

Tech-Georgia Board Tries Four Students

The tribunal of the Tech-Georgia Better Relations Committee tried four Tech students last week for pranks committed November 25. The students confessed to hoisting a bedspread with "Tech" painted in bright yellow letters on the University of Georgia's flagpole, and greasing the pulleys to hinder attempts to remove it. Minutes of the meeting follow.

The tribunal met on the Georgia Tech campus for the purpose of hearing the case of Lonny Fincher and Harry Northern of Georgia Tech. Fincher and Northern were reported by Dean Tate as having been apprehended by a night watchman while hanging a "Tech" banner on a flagpole on the University of Georgia campus.

The members of the Better Relations Committee selected to serve as the tribunal were: Cecil Spooner, Lamar Harris, and Hasel Parker of the University; and Don Gordon, Dick Clement, and Deck Hull of Tech. Dan Blitch served as non-voting chairman of the tribunal.

The letter from Dean Tate was read to Fincher and Northern, who both pleaded guilty to hanging the banner, but stated that neither had been discourteous to the Dean.

While Northern waited downstairs, Fincher told the tribunal the story of the case and was questioned at length by members of the tribunal. He stated that two other Tech students accompanied him and Northern to Athens, but was unable to give their exact names.

Northern was heard from next. He told the story of the trip to Athens and was questioned by the tribunal. He stated that the other two men were: Bunyan McPherson and "Rusty" Miller.

The members of the tribunal discussed the case and alternatives

of punishment for Tech students.

Since no physical damage had resulted from the episode, the tribunal felt that the case was not serious enough to warrant recommendation of a permanent offense. Realizing that if some action was not taken, pranks of a more serious nature might result, the tribunal recommended that all four students—Lonny Fincher, Harry Northern, Bunyan McPherson, and "Rusty" Miller—be severely reprimanded by the Executive Dean and that the Georgia Tech Student Trial Board be notified that these students were involved in such a case and that it be considered if these students ever appear before the Trial Board.

Interfraternity Council Plans Winter Quarter Blood Drive

The Interfraternity Council has chosen for their annually sponsored blood drive the last Friday and Saturday in January and the first Friday and Saturday in February. The last blood drive sponsored here yielded the disappointing total of 511 pints of blood. The IFC hopes that this year this total can be greatly increased.

Last year only the fraternities participated, which was perhaps the reason that so little blood was collected. IFC sponsorship of the drive does not mean that the remainder of the campus is excluded from blood donation. The number of students on the Tech campus is quite sufficient to exceed the national college record for blood donation: 1400 pints, achieved by a college in Texas last year.

Importance of Blood

The scheduling of the drive for early in the new year is appropriate. Perhaps then students will still have some of the spirit of good will left over from the holidays. A pint of blood is an excellent Christmas present for a service man, to whom blood is of vital importance. Many students will some day see combat service; they need not wait that long to learn the value of a blood donation.

The giving of blood is a simple operation, involving no pain or discomfort to the donor. The only possible inconvenience is the loss of a few minutes' time. As an incentive toward the donation of blood, the IFC will present awards for outstanding donations of blood by fraternities. A cup will go to the fraternity with the largest number of donors and to the fraternity with the largest percentage of donors.

Sign A Release

Students under twenty-one who wish to donate blood must have a release signed by their parents. Otherwise they will not be allowed to give blood. Release forms will be printed in The Technique at a later date, and can be obtained also from the IFC. A very convenient time for students to have this release signed is during the holidays.

The IFC hopes that students will turn out to give blood in larger numbers than ever before. If every man on the campus were to give one pint of blood, the total amount of blood collected would triple the present national record. It is possible, but only the students of Georgia Tech can make it a reality.

Fraternities To Aid Empty Stocking Fund

JC's To Award Trophy To Winning Solicitor

Early Sunday morning, Tech fraternity men will rise and prepare for the annual sale of newspapers for the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce. This is the 26th consecutive year that fraternity men from the campuses of Tech and Emory have participated in the annual Empty Stocking Fund drive for the purpose of collecting money for the underprivileged children of Fulton and DeKalb Counties.

