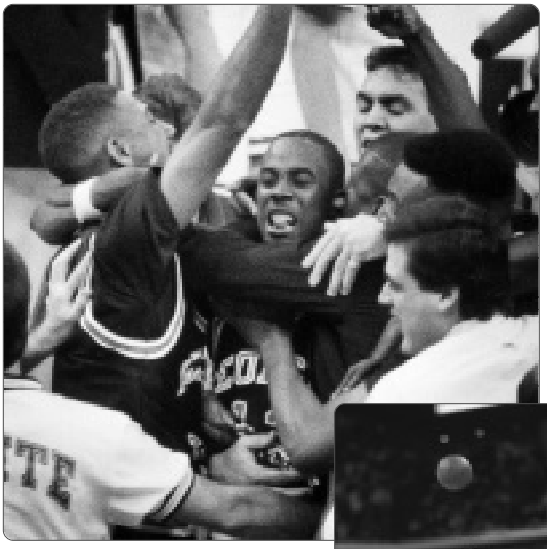
Anderson, who tied the game with a shot at the buzzer at the end of the second overtime, netted eight points in the third extra session to lead the Jackets to the win. But Tech, which lost starters Jon Barry, Malcolm Mackey and Bryan Hill to foul trouble, turned to clutch performances from a pair of little-used reserves in guard Brian Domalik and center James Munlyn.

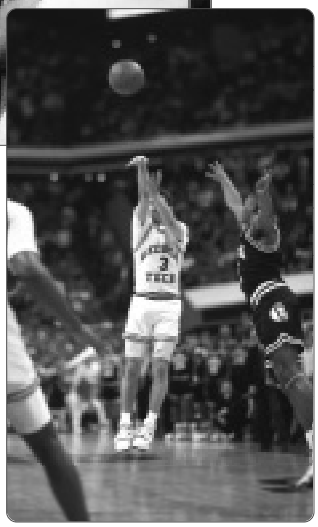
Domalik's three-pointer at the buzzer in the first overtime tied the score at 90-all, while Munlyn scored five points and grabbed five rebounds in the final two OT sessions to lead the Jackets to the emotional victory.

Georgia Tech 88, North Carolina 86
Jan. 27, 1991

Georgia Tech's Malcolm Mackey completed a three-point play with three seconds left for an 88-86 victory at seventh-ranked North Carolina, capping a 16-point, second-half rally by the Yellow Jackets.

With star point guard Kenny Anderson double-teamed, Bryan Hill took the ball with 11 seconds left, drove the length of the floor and into the lane, where he dished to Mackey for the winning basket. UNC's Rick Fox drove the baseline for an apparent game-tying layup at the buzzer, but the shot was ruled late.





FREE BASKETBALL

Kenny Anderson (above) is mobbed by teammates after his desperation basket at the end of regulation rescued Tech against Michigan State in the 1990 NCAA Regional Semifinals. Brian Domalik (right) drained a three-pointer at the buzzer in the first overtime, helping Tech outlast Georgia in triple-OT in 1990.

Tech trailed by 16 points when Jon Barry's three-pointer cut the deficit to 56-43 with 16:45 left. Barry hit another trey four minutes later at 12:44 to give the Jackets a 60-59 lead. Hill followed with a dunk to complete Tech's 22-3 run.

Georgia Tech 67, Maryland 65
Feb. 9, 1992

With Georgia Tech and Maryland tied at 65 and just 0.2 seconds on the clock, freshman James Forrest caught an inbounds pass from under the Tech basket and swished the game-winning shot for the 67-65 victory at College Park.

Maryland's Walt Williams tied the score at 65 with a pair of free throws, and Tech, which had trailed by seven points at the five minute mark, took possession with less than 45 seconds to play. After a Tech timeout with 10.8 seconds left, Forrest's shot was swatted out of bounds by Williams, leaving 0:00.2 seconds on the clock. Jon Barry inbounded the ball to Forrest, who leaped in the air from near the foul line, caught the ball and sank a 12-footer at the buzzer.

Georgia Tech 79, Southern Cal 78
Mar. 21, 1992

In a game nicknamed the "Miracle in Milwaukee," freshman forward James Forrest made a miraculous 25-foot three-pointer at the buzzer to give Georgia Tech a stunning 79-78 victory over Southern Cal in the second round of the NCAA Midwest Regional at the Bradley Center in Milwaukee, Wis.

