

JOSEPH M. PETTIT
President

1977 BLUEPRINT

GEORGIA INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

ATLANTA, GEORGIA

VOLUME LXX

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Student Life	18
Beauties	82
Organizations	94
Academics	146
Sports	198
Greeks	264
Classes	344
Index/Ads	426

Copyright © 1977 by Jeffrey P. Lane and the Board of Student Publications, Georgia Institute of Technology. All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means without express written permission from the editor or the Student Publications Board.

Every university leaves a lasting impression on the students who call it home for four years. Academically, emotionally, professionally, and personally, the school a person attends has an important influence on his life. Each school has a personality of its own, which is reflected in the personalities of its students and faculty.

Georgia Tech is rich in tradition, rich in spirit, animated by a personality all its own. In this BLUEPRINT we have attempted to portray this personality. Through the architecture of Tech and the city of Atlanta, through images of the people and places we see all around us, through the shifting frame of the seasons of the year, the personality of Tech manifests itself to us.

In addition, by taking a more in-depth look at several outstanding members of the Tech community, we have tried to portray some of the individuals that make the Institute a home.

Georgia Tech is many things to many different people. Nobody would deny, however, that Ma Tech has a personality all her own, and therein lies the story of the 1977 BLUEPRINT.