Since 1939 the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce has been sponsoring the drive to make Christmas a joyous event for the underprivileged children of the two counties. This year the JC's have set their goal toward helping 10,000 needy children between the ages of one and fourteen years. It is estimated that the amount necessary will be approximately $50,000. Collectors including the Tech and Emory fraternities will cover every house in the Atlanta area and will seek funds through the sale of the Empty Stocking Edition of the Sunday Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

Trophies Awarded

As an incentive toward collecting the most money for the fund, trophies will be awarded to the two fraternities, one at Tech and one at Emory, who gather the largest amount of funds per member. Fraternity men will meet at 7:00 a. m. Sunday morning; each will be given a collection bag, a lapel streamer, a pin, return envelopes and door stickers, not to mention a number of the special editions of the Journal-Constitution. Instructions concerning the area to be covered will be given to the leader of each group, and the campaign will begin no later than 8:00 o'clock.

An extra 5,000 children were helped last year since the collectors from Tech and Emory did so well around the area. In the final totals it was discovered that the Emory collectors did slightly better than the Tech fraternity men. They had a total of three dollars more than Tech. The competition in the past years has been extremely keen and the amounts collected in recent years have been quite larger than those of previous years.

Contributions

Students should remember that money is not the only type of contribution possible. Donations of all types will be accepted; such items as old clothes, canned goods or any other articles that can be used or sold for the benefit of the orphans will be gratefully accepted. The Empty Stocking Fund, sponsored for the benefit of children who must depend on the generosity of the community for their very livelihood, will be a rousing success only if all fraternity men give it their solid backing.

With an expected 6,000 collectors on the job Sunday, it is hoped that the total of $52,000 in last year's drive can be topped. Workers from Tech may pick up all of the needed equipment at the Naval Armory at 3:00 Saturday afternoon so that they may be on the job promptly at 8:00 the next morning.

Technique

It is suggested that the solicitors develop a technique for selling the papers rather than simply asking for contributions. A newspaper should be left at every home regardless of whether donations are given or not. Another helpful suggestion is that each collector wear a dollar bill attached to his lapel streamer and that he wish every solicited person a Merry Christmas.

By 3:00 the workers will return the bags of money to their section leader. If any Tech fraternity finishes its section and wishes to continue working, they may contact Donald J. Crawley, their district supervisor, by calling AT. 4343.

Arnold Air Society Elects Twenty-Six From Junior Class

Twenty-six outstanding ROTC students were recently made members of the Arnold Air Society, the honor society of the Air ROTC. To gain admittance to this organization each of the twenty-six had to be an advanced Air Force student with an average grade of B or better in military. In addition, each man had to receive a majority vote by the society for acceptance.

The new members, who were formally initiated Monday, December 1, are: Arthur Bruce, Jr.; S. M. Brown; Thomas F. Debban; Fred E. Ehrensperger; Bobby P. Elder; Roy C. Graffham; Leland H. Gregory; Arthur E. Griffith; Jewell B. Hudgins; Walter H. Hopkins; Thomas R. Kirkland; Marshall F. Keen; Frederick B. Law; T. S. Landon; John W. Langford; Matthew A. Lyons; John T. Matison, Jr.; T. L. Newberry; Thurman H. Palmer; Charles J. Peterson; C. H. Ramsey, Jr.; Leland R. Speed; Robert P. Reimert; Emory L. Upshaw, Jr.; Robert C. Wade; Roger F. Weber.

At various times throughout the year the society will present films, lectures, and discussions on aeronautical subjects, in this manner furthering interest in airpower. This is the primary objective of the Society.

The present officers of the organization are John B. Day, Squadron Commander; E. J. Dennard, Executive Officer; R. L. Kuzma, Operations Officer; J. L. Rice, Secretary and Treasurer; Bob Bullard, Adjutant Recorder; F. E. Rogers, Provost Marshall; W. E. Florence, Public Information Officer.

