The Georgia Tech Architecture Library is the only branch library on campus. It is located in the College of Architecture (COA) – West Building. The Library serves the research needs of the students and faculty of COA but any Georgia Tech student can use the Library and its resources. The Library provides 50,000 books on the topics of architecture and design, the built environment, city planning, and building construction. Also available are hundreds of journals, including rare 19th-century journals, and access to electronic databases such as the Avery Index to Architectural Periodicals. The Library also serves as a study space for students and includes a computer lab, exhibit space, and a rare book room. Hours of operation are Monday-Thursday: 8am-Midnight, Friday: 8am-6pm, Saturday: 9am-6pm, Sunday: Noon-Midnight. Visit the Architecture Library website or call 404-894-4877 for more information.