USC had overcome an early 12-point Tech lead in this one to take a 39-38 advantage at the half. The Trojans held the lead throughout the second half, but the Jackets, behind guard Jon Barry who had 20 points, Travis Best (16) and Malcolm Mackey (16), tied the game at 76-all.

After USC's Rodney Chatman hit a six-foot jumper with 2.2 seconds remaining for a 78-76 advantage, Barry had the ball knocked out of bounds near midcourt by a USC player with just eight tenths of a second remaining. But on the inbounds pass, Tech's Matt Geiger barely found Forrest open, and the Atlanta freshman let fly with a 25-foot heave that swished through the net, advancing Tech to the Midwest Regional semifinals in Kansas City.

Georgia Tech 87, Louisville 85
Dec. 19, 1992

Sophomore James Forrest sank another miracle shot by connecting for a three-pointer at the buzzer to give the Yellow Jackets a thrilling 87-85 victory over Louisville in the first basketball game played in the Georgia Dome before 28,885 fans, the largest crowd ever to witness a basketball game in the state of Georgia.

Forrest, who led all scorers with 27 points, negated a Cardinal comeback that had seen Louisville grab the advantage-only its second lead of the second half-on a pair of free throws by Greg Minor with 2.7 seconds remaining. Tech's Malcolm Mackey inbounded to Bryan Hill at midcourt, where he called timeout with 1.9 seconds left. The intended shooter, freshman Martice Moore, was denied, but Hill found Forrest at the top of the key. Forrest turned and fired from 23 feet as Minor flew at him.

Georgia Tech 71, St. John's 69
Dec. 29, 1993

Center Ivano Newbill's layup with just 3.6 seconds left barely beat the shot clock and gave Georgia Tech a 71-69 victory over St. John's and the championship of the ECAC Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden.

With the shot clock winding down and the ball in the hands of Tech point guard Travis Best, St. John's center Shawnelle Scott went to the three-point arc to prevent a shot by Best, who then found Newbill alone under the basket for the game-winner.

BIG DEBUT

In his first game at Tech in 1998, Jason Collier had 22 points, 11 rebounds and five blocks as Tech rallied from 15 points behind to defeat Georgia in OT.

Georgia Tech 73, Duke 71 (OT)
Feb. 7, 1996

Stephon Marbury hit a 12-foot turnaround jumper in the lane with 12 seconds left in overtime for the winning basket in Georgia Tech's 73-71 victory over Duke at Alexander Memorial Coliseum. Duke's Ricky Price sent the game into overtime with a three-pointer at the end of regulation, capping a 12-5 run by the Blue Devils.

A three-pointer by Matt Harpring, followed by two more treys by Michael Maddox ignited a 14-point spurt as Georgia Tech rallied from 11 points down in the final four minutes for a 62-61 victory over Georgia in the Bulldogs' first visit to Alexander Memorial Coliseum since 1980.

After the Jackets led by as many as 10 points in the first half, Georgia took a 59-48 lead on a Ray Harrison steal and layup with 4:51 left. Tech began its run with a steal by Jon Babul and a hard foul on Kevin Morris by Georgia's Derrick Dukes on the ensuing fast break, inciting the crowd. Trailing 59-49, Morris hit both free throws to pull Tech within eight with four minutes to go.

Harpring nailed his trey at 3:41. Back-to-back three-pointers by Maddox followed, the second of which put Tech ahead, 60-59, with 2:27 to play. Maddox, who had a career high 18 points, knocked away a pass by Georgia's Jon Nordin, leading to a pair of Harpring free throws and a three-point lead with 2:05 left. Georgia's G.G. Smith hit two free throws to cut the Jackets' advantage to one, and after a Tech turnover, the Bulldogs had the ball back with just over a minute to play but never managed to get a shot off.

Georgia Tech 84, Georgia 79 (OT)
Dec. 13, 1998

In his first game in a Georgia Tech uniform, Jason Collier had 22 points, 11 rebounds and five blocked shots as the Yellow Jackets rallied from a 15-point second-half deficit for an 84-79 overtime victory over arch-rival Georgia at Alexander Memorial Coliseum. Ahead most of the game, Georgia built a 65-50 advantage with 10:33 left in the second half, but that was the Bulldogs' last field goal of regulation. Tech still trailed 72-65 when Collier hit a

FORREST FIRE

In the first college basketball game played at the Georgia Dome in 1992, James Forrest took an inbounds pass from Bryan Hill out near the center circle and sank a three-pointer that gave Tech an 87-85 victory over Louisville. Forrest also knocked down a three on an inbounds play to defeat Southern California in the 1992 NCAA Tournament.

three-pointer to cut the deficit to four points with 1:40 to play. Then Tony Akins stole the ball and fed Collier for a layup that made the score 72-70. On Tech's next possession, Akins pounced on a loose ball and was fouled, and his free throws tied the game with 34.6 seconds left. Georgia had a shot to tie, but G.G. Smith's final shot was blocked by Collier.