Winning Themes Read at Meeting Of ASCE Chapter

The student chapter of ASCE held a joint meeting with its parent society Saturday, December 6, at the American Legion Club. Two prize-winning papers were presented by student chapter members, Charles V. Tucker and W. R. McCahan. The topic of Mr. Tucker's paper, which won the Junior prize was "A Brief History of Portland Cement." Mr. McCahan, winning the Senior prize, wrote on "Pre-stressed Concrete Construction Procedures." The second place winners in each group were presented certificates for their fine work; these were Dick Binion, a Junior, and Carl T. Decker, Jr., a Senior. Receiving honorable mention was Bruce Cunningham.

Speaker

Georgia Section President Warren Mann introduced the speaker, the Vice-President of Armco Steel Corp. and the head of its mining division, Mr. Leo F. Reinartz. Mr. Reinartz' lecture was a thorough discussion of the need for worldwide cooperation between free nations in order that their economies may remain stable and the peace of the world become secure. He explained in detail the problems and ambitions of Armco in its attempt to supply the steel needs of the United States and the rest of the free world.

Social Hour

The final session of the annual meeting began with a social hour given by retiring President Warren Mann and Mrs. Mann. Following dinner, several talks were given by such persons as Col. W. M. Carey and James A. Higgs, and several life memberships were presented. Closing the meeting were short speeches by the retiring President and the new President, M. L. Shadburn.

Essay Contest for Seniors Provides $5,000 Worries

Talk about worry . . . ever offer to give away $5,000? If not, you don't know what worry is, according to the sponsors of an essay contest for college seniors on "The Meaning of Academic Freedom." They describe their worries in a recent news release to The Technique as follows:

"The deadline for entries is December 31—only a few weeks off. We are on pins and needles . . . Maybe seniors have forgotten about the contest! Or maybe they will start their essays too late and miss the deadline!

"When we first announced the contest, we had a different sort of worry . . . With $2,500 as a first prize, what is to stop all the seniors in all the colleges, thousands and thousands of seniors, from swamping our eminent judges with essays?

"But now we wonder . . . Is anybody out there in the audience? Is anybody writing? What moves a senior? $2,500? Maybe he expects to make millions next year and isn't interested in such a paltry sum. Glory? Maybe he expects to be so famous he is above mere nation-wide recognition. Competition? Maybe he thinks more than one is a crowd. Academic freedom? Maybe he doesn't value his own views on the subject.

"We worry, too, that maybe the senior is a worrier. Maybe he thinks: why should I take the time to dash off up to 2500 words of clarity, brilliance, perhaps greatness on academic freedom? Who will read it? Strangers? They may not even understand it!

"We hope the senior does not have this worry. His essay will be superbly understood, because contest judges are Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, Dr. Ralph Bunche, Nobel peace prize winner, former Attorney General Thurman Arnold, Mrs. Douglas Horton, former president of Wellesley College and Dr. Abram L. Sachar, president of Brandeis University.

"But does the senior know what kind of essay is wanted? Maybe he does not know that he has utmost latitude, and may discuss whatever he thinks is relevant. Is he concerned about the requirements of academic freedom? Or its responsibilities? Or its value to students? Or its history? Or its meaning as applied to current events? Whatever he believes to be most important about academic freedom, or least understood about it, or most likely to contribute to public understanding of it—that is relevant. Most important, we are convinced that what the senior has to say is important.

"We hope the senior does not procrastinate. We hope he will write his 2,500-word essay and send it in practically immediately,

Cagers Lose to Auburn; Meet Gamecocks Tonight

A second half scoring spree by the Auburn Plainsmen enabled them to move from a one point halftime advantage to a 71-61 victory over Georgia Tech's fighting, but inexperienced Yellow Jackets Wednesday evening. It was the first game of the year for Tech and Auburn's third straight win of the infant season.

Both quintets played on even terms throughout the first half, but as soon as the ball was put into play in the third quarter the Plainsmen took command and started swishing the nets with their shots. By the end of the third period Auburn had built up a 57 to 45 advantage and the Jackets never threatened seriously thereafter.