Collier scored the first basket of overtime to give the Jackets their first lead since 9-7. Akins, who led Tech with 24 points, added a driving layup and Darryl LaBarrie hit a field goal. After Georgia cut the lead to one, Akins sank two free throws with 20.3 seconds left, and then sealed the win with two more charity tosses. Tech hit 12 of its last 14 shots from the field, including all four in overtime.

Georgia Tech 111, Florida State 108 (2 OT)
Feb. 11, 1999

Georgia Tech's front line of Jason Collier and Alvin Jones combined for 58 points, 27 rebounds and five blocked shots as the Yellow Jackets outlasted Florida State, 111-108, in double overtime at Tallahassee, Fla. Collier had a career-high 30 points and 10 rebounds, while Jones went 10-for-12 from the field for a career-best 28 points, including 10 points in overtime, along with 17 rebounds. After FSU's Adrian Crawford sent the game into overtime with a running jumper with 4.6 seconds left, Jason Floyd rescued the Jackets with a three-pointer with 32.9 seconds left in the first overtime. The Seminoles, who had five players foul out, nearly forced another overtime, but Crawford's three-point attempt at the buzzer rolled off the rim. With 111 points, Tech set a school record for points in an ACC game and recorded its highest point total since the 1994-95 season. The combined 219 points was the highest score in an ACC game since Duke beat Maryland, 114-110, in overtime in 1990.

Georgia Tech 86, Kentucky 84
Dec. 9, 2000

Shaun Fein's 10-footer off the left baseline with 1.3 seconds remaining gave Georgia Tech an 86-84 victory over Kentucky in the Delta Air Lines Classic at Philips Arena. Fein's basket, Tech's first since the 7:03 mark, came after the Yellow Jackets had squandered an 83-70 lead in the final 6:03. Kentucky had a 14-0 run to erase the deficit, taking an 84-83 lead on Tayshaun Prince's layup with 1:04 to play. Tech tied it on a free throw by Alvin Jones, who had missed three in a row from the line in the final two minutes, with 51 seconds to play. After Keith Bogans missed a shot in the lane with 30 seconds remaining, Jones secured the rebound and Tech took a timeout with 23 seconds left to set up the game-winning play, on which Fein took a pass in the corner, faked a three-pointer, dribbled and shot. Freshman Halston Lane led the Jackets with a season-high 23 points off the bench on 9-of-13 shooting that included 4-of-7 from 3-point range. Fein added 18 points, and Tony Akins, who fed Fein for the game-winning shot, finished with 10. Lane's 3-pointer at the 7:03 mark made it 81-68 before Kentucky started its late rally that erased the deficit and set the stage for Fein's game-winner.

Georgia Tech 82, Virginia 80
Feb. 23, 2002

Marvin Lewis got free at the top of the key for the Yellow Jackets' 15th 3-pointer of the game and sank it with a second to go. Watching the ball swish through the net set off a wild celebration for the Yellow Jackets. Virginia missed four consecutive free throws in the last minute when one would likely have been enough, allowing the Jackets to rally from an 80-74 deficit. B.J. Elder hit a 3-pointer with 45 seconds left for the Yellow Jackets to start the comeback. After Roger Mason Jr. and Travis Watson missed the front ends of 1-and-1s for Virginia, Tony Akins made two free throws - he was 9-for-9 from the line - with 19 seconds left to bring Georgia Tech within 80-79. Chris Williams inbounded the ball to Watson, who was fouled again, and the 72 percent free throw shooter missed them both with 18 seconds to play. Akins dribbled the ball to kill most of the time, then got it to Lewis off a screen at the top of the key, and he nailed it from 23 feet. Akins led Georgia Tech with 23 points, while Elder had 18 and Lewis 15. The Yellow Jackets shot 55 percent and went 15-of-25 on threes.