Silas Scores 15

"Pencil Pete" Silas, picked for All-SEC honors in a pre-season poll, led the Jacket attack by bucketing 15 points. Close behind Silas was Eric Crake who popped the nets for 13 points. Auburn's center, Bob Fenn, shared scoring honors with Silas by also shooting 15 points through the hoops.

The game did not count in Southeastern Conference standings under the regional setup being used this year. A later match with Auburn which will be played in the Tech gym is the game which will count in the league standings.

Jackets Play Tonight

Tech should improve tremendously as the season progresses. Coach Whack Hyder has several freshmen on the squad who need only a little added experience to become excellent players. Tech students will have their first opportunity to see the squad in action tonight. The Gamecocks from the University of South Carolina will do battle with the Jackets in the Tech gym.

Fifteenth Student Earns Place In Sigma Delta Psi

Arthur Kern, a third quarter freshman hailing from Kingsport, Long Island, became the fifteenth student in the history of Georgia Tech to gain admission to Sigma Delta Psi, national honorary fraternity in the field of athletics. A trackman in high school, Arthur, who prefers to be called Art, is not out for a varsity sport at Tech. He is probably the first freshman to ever gain admittance to the local chapter of Sigma Delta (Continued on page 4)

Football And Volleyball Playoffs Complete Fall Intramural Sports

By Wilfred Smith

The playoffs of the volleyball and football leagues are now well under way to determine the fraternity champion in each sport. The winners in the playoffs of all intramural sports receive points for the IFC trophy. When the volleyball and football playoffs are finished, the winner will play the ISO champs, Techwood Dorm in football and Newman Club in volleyball, for the school championship.

The Week's Games

The football playoffs are scheduled to be finished today with the winner meeting Techwood Sunday for the school championship. Games for Friday match Sigma Alpha Epsilon against Sigma Phi Epsilon and Tau Epsilon Phi against Delta Tau Delta. The SAE's won their first two games in the playoffs, SPE and Delta Tau Delta won one and lost one while Tau Epsilon Phi lost both of their starts. In the latest games, played last Tuesday, SAE jumped off to an early lead and by halftime held an 18-0 advantage over the Deltas. The Deltas scored their lone touchdown in the third quarter on an intercepted pass, but the final score read SAE 18, Deltas 6. The other game Tuesday matched SPE and the Tau Eps, with the SPE squad holding a 40-6 lead at the final whistle.

Volleyball Playoffs

The volleyball playoffs began Wednesday with SAE taking three from Theta Xi by 15-5, 15-8, and 15-3 scores. The closest games possible were the story of the first two played between Sigma Nu and AEPI. The AEPI's eked out 15-13, 17-15 wins over Sigma Nu before completely dominating the last game and winning by a 15-4 count.

The intramural schedule for next quarter calls for paddleball, basketball, bowling, and gym. The first three sports will begin very early in the quarter with the gym meet to be worked out at a later date. Paddleball will be played in doubles only and a bracket form of competition will be played. There is a maximum of three teams that any organization can enter and any organizations wishing to enter are requested to turn in the names of their teams as soon as possible after the beginning of the winter quarter. Basketball will be played at the gym and the armory and the schedules will be sent out early in the quarter. Bowling will be played only on Friday afternoons at five o'clock and will cost $3.75 for each team for the three games. Any additional information can be received from Coach Plaxico.

Psi although no records are available to verify this.

When questioned as to the difficulty of the 14 tests, Art replied, "I found some of the tests fairly difficult, and I believe that the hurdles gave me the roughest time." The 14 tests are varied and cover almost every athletic field.

Coach Lyle Welser, in charge of the tests, says that the taking of these tests is not encouraged until the spring quarter as the swimming pool and gym are being used this quarter. The only persons taking the tests now are those who started last spring and did not have time to complete them. Two such boys are Glenn Turner and Eric Crake who are expected to become the sixteenth and seventeenth members of the fraternity shortly.
